Idled Auto Workers Lose $200 Million in Wages

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — An end to the economy-pinching, 28-day-old strike against gigantic General Motors Corp. may come over the weekend.

And if it does, it will return more than 300,000 automakers to assembly lines and still more thousands to jobs in supplier plants and the transportation industry. Idled auto workers alone will have lost some $200 million in wages.

The United Auto Workers Union Wednesday ordered its 130 units within the GM empire to take a vote Sunday on ending the strike.

President Johnson prodded both company and union Monday for speedy agreement. He said strike continuance would "jeopardize the continuous upward thrust of our economy" and it was beginning to affect production and employment in other industries.

Leonard Woodcock, a UAW vice president and chief of its GM department, said the vote call was prompted in part by the President's request for settlement action.

He said two other consideration were involved: 1. The pocketbook-pinch on UAW members and their families. 2. The strike's deteriorating effect on the national economy.

The walkout came Sept. 25 in support of union demands in new national contract bargaining. But when agreement was reached Oct. 5 on a new over-all national contract, the UAW made return to work contingent on settlement of at the plant working agreements which supplement it.

Auto labor contracts often have set national patterns. But in expressing pleasure when the Oct. 5 agreement was reached, President Johnson cautioned less profitable industries against following what he called a generous settlement.

The auto companies have announced they expect to hold the line generally on new car prices. The President said this was welcome news, because a new round of inflation could erode the nation's export surplus and undermine American expansion.

The new economic packages in autos include sharply higher pensions, early retirement incentives, longer vacations, two new holidays, more relief time and broader insurance coverage, plus wage increases. A Christmas bonus of $25 to $100 is possible also at Ford and General Motors.

Chrysler and Ford came to terms ahead of GM, and UAW President Walter P. Reuther estimated the pacts worth 54 cents hourly over their three-year span.

U. N. Chief Is Urging Atom Talk With Reds

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Thant called today for a nuclear conference of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Communist China.

At a news conference, Thant also said he believed deposed Soviet leader Nikita S. Khrushchev should be permitted to "make a public statment on the circumstances of his exit" from power in Moscow.

He said he knew personally both Leonid E. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin, Khrushchev's successors in Kremlin power, and believed there would be no major change in Soviet foreign policy.

"Perhaps there is a possibility of a change in emphases," he said.

Thant said Communist China's nuclear explosion last week was both "deplorable" and "regrettable" in view of U.N. resolutions condemning all such tests.

He noted that Alfred M. Landon, 1936 U.S. Republican presidential candidate and former Kansas governor, suggested Tuesday that the United States should consider Red China's proposal for a conference of nuclear powers.

"I believe that one aspect of his proposal, regarding the need of a dialogue between the present nuclear powers has some merit," Thant said.

"I feel that it could be very worthwhile if attempts were made to have a dialogue between the United States, the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom, France and the Peoples Republic of China, perhaps sometime in 1965."

Thant said, however, that he would not sponsor such nuclear talks.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China rejected today President Johnson's suggestion that it sign the limited nuclear test ban treaty and repeated its call for a global summit meeting to abolish nuclear weapons.

It had been expected that the United States would answer this call by proposing through diplomatic channels that the Peking regime sign the test ban treaty which more than 100 nations have signed.

President Johnson, in fact, said Sunday night in a televised speech to the nation: "We call on the World — especially Red China — to join the nations which have signed it (the treaty)."

An editorial today in the official Peking People's Daily called the treaty "nothing but a fraud," adding "How can we be expected to walk into the trap now that we possess the means to break the nuclear monopoly of the United States?

"China is by no means obsessed by the idea of possessing nuclear weapons," the editorial continued. "It will stop developing them as soon as U.S. imperialism does so."

Nobel Prize for Literature Rejected By Sartre; Says He Will Explain Later

By FREDERICK LAUDON

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) —Jean - Paul Sartre, atheistic philosopher who argues that man lives in a purposeless world, was awarded the 1964 Nobel prize for literature today. Sartre promptly rejected the prize.

The Swedish Academy of Letters said it awarded Sartre the tax-free cash award of $52,500 prize for his "imaginative writing, which by reason of its spirit of freedom and striving for truth had exercised a far-reaching influence of our age."

But in Paris, Sartre, 59, said: "It is true that I refused the prize."

Sartre, however, declined to give any more details, adding that "I must reserve explanation for the Swedish press."

"You will learn of it soon enough from the world's press," he said.

Swedish sources in Paris confirmed that Sartre sent a letter to the Swedish academy two days ago saying he would not accept the prize money that goes with the award if it were offered to him.

Sartre's award came just a week after the nobel peace prize was awarded to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Negro American civil rights leader.

The 1964 Nobel prize for medicine was awarded last week, too, to professors Feodor Lynen of Germany and Konrad Bloch of Harvard for their independent research on cholesterol.

Another Nikita Friend Missing In Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Ailing Frol R. Kozlov's name was missing today from a list of members of the Soviet Communist party presidium.

Western observers interpreted the omission as a possible hint of a further shakeup in the ruling Kremlin elite.

The list of presidium members and other top government and party figures appeared under obituaries of Soviet military leaders killed Monday in a plane crash in Yugoslavia.

Official sources said today Kozlov had not signed the obituaries because of his illness. He suffered a crippling stroke in April, 1963, and has dropped out of active political life.

Despite his illness, Kozlov's name had been in previous official lineups of top presidium officials.

Herbert Hoover Memorial Services Held

By CHARLES F. JUSTICE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The great and the near great and politicians of both parties gathered here today for private memorial services for former President Herbert Clark Hoover at St. Bartholomew's Church.

Rep. William E. Miller, Republican candidate for Vice President, was the first of the major candidates to arrive for the service. President Johnson and his GOP opponent for the presidency, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, and Democratic vice presidential nominee, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, are expected this afternoon.

Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower had planned to attend but announced that an "acute attack" of laryngitis would keep him at home in Gettysburg, Pa. Former President Harry S. Truman, convalescing in Independence, Mo.,

U. S. Aid Helped Reds to Unify, Barry Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says the Johnson administration has "followed a policy that brought back unity and greater strength" among the Communist nations.

Commenting on the recent leadership change in the Soviet Union and Red China's first atomic blast, Goldwater declared Wednesday night:

"We are now brought face to face with reality. We must now confront an enemy reunified and strengthened by our policy of aid."

Goldwater replied to President Johnson's Sunday night speech assessing recent world developments. The Republican party bought a half-hour on the ABC television network, after the Federal Communications Commission ruled the networks did not have to give Goldwater equal time to answer Johnson.

The GOP presidential nominee said the administration's foreign policy has been "an utter failure."

Goldwater emphasized that because of last week's events, "the Communist threat to our security has become more grave. The dissension in Com-

Burglar Used Bed; Took Valuables

Who's been sleeping on my bed, John L. Epp no doubt wondered Tuesday.

Epp, 1218 W. Costilla St., and his wife returned from a hunting trip and discovered that someone had laid down on their bed, as the pillows were "messed up" and the blanket re-folded.

They also discovered, according to a sheriff's office report, that the someone had taken an Ingraham clock; a Navy cap (with Epp's initials inside the band); a gold wedding band with four diamonds and Italian ring decorated with a snake and one diamond, and a black onyx ring with a knight's head.

Epp placed the items' value at $125.

The couple had been away from home since Oct. 15. Deputies found no sign of a forced entry.

LBJ Says GOP Suffers From 'Smearlash'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says a "smear lash" is causing Republicans to desert "the temporary leaders of their party."

The President, who takes time off from campaigning today to attend memorial services for former President Herbert Hoover in New York, addressed a cheering throng Wednesday night in downtown St. Louis, Mo.

He said a Republican leader in Illinois, whom he did not identify, had told him that in the previous 48 hours there had been marked defections of party members from the GOP ticket.

"He told me," Johnson said, "that it's not the backlash and it's not the front lash, it's the smear lash. When some people get desperate they get dangerous. When they get dangerous they are not cautious. And when they get to smearing the people do not want to go along."

As he rode into the crowd of several thousand persons at a street corner in St. Louis, Johnson obviously did not see a sign borne aloft which said: "Jenkins, Johnson's Profumo."

Walter W. Jenkins, formerly a top Johnson aide, was asked by the President to resign after it

Reds in France Demand Explanation

PARIS (AP) — The French Communist party, second largest in the West, has reflected mounting Red concern over Nikita Khrushchev's ouster by calling on Moscow to explain just what happened.

The political bureau of the party, which ranks next to Italy's in size, said it wants more information on "conditions and methods by which the Soviet premier and party first secretary was dumped last week.

"For this reason the political bureau has decided to ask the central committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union to receive a delegation of the French Communist party," an announcement said.

The announcement from the French Reds was only one sign of dissatisfaction among Europe's Communists with the sudden overthrow of Khrushchev and preliminary steps by the Soviet party to disgrace him.

From Berlin came a report that meetings called by East German party leaders to try to explain Khrushchev's downfall

Mobster May Be Dead, Say New York Cops

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Death at the hands of underworld executioners probably was the fate of Cosa Nostra boss Joseph (Joe Bananas) Bonanno, police believe. They say they have no clues in his reported kidnaping.

Bonanno's lawyer said two gunmen forced Bonnano into a car early Wednesday on Park Avenue. He said they fired a shot at him as he chased them.

Police said Wednesday night they believed it was a kidnaping and not a ruse to enable Bonnano to avoid testifying before a federal grand jury. He had been scheduled to appear Wednesday.

Asked what might have happened to Bonnano, Asst. Chief Inspector Walter F. Henning said: "You don't find them alive any more. After all, we've never found Tony Bender."

Bender disappeared from his home in Fort Lee, N.J., two years ago. Mobster Joseph Valachi testified last year before the Senate Crime subcommittee that Bender was murdered by the Cosa Nostra, also known as the Mafia or the Syndicate.

Valachi also told the committee that Bonanno was one of the top figures in the Cosa Nostra, and the chieftain of one of five "families" or gangs that control the rackets in metropolitan New York.

Bonanno, 59, who maintains homes in Brooklyn and Tucson, Ariz., was at the Apalachin, N.Y., underworld convention in 1957 that was broken up by State Police.

Detectives and FBI agents searched the city for Bonanno and began rounding up his acquaintances and relatives. They

Extreme Fire Danger Seen In Pike Forest

The fire danger in Pike National Forest has reached the highest designation of "extreme," reports the U.S. Forest Service.

The danger would be extreme even without the high winds today, according to the supervisor's office of Pike National Forest.

This Saturday, as the deer season opens on the Eastern Slope and Pike Forest, the supervisor's office will send up a spotting plane to look for fires.

In addition, Forest Service crews will be standing by in Woodland Park and Colorado Springs to rush to the scene of a fire. A B-17 slurry bomber, carrying a 2,000 pound load of a mud - water mix, is ready to take off on five minutes' notice from Peterson Field.

The eight men from Pike Forest, who were fighting a forest fire near Laramie, Wyo., returned this week.

Presently slurry bombers operating out of Laramie are dropping slurry on a 30-acre fire near Trapper's Lake in White River National Forest. Thirty Arizona Indian firefighters have joined the fight to extinguish this blaze.

Two Candidates Not Eligible, Tarter Charges

El Paso County Republican Central Committee Chairman Weldon Tartar charged in a letter to the Democratic Central Committee Chairman John Bennett that "there are at least two men who are Democratic candidates to public office. . .who are ineligible to be candidates for such offices."

Tartar said the ineligibility existed because the candidates were not affiliated with the Democratic party prior to their nomination, as provided by Colorado law.

He added that the two candidates, if elected, will not be able to take office. The names of the candidates and offices they seek were not mentioned by Tartar.

However, Bennett said the objection was being raised to the nomination of Norman Bodinger, candidate for the state senate from District 12, and Gerald Lindsey, candidate for state representative from District 23, in a letter to Tartar dated Wednesday.

Bennett said Bodinger first affiliated with the Democratic Party May 21, 1962 and voted in the primary election. He said he was not able to vote in the general election of 1962 and his name was "purged" from the registration lists. "Not realiz-

Charges May Fail in Civil Rights Slaying

By JAMES SAGGUS

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department may drop efforts to obtain federal grand jury indictments in the slaying of three civil rights workers at Philadelphia, informed sources said today.

The sources, who declined to be identified, said the department had made no final decision but was considering a move to ask the Neshoba County grand jury at Philadelphia to hear the cases instead of pressing for federal grand jury action.

The sources said one factor leading the government to consider presenting its evidence to the county grand jury was that the federal body could indict only on violations of civil rights laws, while the county jury could indict for murder, a capital offense.

The federal grand jury sat at Biloxi last month and heard evidence in the Philadelphia case.

Court sources said the 23-member grand jury decided by a one vote margin against indicting in the slaying of the

Nine Americans Missing on Exploration Trip

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP)— An airplane search was planned today for a party of nine Americans missing in the Sierra Madre mountains.

The group, most of them from Orem, Utah, left Chihuahua two weeks ago to explore the San Miguel River in rubber boats. They planned to arrive in Agua Caliente, in neighboring Sinaloa State, in five days.

John L. Cross, leader of the party, disappeared on a similar expedition in the same uninhabited area one year ago. U.S. Air Force planes found the party in good condition after a five-day search.

Besides Cross and his wife, the missing members are Mr. and Mrs. John L. Cross Jr., Jimmy Cross, Arthur Turner, Mrs. Elaine Kiney, William H. Janssen and Homer Kausman.

Goldwater Stops Controversial Campaign Film

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona has nipped plans for the nationwide televising of a Republican campaign film which originally included shots of stripteasers and a girl in a topless swim suit.

A group of Goldwater backers who had the 30-minute film made for $65,000, said its aim was to show "moral decay" in the nation. Although today's planned showing is out, the film's sponsors apparently hope to have edited versions shown later on local stations.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey had called the film "the sickest political program" ever planned for television.

The Democratic National Committee bought an unedited copy of the film, and newsmen at Democratic headquarters were shown enlarged photos said to have been taken from it. They included a side-rear view of a girl in a topless swim suit, a near nude man, and several shots of street rioting.

The Citizens for Goldwater-Miller had the film made and titled it "Choice." The group bought 125 copies.

The Republican presidential candidate saw the film for the first time Wednesday in a hotel room in Philadelphia. Later his press secretary, Paul Wagner, said "he does not believe it is appropriate for a political campaign in its present form."

About the same time, Republican National Chairman Dean Burch issued a terse statement

Illinois Voters To Be Confronted By 236 Choices

By CHARLES WHALEN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Pity the Illinois voter when he goes to the polls Nov. 3.

No one else in the nation will be confronted with his headache — marking a separate ballot nearly three feet long and a foot wide and listing 236 choices for the Illinois House.

This separate orange-colored ballot is necessary because reapportionment has forced Illinois to elect state representatives on an at-large basis instead of by districts.

If the voter becomes color blind, there will be a reason.

Not only will he see orange, he will be given a white ballot listing candidates for President and state offices, a blue one on constitutional amendments, and a green ballot on judges.

What makes it more confusing is the voter has a variety of options in selecting his choices for the legislature. One little mistake can void his ballot.

Of the 236 names on the legislative ballot, 118 are listed in the Democratic column and 118 on the Republican side.

A voter can pick up to 177

Passenger Drops Dead In Airplane

A 57-year old New Jersey man dropped dead Wednesday afternoon in a plane at Peterson Field, according to a sheriff's office report.

The plane, enroute from Denver to Phoenix, landed here around 1 p.m. for a short layover. A passenger, Nelson Finks of Westfield, N.J., got out of his seat and started down the aisle, and suddenly fell.

A fellow passenger, Dr. Clifford Thomas of Pangbourne, Berkshire, England, pronounced him dead.

The body was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E & R Ambulance. Assistant County Coroner Clarence West told sheriff's deputies that the body would be taken to Swan Mortuary Thursday and that Dr. Raoul Urich, county coroner, would perform an autopsy.

Harold C. Martin of Denver, a traveling companion of the man, identified him as an employe of the American Telephone Co.

Another Batch Of Chilly Air Cools Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dry and fairly chilly weather prevailed across most of the eastern half of the nation today but temperatures generally were the highest in several days in most areas.

Another batch of cold air from Canada spread into northern sections of the Midwest and the Northeast. Cool weather again was reported in much of the Southeast but southerly breezes moderated temperatures. However, the mercury dropped to 40 in Tallahassee, in northern Florida.

Temperatures in the cool belt ranged from the 20s to the 40s.

Showers and snow flurries dampened areas from the Great Lakes region to the northern Appalachians and New England. Similar wet weather was reported in the northern Rockies but skies were mostly clear in other parts of the nation.

The warm spell continued along the Southern California Coast and in the desert regions of California and Arizona. The mercury reached 94 in Los Angeles Wednesday, the third day of 90-plus temperatures. The warm, dry conditions created a high fire danger in sections of Southern California.

ADC Family Housing Gets Top Design Award

Capehart Family Housing at Air Defense Command's Oxnard Air Force Base, Oxnard, Calif., today received a Merit Award for superior design from James H. Berry, director of the Los Angeles office of the Federal Housing Administration. The award was made on behalf of P. N. Brownstein, FHA Commissioner, during ceremonies in Los Angeles which climaxed an agency-wide design program sponsored by the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Oxnard AFB is the home of ADC's 414th Fighter Group and 437th Fighter Interceptor Squadron. Both units within the Los Angeles Air Defense Sector, stand ready for defense of the defense of the southwestern coastal area.

The project was designed by Porter, O'Brien and Armstrong of Los Angeles. The builder was Cedric Sanders Co., Santa Ana, California, and the owner is the Department of the Air Force, Washington, D.C.

The Capehart subdivision was one of 10 entries that received a Merit Award out of a total of nearly 200 submissions. In all, 26 awards were presented: 9 Honor Awards, 10 Merit Awards, and 7 Special Citations. Of the 26 winners, 7 are in the multi-family category; 13 are single-family homes, and 6 are housing for the elderly or nursing homes.

A 19-member advisory committee of prominent architects, landscape architects, community planners, and consumer specialists met in Washington, D.C., where they carefully analyzed the merits of all entries and made recommendations for awards to Commissioner Brownstein.

In its comments about the Capehart subdivision, the committee said: "We consider this a very good all around job. For military housing it is as fine as we have seen. The plan is pleasing and the simple handling of the materials is commendable. The living environment is attractive, and the landscaping enhances the total scene."

The FHA awards program, which was initiated last year, housing design, and is a step toward attaining the National Housing Act objective of encouraging improvement in housing standards and conditions.

President Johnson, in a commendatory letter to Robert C. Weaver, HHFA Administrator, wrote: "This program carries beyond the immediate recognition of creative architects, designers, planners and builders. It gives us in the Federal Government an opportunity to stimulate better design in all housing and community development."

Car With Flat Taken Before Owner Returns

A man left a car on the Woodmen Valley Road Sunday, and when he returned Tuesday to pick it up, someone else had beat him to it.

Leo Mohl, 2801 W. Boulder St., reported this to the sheriff's office Wednesday. He said his son was driving the car and had a flat. He left the car because he didn't have a spare.

Mohl said the car was a brown 1955 Ford and placed its value at $150.

New TV Star Still Shakes His Noggin

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — When Jim Nabors finally realizes that he is a star he can stop being embarrassed by a starlike accessory, the very elegant Imperial which he apologetically drives.

As the star of CBS-TV's Gomer Pyle—USMC, Nabors has one of the early hits of the season, according to ratings. He has a familiar face, since he played Gomer in several episodes of The Andy Griffith Show, from which his series spun off.

But he is still shaking his head in wonder, still unused to being recognized in public, and still incredulous that he, Jim Nabors from Sylacauga, Ala., is a celebrity worthy of being a guest (as he was last season) on Danny Kaye's show.

When Gomer Pyle — USMC went into production, half of the crew working on the series had formerly been with Griffith. "I felt I needed some friends," Jim smiles. Aaron Ruben, who produces the series, also produces Andy's popular show. Jim is a big Ruben fan.

"He is the one person who really knows Gomer. Aaron is one of the brightest faces in the business. He is from New York and when he began Andy's show, he knew very little of Southern life. So he went to visit Andy's relatives in North Carolina to learn first hand.

"For this show he went to the Marine Corps and spent a lot of time learning what is real. What we hope is funny, is Gomer bouncing off the rigid rules of the corps."

If Jim is not aware of his success, his home town is. And so is his mother. The past summer he visited Jim in his Hollywood bachelor apartment. She went back to Sylacauga with two gifts from Jim. Shortly after she arrived home, Jim's sister called him. "What did you do to mother in Hollywood?" she asked. "She arrived home wearing a mink and carrying a poodle."

Edward Andrews has had Art. Now he wants Commercial Success. And so he has joined the Navy, as Commander Roger Adrian, the man with a zest for elegant living which is upset by a contingent of Waves, in Broadside, ABC-TV's feminine answer to McHale's Navy.

Andrews, a tall, humorous man, and one of the foremost character actors in the business, says, "I haven't been dewy-eyed for some time. To be very honest about it, for years I was on the stage in a lot of Art. I had leading roles in four plays that won Pulitzer Prizes, for which I was paid about $300 a week. Now I'm very crotchety and I want to get paid a lot for what I do."

A boating enthusiast, Andrews are "i n th e w¼ ,.:: ¾ his wife and their three children are "in the water all year round. We have lived in California three years and we like it very much. It hadn't been fashionable for people to come from New York and like it. But we do. My wife is happy, and if she's happy, that is 50 per cent of it."

One of the busiest actors in the business, Ed decided to accept a series because: he loves comedy, he wanted to do a half-hour series, he had been in an acting rut, playing a string of heavies, the money was good.

"I really did a lot of soul-searching before deciding on a series. I really wouldn't want to do a heavy, hour-long thing. I have done guest shots on most of them, and the regulars kill themselves. Dean Jagger is an old friend of mine. He waited years to get the kind of series he wanted, and then during the first year of Mr. Novak he wound up in the hospital with bleeding ulcers.

"I like to go home for dinner. I checked up on McHale's Navy, which is produced by Ed Montagne, as is our show, and I found that only one time did they shoot as late as 7 o'clock."

For Army Air Rescue Sky-Hook Latest Method

By SAM MORTON

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The plane levels off at 500 feet as it approaches the clearing. Suddenly, a man hurtles almost straight up over the treetops. He has been sky-hooked.

In five to six minutes, the man will have been reeled to safety in the back of the plane by means of a nylon rope.

Sky-hook is the U.S. Army's latest method of rescuing men and equipment.

"We think of it as parachuting in reverse," said Sgt. Raymond Norton Jr. "We had plenty of ways to get them in, but we needed a way to get them out if they couldn't walk or ride out."

Norton, 34, an Oklahoman with 16 years in the Army, is operations sergeant for the advance training committee of the special forces training group at Ft. Bragg.

Sky-hook was given to special forces at Ft. Bragg's John F. Kennedy Center for Special Warfare last January. While perfecting the new rescue tool, the training group has made 28 live pickups and about 35 dummy pickups.

The hook itself is a metal A-frame with a 25-foot span attached to the nose of a twin-engine Caribou aircraft. The plane is large enough to maintain sufficient speed and stability against the drag of up to 300 pounds at the end of a 500-foot rope.

The nylon rope is braided for strength and flexibility so that the initial pull does not break the man's neck. It is held aloft by a helium-filled balloon.

The rope, balloon, helium, helmet and special suit — a reinforced coverall with a nylon harness — may be dropped from the plane in an aerial container.

On the ground, the balloon is inflated, the rope is attached and sent aloft. The man is ready for pickup within 10 minutes.

The plane approaches at an air speed of 110 knots to engage the loop of the pickup rope with the A-frame hook.

You feel a slight tug at first," said Norton. "Your body probably couldn't take the sudden jerk you'd get if the rope weren't flexible."

The plane climbs slightly, the rope is pulled tight against its belly and two men in the plane grab the rope with a hook and pull it into the rear of the plane.

A 50-square foot clearing is big enough for a pickup without dragging a man or equipment into trees or other obstacles.

Small, multicolored flags attached to the rope help guide the pilot in the daytime. Blinking lights with another light on the balloon are used for night pickups.

Sky-hook can be used, Norton pointed out, to rescue downed flyers on land or water, for medical evacuation and for rescuing political prisoners or other important persons.

It is excellent in situations where enemy ground fire makes the use of a helicopter impossible.

Star Spangled Banner Is Played in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — The Star Spangled Banner has been played so often after U.S. victories in track and field that it is No. 1 on the Olympic hit parade, but until Wednesday the crowd of 72,000 had not heard the entire song.

The Olympic rule is that the band shall play only the first four bars of a national anthem as the winner stands on the first place platform and his national flag is raised.

Today the band played the opening of the American anthem for the U.S. men's 400-meter relay victory. But when the Japanese band halted, Bob Crosby and his Bobcats, who are playing nightclub engagements in Tokyo, rose in the stands with their instruments and finished the anthem. They got a big hand.

Republican presidential candidate Alfred Landon, who lost to Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936, carried only Maine and Vermont.

Elephant Calmly Eats Garden Apples

MADRID, Iowa (AP)—How would you like to awaken in the middle of the night, look out a window and see an elephant eating apples in your back yard?

That happened to Mrs. Eugene Bart of Madrid. The barking of her dog awakened her, and at the sight of the elephant she called police. They arrived at the Bart home about the same time a circus animal trainer did. The elephant had strayed from a circus encampment.

New Mexico Couple Settle Tax Claim

DENVER (AP) — An attorney for the Internal Revenue Service confirmed today that John Burroughs of Portales, N.M., and his wife Jean, have settled a claim against them for income taxes.

Emory L. Langdon, regional counsel for the service, said that Burroughs and his wife, through their attorney, made payment of $3,191.35 each on 1960 taxes.

Langdon said "it is my understanding" that Burroughs is a former New Mexico governor. He is a nut grower in the Portales area.

Langdon said the IRS had filed claims against Burroughs and his wife totaling $68,151.57, but the payments made Monday settle the entire claims.

Prior to the settlement, the Burroughs' cases were scheduled to be heard this week by Judge Morton P. Fisher of the U.S. Tax Court at Washington, sitting in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

Bickley Blasts County Road Program Here

Charles Bickley, Democratic candidate or County Commissioner, charges present commissioners with thoughts that El Paso County citizens are stupid, reports his campaign committee.

Bickley spoke at a teachers meeting at Cheyenne Mountain High School.

"I would like to know how stupid our commissioners think we taxpayers are that we'll believe the county is saving us money while they are building up a machine empire" he said. "An empire of specialized machinery that is for new construction and can't be used in maintenance, so therefore sits idle half the time."

Bickley attacked the costs released for the Hancock Freeway. He stated two contradictory cost estimates have been made and also two different estimates on the costs if it would have been done by private enterprise. "The county keeps no cost records for such projects, so where do these seemingly abstract figures come from?" he asked.

Bickley reminded the people, they were members of the fifth fastest growing county in the United States and said "We need much long range planning to organize and compensate for this fast rate of growth."

"It's time consideration was shown" Bickley said. "Nothing can be done as long as the present commissioner walks out of meetings."

Also attending the gathering were Democrats, Frank Evans for Congress, Earl Fields for State Representative. Republicans present were J. Edgar Chenoweth for Congress, Vern Cheever, for State Senator, and Senator Skiffington, a present State Senator.

Study Made of Blue Collar Workers

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—In a switch from white-collar worker statistics, social scientists at Pennsylvania State University are studying the blue-collar worker and his resistance to pre-retirement education.

The study, supported by a grant from the Welfare Administration of the U.S. Office of Health, Education, and Welfare, is to fill "a need for more effective recruitment and preparation of workers for retirement, a need intensified as the blue-collar work force shrinks in size under the impact of increasing technological change."

"Making retirement mandatory, and lowering the retirement age, are frequently suggested as methods for eliminating superfluous workers while still increasing production," then "However, we still have to face much emotional and financial hardship in a population with an already high average age."

LONDON (UPI) — A cook has received $4,450 in damages as the result of an accident in which she lost her sense of smell and taste.

Candidates Give Drainage Problem Solutions at Meet

Charlie Bickley and Red Quaney, Democratic candidates for County Commissioner outlined solutions to the drainage problem on Nob Hill to voters and property owners at a recent meeting.

Don Brinton, Democratic candidate for the State House of Representatives, also spoke and presented his platform to the audience. He outlined the bills which he would introduce if elected on November 3. They include:

(1) Compulsory Driver Education for teenagers who wish to get drivers licenses.

(2) School financing should be handled less by property taxes and more by state money.

(3) More liberal election laws which will allow for permanent registration as well as branch registration.

(4) A more positive Mental Health program to get the State hospital in Pueblo its accreditation back.

Red Quaney outlined his program for better roads for the whole county. He stated that there is enough money in the county to maintain all the roads if it is properly used but if a great deal of money is spent on such roads as the Hancock Expressway, then not enough is left for the other parts of the county.

Quaney stated that the Hancock Expressway was built to benefit a few developers who needed an access load to Colorado Springs to raise the value of their land and does not benefit the community as a whole.

Bickley stated that the big issue this year was the role of free enterprise in the county. He stated that the present commissioner Smith has built such a huge empire of road building equipment which stands idle most of the year that private enterprise could do the job better and cheaper.

He pointed to the fact that much of the new equipment which has been bought by Smith is specialized for new construction and can't be used for maintenance. Bickley also pointed to poor quality of roads in all areas of the county except the Broadmoor area.

To the residents of Nob Hill who have a bad flood problem both Bickley and Quaney pledged to attempt to get the city, county and state governments together to work out a solution.

Pope Denounced By Portugal's Foreign Chief

LISBON (UPI)—Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira Wednesday denounced Pope Paul VI's forthcoming visit to the Euchuristic Congress in India as a "gratuitous offense" against roman Catholic Portugal.

It was the first official comment by a member of the Portuguese government on the Pope's plan to go to Bombay in December although Lisbon newspapers voiced strong criticisms immediately after the announcement last sunday.

Portugal severed relations with India after its seizure of the Portuguese enclave of Goa in December of 1961.

Nogueira told a news conference Wednesday that the pontiff's visit to India constituted a "gratuitous offense—being both useless and unjust — carried out by the head of the Christian church (six) against a Catholic nation."

(There was no official comment from the Vatican on Nogueira's statement. But a high official, who declined to be quoted by name, said it "causes great sorrow in the Vatican."

(The source said Portugal was taking an "erroneous" position. He said the Pope was "actually" not visiting India, that he had in fact rejected an invitation to New Delhi to meet with Indian government leaders.

(The Pope, he explained, "makes this trip as the head of all Christian communities and is completely out of the political controversies between Portugal and India over the territory of Goa.")

A RESPONSIVE CHORD

LLANBERIS, Wales (UPI)—Thirteen-year-old Graham Ward found $3,640 in banknotes in an old organ at Jerusalem Congregation Church after striking some very wrong notes.

Church officials turned the money over to the last owner of the donated organ. Both the church and Graham received rewards.

Oak Wilt Wilts Pennsylvania Oaks

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Under a renewed grant of $12,000 from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, research on oak wilt, a disease that has felled thousands of trees throughout the nation in recent years, will continue at Pennsylvania State University.

The fungus can be transmitted by root grafts between healthy and infected trees, or by insects picking it up in open wounds of infected trees and transferring it to healthy ones. The Penn State researchers also are trying to learn why some oaks—mainly white—are more resistant to oak wilt than the red oaks.

Steel Fixtures For Bathrooms Are Gaining

NEW YORK (UPI) — The modern trend toward "customized" bathrooms has caused a big change in the design and manufacture of plumbing fixtures. This coincides with great advances in development of materials and manufacturing techniques.

Ten years ago, one in every 10 bathtubs installed was porcelain enameled steel. Today, that figure is one in every three. Why the big switch?

"Homeowners today want more colorful bathroom fixtures that reflect individual tastes and at the same time retain a long lasting decorative appearance," reports Robert J. Ritchey of United States Steel. "The versatility of new steels provides the builder, or home handyman, with a wide variety of bathtub and lavatory designs that are decorative, economical, easy to install and maintain."

Research conducted by United States Steel has led to development of improved low-carbon steels for plumbing fixture bodies. Steel's light weight and design flexibility permits styling improvements that cannot be duplicated in conventional fixtures. Modern methods used to produce steel also cannot be duplicated for other materials so the price of porcelain enameled steel plumbing fixtures remains low.

CASTRO REDS ARRESTED

MATURIN, Venezuela (UPI)—Seven suspected Castro-Communists, one of them said to be a "high employe of the public Works Ministry," were under arrest Wednesday on charges of plotting to attack the police station in suburban Aragua.

The alleged Reds were riding in a government truck when they were picked up.

In Caracas, the Defense Ministry confirmed reports that nine Reds and three soldiers were killed a week ago in a clash between an army patrol and a guerrilla band in the hills of Trujillo state.

Commuters Asked About Station Color

NEW YORK (AP) — Continuing the policy it adopted seven years ago, the Long Island Railroad has again asked its commuters in the towns along its route what colors they want their stations painted.

The custom of asking residents to pick their own station colors began back in 1957 when LIRR President Thomas M. Goodfellow invited mayors, civic club leaders and presidents of chambers of commerce to sound out those who use the stations for their views on hues.

In their latest redecoration program, the company poll showed only three communities wanted drastic changes in the color schemes they originally picked. The others were satisfied or wanted only slight changes.

Show Business 'Monster' Is Developing

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — It is hard to write an objective report on Ronny Howard.

The reason is that it is easy to fall in love with him.

Ronny, the redheaded, freckle-faced, deep-voiced youngster who has played Opie on CBS-TV's The Andy Griffith Show for nearly five of his 10 years, is the most appealing, most normal youngster you would want to meet.

His father, Rance Howard, who both acts and writes scripts, says he has no formula for keeping Ronny from becoming a show business monster. "I guess it's because I'm in show business myself. We just don't make as big a deal about Ronny being an actor as we might if I were a plumber or lawyer by profession."

The conversation is taking place in a dressing room on the set of The Fugitive, where Ronny was taking time from the Griffith Show to make a guest appearance. While he talked, he was tingering with the scale model racing cars.

ngby ng Ronny if he wants to continue his career as he grows up.

"Yes," he says. "It's the only thing I know how to do real good." He turns to his father and holds out a model car. "Can I show this car to her without the body? If I take it apart, can I put it back or is it real complicated?"

Ronny's father says it will be all right, so Ronny unscrews the car's body and explains the workings of the car.

Acting has always interested Ronny, who says he and his pals on Baileys of Balboa, put on family plays with the aid of a baby sitter.

"At Christmas we did 'Christmas Carol.' I played the poor father and one of the kids Scrooge gives a turkey to. The girl who sits for us played Scrooge and the kids' mother. My brother played Tiny Tim."

There is a knock on the dressing room door and Donald Losby, a young actor also appearing on The Fugitive comes in. He and Ronny had met for the first time on this show, but their mutual interest in racing cars has made them instant friends.

"We're real companions in racing cars," Ronny says, reaching for another model. "This one cost $1.30, and it wasn't even painted. I'm going to paint the top blue and the rest, maybe red."

Donald holds up the car he is working on. "I'm going to have to sand the inside of this one."

"Why sand?" Ronny asks.

"I don't know, it says so on the directions. When I start painting this I'm going to use as many coats as necessary. I'll use six even."

Ronny laughs and repeats, "Six coats of paint."

"Why don't we get together Wednesday and get all the stuff we need. I like to start from scratch," Ronny says, as he looks up from the car. "I save up to buy the things I need. I like to help my dad with his scripts. "If I give him a real good idea, I get $200. And I can spend a lot of it any way I want to."

National Shrine Proposed for Ellis Island

NEW YORK (AP) — Ellis Island, where millions of immigrants first set foot in America, is to be a national shrine.

The big, red brick buildings that once teemed with the throngs from Europe are now empty and decaying. The island, overgrown with weeds, is deserted except for topper, a dog that patrols it night and day.

Various proposals for the island in New York Harbor had come to nothing.

But Wednesday Stewart L. Udall, secretary of the interior, said he would recommend to President Johnson that Ellis Island be made a national historic site, with parks, gardens, promenades, a revolving restaurant and an immigration museum.

It would be an adjunct to Liberty Island, where the Statue of Liberty stands, with a bridge connecting it to a new state park 900 feet away in Jersey City, N.J.

A spokesman for the Interior Department said Udall's recommendation virtually assured the plan. The only question remaining is whether it should be done by presidential order or congressional action.

The island has been abandoned for ten years. The last alien left on Nov. 12, 1954. Between 1892 and 1954 the island was the gateway to America for 16 million immigrants.

After it closed there were many suggestions for its use including a site for boys' town, a college campus, a housing development for the aged and a convalescent home for veterans.

German Rocketeers Return From Egypt

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—At least four German aeronautics experts who worked in the United Arab Republic recently returned to Germany.

This was disclosed today by the West German firm of Ludwig Boelkow, Ltd., one of the country's leading aeronautics firms.

Reports from Cairo Tuesday said the U.A.R. rocket program was being expanded but that about 30 Germans had left.

About 500 Germans are believed engaged in Egypt's rocket and jet aircraft development program.

Elected were: William Bartlett, president; Joseph Seeley, first vice president; Mrs. Florence Jones, second vice president; Miss Julia Hamp, secretary; Mrs. Emily Johnson, treasurer; and Henry Coupland, auditor.

William Crosby, 90, will continue as honorary first vice president.

Carl Matthews was elected a member of the museum board for a two-year term.

Bartlett said he was greatly honored to be president because his mother, who is now 108-years-old, was once an active member of the association. His father was once association president.

Three 50-year members were voted into the association, Mr and Mrs. Fred Bochman and Mrs. Martha Hamlin. As a child Bochman lived near the old Colorado City glassworks. He remembers the fire that destroyed the glass factory. He presented the museum with a piece of old glass he picked up on the factory site.

Two associate members were elected, Mrs. Walter Cox, and Miss Grace Berger.

Another gift was given to the museum, a cast iron fire engine with two cast iron horses, of the 1880's period. It was given in memorial to Fred R. Smith by his daughter, Dorothy E. Smith.

Goldwater Stops Controversial Campaign Film

saying, "At the request of Sen. Goldwater, the Citizens for Goldwater-Miller film entitled 'Choice' has been withdrawn."

Fred Mullen, director of the news bureau at the citizens group, said, "Naturally we are acceding to the requests of the senator and are proceeding now to make minor changes in the film to take into account new developments. The film will be shown as soon as possible." The group said the changes had nothing to do with the charges made by the Democratic national chairman.

A Republican spokesman then said that Mullen's statement, especially the part about future showings, had been made before he was fully aware of Goldwater's feelings. But a Citizens for Goldwater-Miller spokesman replied, "That's our statement, and we'll stand on it."

Lee Edwards, deputy director of public relations for the GOP, said Burch's statement included not only the scheduled showing today, but also the prints which the citizens' group has sold to various local political groups around the country.

The Republican National Committee's advertising agency is Erwin, Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan, Inc. An agency official said Wednesday night, "We had nothing to do with that film. We are on record as being very much opposed to it. In our professional opinion it had portions that were inflammatory."

In advance of Goldwater's statement, NBC announced that the film would be shown but with cuts agreed to by the citizens' group — notably the topless bathing suit. The network said it considered certain sequences "unduly suggestive."

NBC added that it did not attempt to censor editorial content of paid political broadcasts, "but it does reserve the right to question material that might be defamatory or morally improper for family viewing."

Russell Walton, publicity director for the citizens group, had conceded that portions of the film might be called shocking, but added, "We believe what is happening today in America is shocking."

JUBILANT CAMPAIGNERS — James Russell, left, president of the Pikes Peak United Fund and Bill Pfeiffer, campaign chairman, right were told Tuesday that $12,000 has been raised by the United States Air Force Academy for the campaign. Sited for generous support was the Deputy Chief of Staff engineers. Pfeiffer reported Tuesday that victory from all divisions is "in the cards." He urged all solicitors to complete their calls and return all outstanding cards as soon as possible.

munist ranks is being repaired. Red China and the Soviet Union seem to be patching up their differences, and we must look forward to being faced by a more unified Communist movement."

The administration is to blame, Goldwater said, partly because it fell for what he termed the soft sell policy of peaceful coexistence backed by ousted Soviet Premier Khrushchev, and the position that there are "good Communists" like Khrushchev and "bad Communists" like the Red Chinese.

"The only disagreement between 'good' and 'bad' Communists," Goldwater said, "is a disagreement on how to bury us."

He said "this administration was caught completely by surprise when Khrushchev was deposed" and "even more by surprise when the leaders of Red China immediately congratulated the new rulers of the Soviet Union and forecast a new era of friendly relations."

Besides strengthening the Communists, Goldwater said the administration "once had friends in the free world who were unified in purpose and strength and it followed a policy that tore them asunder."

Pledging that "I will lead your resistance."

became known he had twice been arrested on morals charges.

The President was interrupted for a moment in his speech by some Goldwater hecklers. They held before him a large sign which said: "The great society — LBJ, Bobby Baker, Billie Sol Estes."

Johnson supporters wrestled the sign down and the President observed: "There are a few like this in every crowd. But as the days go on they get fewer and fewer."

Johnson bore down on the theme that "peace is the most important issue in this campaign." He said there could not be the kind of "total victory" his opponent has been advocating.

"In a world such as this — a nuclear world — there is no room for bluster and bluff and belligerence," he said. "There is room only for courage, intelligence and reason."

Johnson said the Republican policies "are built on dangerous foundations, because they talk about a nuclear war as if it were inevitable and a nuclear bomb as if it were 'merely another weapon.'"

Wherever he went, Johnson attracted large street crowds. He remarked at one point that "I never saw so many smiling faces."

Flying to Kansas City, Mo., from Akron, Ohio, the President spent 25 minutes discussing politics and the campaign with former President Harry S. Truman, hospitalized after a fall last week.

Johnson reported Truman had told him "he wants to see me elected more than he wanted to be elected himself in 1948."

Gov. John B. Connally of Texas traveled with the President during the day and rode in the White House bubble top car for the first time since the late President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in it and he was wounded on Nov. 22, 1963.

Connally said he hopes Johnson will be able to do some more campaigning in Texas before the election.

Johnson, who begins his 12th month in office today, will be at Union Station here Friday when the train bearing Hoover's body arrives. The body will lie in state in the Capitol rotunda.

When he resumes campaigning Saturday, Johnson is scheduled to visit Memphis and Chattanooga, Tenn., and to make a night speech in Baltimore.

U.N. Chief Is Urging Atom Talks With Reds

of the Chinese Communist party, said the proposal for abolition of nuclear weapons by a world summit meeting is "practical, reasonable, easily feasible and involves no question of control."

The State Department disclosed Wednesday that Premier Chou En-lai of Red China had sent to President Johnson Monday the same message which he had circulated to other government chiefs around the world, even though the United States and Red China do not have diplomatic relations.

The message was transmitted through Chou's ambassador in Warsaw, Wang Kuo-chuan, to U.S. envoy John M. Cabot.

Officials said that no decision had been made yet on the question whether the United States would respond directly and if so what it would say. Privately, however, they generally ruled out any message from Johnson to Chou but said that an informal, oral statement of the U.S. position on nuclear weapons testing could properly and logically be made by Cabot to Wang in their scheduled meeting Nov. 25.

The United States and Red China have been holding periodic meetings between ambassadors, most recently in Warsaw, for nine years.

Both Secretary of State Dean Rusk and President Johnson have already publicly dismissed the Chinese maneuver as a propaganda play for the purpose of offsetting criticisms of Red China's first nuclear explosion last Friday.

Rusk in a television interview Sunday called the message a "smoke screen" and Johnson in a speech Sunday night said Red China "fools no one" in offering to dispose of its incipient nuclear power in a trade "against the mighty arsenal" of the established nuclear powers.

U.S. officials have no real belief at this tie that Red China can be prevailed upon to sign the year-old nuclear test ban treaty.

But officials say that worldwide public opinion which in many countries has been severely critical of the Red Chinese tests might eventually have some influence in Peking.

One problem which the United States and other major powers are likely to face is increasing pressure from governments and public opinion in many countries in Europe and Asia to do whatever is possible to bring the Red Chinese into some kind of nuclear limitation or control system.

One of the unanswered questions is what line the Soviet government will take under its new leaders, Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said Wednesday night that additional evidence from the Red Chinese test "indicates that it was a fission device employing uranium 235. This conclusion is based on a preliminary analysis of airborne radioactive debris.

"The low yield of the test coupled with other information obtained from the radioactive debris indicates that the technology of the device is that which we would associate with an early nuclear test."

Corruption Is Covered Up, Miller Claims

By CHARLES DUMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller says there has been a "cover-up of corruption" in Washington that "casts its shadow over the White House itself."

He made the charge during a renewed attack on President Johnson in Dayton, Ohio, Wednesday night before flying here to attend today's memorial service for former President Herbert Hoover.

The Republican vice presidential nominee had canceled a campaign tour through Pennsylvania to be here for the service.

He planned to confer briefly with Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP candidate for president, before going to the church where Hoover's body lies.

In Dayton, Miller questioned the integrity of the Johnson administration and declared that a "cloud of suspicion" hangs over the White House.

Miller invoked the names of Walter Jenkins, Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes, each of whom he described as a close friend or associate of the Democratic president.

He said Jenkins "has been involved for five years in a pitiful, sordid situation" that made him subject to "blackmail and compromise as to the highest secrets of government."

Jenkins was asked to resign as an aide to Johnson last week after it was revealed that he had been arrested in 1959 and again earlier this month on morals charges.

Miller said Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority, "amassed a fortune by abusing the influence of his official position" and now "hides behind Lyndon Johnson's orders that no facts be let out before the election."

Miller said that Estes, a Texas businessman, "stands exposed as a swindler and influence peddler."

"On top of all that," he continued, "this administration gave us the TFX aircraft scandal involving political influence in Texas, at a tremendous added expense to all taxpayers."

Miller addressed a rally crowd of about 2,000 at Dayton.

three workers. Such grand jury matters are never revealed officially.

The three workers were Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both New York white men, and James Chaney, 21, a Meridian Negro.

They dropped from sight after their arrest on speeding charges at Philadelphia on June 21. Their bodies were found Aug. 4 in an earthen dam on a farm near Philadelphia.

A federal source said the government asked the federal grand jury for 14 indictments, including indictments in the slaying and in other cases.

The jury inspected masses of information and maps presented by FBI agents and heard witnesses from Neshoba County.

The Neshoba County grand jury was in session at the time the federal jury met on the Gulf Coast, but it took no action after the Justice Department ordered FBI agents not to testify.

Circuit Judge O. H. Barnett blamed the government for blocking the state investigation and the county grand jury charged a number of Neshoba residents "have been unofficially accused by the FBI agents as having taken part in the homicide.

"Every effort has been made by state and local officers to cooperate with the federal investigators but in turn little cooperation has been received from them."

Two Injured In Car Accident

A two-car accident in the 00 block of S. Nevada Ave., Wednesday night resulted in injuries to two persons, police reported.

John A. Campbell, 39, of Denver, was southbound on Nevada Avenue in the right lane of traffic at 9:10 p.m. Wednesday when he struck the left rear of a car driven by Eloise G. Bonicelli, 40, of 105 W. Arvada St.

Police said the Bonicelli car was properly parked at the curb and Campbell's car left skid marks of approximately 23 feet before striking it. Campbell was charged with careless driving, according to police.

Campbell suffered a cut lower lip, which required 12 stitches to close. A passenger in the Campbell car, Angie Martinez, 29, also of Denver, suffered a fractured nose and a possible fractured skull. They were both takes to St. Francis hospital.

Mobster May Be Dead, Say New York Cops

said they were seeking Bonanno's son, Salvatore, who is married to a niece of the late Joseph Profaci, once a Brooklyn Mafia leader.

Five of the Bonanno gang appeared Wednesday before the grand jury, which is probing organized crime. There have been reports that an underworld figure turned informer and provided new information. Bonanno went before the jury twice before his disappearance.

His lawyer, William Power Maloney, also went before the jury. He said later that he outlined events of the kidnaping.

Maloney told police that he, a law associate and Bonanno had just driven up to Maloney's apartment house on Park Avenue near 36th Street when Bonanno was overpowered by two gunmen whom he did not recognize.

He said Bonanno appeared to be struggling as the car sped off in the rain.

"Any suggestion that this was a dodge to get him out of appearing before the brand jury is utterly ridiculous," he said. "When they begin pegging shots at you on Park Avenue, that's getting pretty rough."

District Court Jury Finds Man Guilty

A District Court jury Wednesday found Charlie Roy Wortham guilty of simple robbery but not guilty of conspiracy.

Judge David Enoch granted Wortham's attorney, Clifton Kruse, 10 days to file a motion for a new trial.

Wortham, 47, Denver, was accused of robbing the McCall Mercantile in Palmer Lake on March 7. The second count alleged that he conspired with Michael Clevon Morehead, 18, and Ernest Stedson Ross, 21, both of Denver.

Morehead is now in the State Reformatory for his part in the crime and Ross is serving two to three years in the State Penitentiary.

Testimony in Wednesday's hearing by Morehead was that he and the two others had been drinking before they left Denver and Wortham had slept during the drive to Palmer Lake.

He said they stopped at McCall's and Ross went into the store. Morehead said he went in later and Ross had "held up" the man (Kenneth McCall), and then Wortham woke up and came into the store.

The three men were picked up two hours after the robbery in a barber shop in Colorado Springs.

Illinois Voters To Be Confronted By 236 Choices

candidates — the number of seats in the House — and each would get one vote. But if he chooses one too many, the ballot will be thrown out.

Consequently, political leaders are pushing for a mark in the party circle above the Republican or Democratic column to register one vote each for 118 candidates.

The at-large election followed a sequence of events beginning last year.

The Republican-controlled Illinois Legislature passed a bill reapportioning the state's 59 House districts but Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner vetoed it on the ground that it was unfair from a population standpoint.

At this point the state constitution required the governor to appoint a bipartisan commission to produce re apportionment.

After months of bickering, the deadlocked commission was disbanded. No other procedure was left to avoid the at-large election.

Because of the mass of votes to be counted, it is expected to be days after the election before the results are known.

Bennett said that Lindhey was affiliated with the Democratic party in El Paso County since Dec. 10, 1963.

Bennett pointed out that both candidates were certified for a position on the ballot by Byron A. Anderson, Republican secretary of state.

He added that the affiliation requirement of one year in state statutes is for protection of the political party and ". . . is not a matter of interest to the Republican party and the Republican party has no status to question it."

They claim that on Feb. 26 in the 4400 block of North Nevada Ave., Mrs. Cranna "carelessly and negligently" drove a vehicle that collided with Mrs. Carria Green's auto which Mrs. Wood was driving. Dorothy Green was a passenger, according to information.

Wood, on behalf of his wife, is suing for $25,000 plus $10,000 and Mrs. Green is suing for $25,300.

to the rank and file were broken up by angry demonstrations.

The official East German news agency ADN admitted there was considerable comment from the floor at a meeting Tuesday of the "Democratic bloc," an organization of minor party functionaries, trade unions and youth groups.

Information Bureau West, an unofficial intelligence agency in West Berlin, said its East German sources reported several such meetings had to be broken off because they got out of control.

East Germany was the first Soviet satellite to speak up for Khrushchev after Moscow's cryptic announcement last Friday that the 70-year-old premier had resigned because of age and ill health.

Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia followed with praise of Khrushchev.

Romania, which had rejected economic domination by Khrushchev's regime, has made no comment.

Bulgaria waited three days, then issued a statement of confidence in the new leadership — Leonid I. Brezhnev, party secretary, and Premier Alexis N. Kosygin.

The Norwegian Communist party organ Friheten said Khrushchev did not deserve "to be thrown into the gutter."

Luigi Longo, chief of Italy's Communist party, said "the way in which comrade Khrushchev has been replaced leaves us worried and critical."

City Council Puts Brakes on Cupid

Staff of LBJ Is Undergoing New Scrunity

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Presidential aides down the ranks to stenographers are being asked to fill out new security clearance applications in the White House as a result of the Walter Jenkins affair.

The applications are going to long-time as well as new employes in the executive mansion. Those having to fill them out include personnel who both through the years and recently have received the highest security ratings.

The forms are called "security investigation data for sensitive position." Applications of this type are sent to the FBI for investigation.

Jenkins — one of President Johnsons closest aides who had access to classified information—resigned last Wednesday after disclosure that he had been arrested twice on morals charges.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater and other GOP candidates have raised questions about Jenkins' security status. In 1958, Jenkins was given what the Atomic Energy Commission calls a "Q" clearance, permitting him access to nuclear weapons secrets. At the time, his boss, then Sen. Johnson, was chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee.

Apparently Jenkins did not undergo any security checks after that.

The application form now being distributed at the White House is used throughout the government for "sensitive" job clearances. It requests detailed personal history, such as "dates and places of residence, going back to Jan. 1, 1937."

It also has a section asking: "Have you ever been arrested, taken into custody, held for investigation or questioning, or charged by any law enforcement authority? You may omit traffic violations for which you paid a fine of $30 or less—or anything that happened before your 16th birthday. All other incidents must be included even though they were dismissed or you merely forfeited collateral."

Jenkins, according to Washington police records, forfeited $25 collateral in 1959 and $50 two weeks ago—thus waiving the right to trial in his arrests.

Jenkins Case Question Mark Among Voters

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Political leaders questioned in numerous states across the nation report that Goldwater will gain measurably at the polls as a result of the tragic Walter Jenkins case.

Yet not one of those contacted by this reporter in a broad telephone sampling contends that enough votes will be turned Goldwater's way to give him an election still regarded as trending heavily toward President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Jenkins, of course, is the now-resigned top Johnson aide whose arrest here this month on a morals charge thrust a major new element into the campaign barely two and a half weeks before voting day.

Among the political figures reached in this fast spot survey were some in five of the country's biggest states—New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and California. The latter three Goldwater rates as crucial to his chances.

Genuine sympathy is felt for the unfortunate Jenkins. But the experts, nevertheless, are willing to offer hard appraisals of the tragedy that befell him.

The consensus, not surprisingly, is that the Jenkins incident will most acutely affect those voters already seriously concerned about the President's ethics as a result of the still unclear Bobby Baker case and the many provocative accounts of the President's private financial operations.

Said a New York observer:

"The Jenkins affair is not going to change the final result. But for Republican voters who have been inclined to Johnson and yet in doubt on the private ethics issue, I would say these votes are now lost to the President."

Widely reflected across the nation was this feeling that wavering potential Republican defectors would be the chief voter group to move Goldwater's way. There is also some feeling that more definite "Republicans for Johnson" might be jarred back over the party line by Nov. 3.

Nothing was learned in the survey to suggest that sizable numbers of Democrats, whose support of the President is usually described as broad but thin, would shift to Goldwater. As for the millions of independents, the inquiry left uncertain how much change might occur.

Several leaders felt that the Jenkins case standing alone would have little effect, founded as it is in a personal tragedy. Its potency, they suggest, arises from its possible link in voters' minds with the Baker case and other ethical matters —all of these heavily stressed in Goldwater's stern "morality" assault upon the President.

Said an outspoken Iowa leader:

"Barry Goldwater built the pile of wood for fuel. This Jenkings case is the match that touches it off . . . I've seen many, many people since this developed and everybody is talking about it."

An Illinois politician who had a quick opportunity to discuss the issue with more than three score voters both downstate and in Chicago said that deep concern was the almost unanimous reaction.

Their alarm centers on the security factor—the prospect that a man afflicted as is Jenkins, and holding high position, could be subjected to blackmail by foreign agents. Said the Illinois man:

"I couldn't find anyone who thought this was an excusable situation."

He said that while his report reflected the attitude of many already confirmed Goldwater supporters, he had also heard from some Democrats and independents.

Here and there the idea was voiced that, even though this sudden new event might not alter the national result, it might give Goldwater a stronger chance of winning particular states. A Utah Republican commented:

"I would like think that with this development, the winds here are now blowing hard toward a Republican victory."

Not mentioned by any of those queried, yet deserving of attention, is the somewhat ironic possibility that the new turn might improve the GOP outlook sufficiently to assure the election of certain presently imperiled moderate Republicans without proving decisive for Goldwater. Senators Kenneth Keating of New York and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania are among those who could be thus affected.

Democratic leaders inevitably read less significance into the Jenkins matter than do Republicans, who acknowledge that Goldwater badly needs a big break. Yet one GOP leader, in Ohio, thought the issue would prove minor unless Jenkins is somehow shown to have been actually victimized in a security matter.

Former Democratic Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania evidently spoke for many in his party when he said:

"This won't amount to anything much. If Jenkins had done something wrong in government, that would be different. But this is an illness. Many people have something like this in their own families."

Underscoring this view was a California Democrat who said that telephones in two key campaign headquarters were conspicuously silent in the immediate aftermath of the Jenkins incident. Serious trouble usually is signaled by an insistent, day-long bell-jangling.

The summary judgment from this survey nevertheless has to be that this tragic incident injects into the campaign the biggest force for change since the battle began in September.

Annual Hi-Fi Shows Still Going Strong

United Press International

The high fidelity or audio show is a noisy kind of exhibition that sprang up after 1948 with the spread of component high fidelity.

There used to be a multitude of them. Then so much of the smaller exhibitions began to run to package goods that they started to lose favor.

Now, New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles are the places that have the biggest shows. Places like Houston and Denver, where high fidelity interest still is strong, try to manage annual shows.

Houston is a major city. But, after a series of high fidelity shows from 1956 to 1959, interest died down and only this year was Houston able to get another going.

J. G. Bradburn Sr., at 77 the grand old man of high fidelity in Houston, and Julius Zinn, a chief executive of a four-store audio chain, got the idea back in February that the city ought to have a show.

Bradburn and Zinn went to an advertising agency that had successfully run boat shows for two years to take over the high fidelity project.

They also got a $10,000 budget to promote the show. Letters went out to components manufacturers. Representatives of the component makers worked on the companies they sell for. According to Bradburn, that helped more than anything else.

A two-month stay in a hospital took Bradburn out of the project. But when he got back on his feet, he went to work with Zinn. They set October 16, 17 and 18 as the dates of the show and booked three floors of the Sheraton Lincoln Hotel to put the exhibits.

They spent the $10,000 on billboards, spot announcements on all Houston AM stations and on television and newspaper advertising. Two Houston newspapers agreed to print special high fidelity show sections.

As the show shaped up, the country's best-known manufacturers signed up for space.

They included Ampex, Benjamin Electronics, Barzilay Furniture, Bogen, Bozak, Garrard, Dynaco, Electro-Voice, Shure Brothers, Harman-Kardon, Fisher, Kenwood Electronics, Koss-Rek - O - Kut, KLH, James B. Lansing, Marantz, Martel, McIntosh, Pickering, Roberts, H.H. Scott, Sony Superscope, United Audio, Monarch and Frazier speakers.

The Houston Symphony Orchestra took a room. Three FM stations that make bids for the high fidelity fan audience — KRVE, KQUE and KODA — rented space and announced they will make live broadcasts from the show.

A complete sound system will be given away every day at the Houston show. Tickets will cost 99 cents each and every person who buys a ticket is eligible for the daily drawing for the sound system.

Bradburn expects about 20,000 persons to attend. Many high fidelity shows are noisy but Bradburn guarantees this one will not be. He says he is running the show and exhibitors will be required to keep the volume down.

Pinch of Auto Strike Affects Economy of U.S.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A boom-minded economy that has been shrugging off the General Motors strike now is starting to feel the pinch—and the squeeze could tighten fast.

Layoffs are spreading among suppliers. Merchants in cities where such plants are the biggest business report retail sales slackening.

Production estimates for 1964 are being revised downward by such allied industries as tire makers and some glass and fabric producers.

On the over-all economic graphs the trouble is starting to show. The nation's industrial production index seems certain to dip this month. The time lag in getting all suppliers working at top speed again once the strike is ended and built-up stocks reduced may cause a drop in the earlier estimates for the year end results.

Some 300,000 GM employees have been on strike since Sept. 25. A national accord was reached Oct. 5. But nearly 50 of the company's 130 local bargaining units still are negotiating, and all are idle. Management and labor each blames the other for the slowness of the pace.

The union's GM Council will vote Friday on whether to recommend ratification of the national contract. Local units will vote Sunday. Those still negotiating local issues will decide whether to return to work before their disputes are settled.

At first, suppliers of parts and the steel mills and rubber factories went right on. Either they were happily catching up with the big orders already on hand from GM, or satisfying other clamoring customers with earlier delivers.

Now layoffs are spreading—in some railroad yards where GM or its suppliers are the big item —in companies catering food to GM or supplier plants—in factories making paint thinners, window fasteners, coat fabrics, or the basic chemicals and metals that go into such production.

GM pays more than $7 billion a year to more than 30,000 suppliers of one item or another—and this spending is scattered across the nation.

Transportation systems handling materials, supplies or completed cars, also are beginning to suffer.

Sales of new cars in the first third of October fell 20 per cent from the year earlier. Among the reasons are the empty showrooms of many GM dealers, and perhaps a wait-and-see attitude on the part of some potential customers.

Production of motor vehicles —cars, trucks and buses—in the week ended Oct. 10 was 97,674 units, compared with 179,391 in the week ended Sept. 26 when the strike started.

How much of the lost car sales and production, how much of the lost output of supplies and basic materials can be caught up again when the strike ends?

That's what is beginning to cloud the general economic horizon now.

Some racing to catch up is bound to occur. But will it be enough, or soon enough to keep the economy on the same steady rate of upturn?

East German Reds Uneasy Over Nikita

BERLIN (AP) — Considerable unrest in the East German Communist party ranks over the fall of Nikita Khrushchev was reported from East Germany today.

Khrushchev's fate sparked "a lively discussion" in a meeting of party functionaries and officials of the mass organizations, said a party communique.

An unofficial Western intelligence agency also reported that party propagandists were having a hard time answering the tough questions in unruly discussion groups.

Information Bureau West said its East German sources reported "visible unrest" over Khrushchev's fall among the middle and lower ranks of the Communist party.

Electric Plant Loan Proposal Is Considered

DENVER (UPI)— The Colorado Supreme Court had under advisement today issues involving construction of a $23 million steam - electric plant at Hayden by Colorado-Ute Electric Association of Montrose, Colo.

Arguments in the case were heard by the high tribunal Tuesday.

At stake is whether Colorado-Ute and similar power producers will be considered public utilities with power of eminent domain and under the supervision of the Public Utilities Commission. Colorado - Ute deals directly with member cooperatives.

Opposing construction of the Colorado and Western Colorado Power Co.

The PUC granted Colorado-Ute a certificate of convenience and necessity Feb. 21, 1963, following lengthy hearings. This, in effect, permitted the association to begin construction of the plant.

The private power companies appealed the order, but Dist. Judge George V. Kempf of Montrose upheld it.

The firms then appealed to the State Supreme court.

Railroad Crossing Accident Reported

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Highway Department said today there were 239 accidents reported at railroad crossings in the state in 1963, with six deaths resulting.

It said 47 of the crossing crashes were on roads in the state highway system.

Train-vehicle collisions caused fewer than half of the 239 accidents, the department said. Most of the others involved rear end collisions of two or more vehicles.

BUNGALOWS FOR STARS FANCY ENOUGH TO LIVE IN

HOLLYWOOD — Universal has a new bank, high-rise office building, postoffice and bungalows for their stars that are so luxurious they could live in 'em. Now they're going to have their own little old mine. None other than Dan Koorts, who's been with Andy Griffith for lo these many years. He's signed a long term picture and TV contract and I hope they'll put some good writers on his scripts. There ain't nothin' he can't do but it's a heap when you get something worthwhile.

Cole Porter almost died alone in St. John's hospital. His old friend Stanley Musgrove, was with him until the nurse put him out. Cole seemed to rally but something told him to go back. He did and Cole died five minutes later. His remains were shipped to Peru, Ind., where he was born and where his mother and wife, Linda, are buried. He told friends he want ed to be cremated but didn't put it in his will. He provided handsomely for his staff, and left quite a bit of money to the Musician's Emergency fund. It's believed that Yale will also get a contribution. They've been profiting for years from royalties on his and Irving Berlin's songs. They were ahead of the writers since they wrote both words and music. Clifton Webb tells me he was in Cole's first show, "See America First," at the Maxine Elliott theater in 1917. Cole was one of the greats. He was as fresh as a new minted gold piece. He loved life and helped hundreds enjoy theirs.

John Ireland hasn't worked here in three years. He's been making pictures abroad. Now he joins Joan Crawford in "I Saw What You Did," which starts Nov. 2. They worked together once before in "Queen Bee." In the picture, he and Joan are married, and it's quite a shock to her when she discovers he murdered his first wife.

Warren Beatty has a reputation for making life difficult for directors. They tell the story that during the making of "Lilith," Robert Rossen spent two and a half hours carefully explaining a scene to him. When he finished, Beatty said, "Do you think I need a haircut?" Rossen, so the story goes, swears he looked down at his shirt and found it covered with blood — his own.

George Segal, a graduate of Columbia University, got tired of seeing people walking around in tight pants, shorts and T-shirts; he sent to Books Brothers for a complete Ivy League wardrobe.

Jack Lemmon says "The Great Race" won't see the finish line until December. He doesn't want a white Christmas — just rest at home. The picture will run three hours with an intermission. I heard someone laughing over the phone. Lemmon said, "That's Blake Edwards looking at the budget."

Theodore White is scripting his book, "View from the 40th Floor," for Carter DeHaven III at Columbia. Gary Cooper once owned it.

Federal Cure Is Sought in Reading Issue

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (EA)—To a functional illitcrate the printed page of a newspaper can appear like a random collection of letters of the alphabet. A word here or there may come through with a vague meaning, but the message will be lost in murky confusion.

Recent studies indicate that a quarter of the U.S. adult population may qualify for the label of "functional illiterate."

This handicap means more than just a loss of touch with the world. It is a failure in the day-to-day business of existence. The "help wanted" section of the paper becomes a puzzle. If a job is at hand, the application form is a mystery.

So concerned is the federal government about this problem that it has earmarked $800,000 to find a cure. The U.S. Office of Education has just launched a research project to find the best ways of teaching children to read. Universities and state departments of education will do the research.

Perhaps 30 years ago reading made little difference in life because a man could get a job without having to read. Today, almost 60 per cent of available jobs require some reading. By 1970, 95 per cent of all jobs will require some reading, according to Labor Department estimates.

The major reason why many men cannot be re-employed when they have been displaced by automation is that they cannot read.

In Chicago, the Cook County Public Aid Department found that nearly every adult on relief was a functional illiterate. Unless he learned to read, each one was condemned permanently to the public relief rolls.

Cities like Chicago, New York and Philadelphia have started schools for unemployed illiterate citizens. The federal government has also provided money for training programs for the unemployed. The Manpower and Redevelopment Training Act and the Area Redefelopment Act make money available to hard-hit cities so that they can establish retraining centers.

Emergency educational programs offer some relief to adult illiterates but do not get at the cause of the reading problem. Why should the United States have so many illiterates when it spends billions of dollars each year on public school education?

Some reading experts claim that the method of teaching reading could be blamed. Dr. Arthur Trace, in "What Ivan Knows That Johnny Doesn't," says the prevalent look - say method in America limits beginning readers to an extremely small reading vocabulary. European students, says Dr. Trace, learn to read by phonics and have an early reading vocabulary three times that of American students.

Others have urged the return of phonics, including groups like the Reading Reform Foundation. Dr. Mary Austin, formerly of Harvard and professor of Education at Cleveland's Western Reserve University, and Coleman Morrison, of Harvard, in "The First R," admit that the present programs are "not adequate to produce mature readers," but feel that the causes are more complex than can be cured by a single method. They point especially to the lack of teacher education in language arts and the teaching of reading.

Through the $800,000 research project, the government hopes to find a method that will cure America's reading problem. One of the methods sure to be included in the study is the Initial Teaching Alphabet (ITA), a beginning reading system developed in England. U. S. newspapers led the way in bringing ITA and its special 44-character alphabet to public attention.

Many publishers have shown their interest in reading. At least eight books or kits designed to help parents teach their pre-school children to read have been published this year. Phonics workbooks and reading games can be purchased in supermarkets and drugstores. And for the person who wants to improve his own reading, magazines and newspapers are offering hints from authoritative sources like The Reading Laboratory Inc.

"Parade" magazine has just offered its readers a new book, "How to Read and Succeed," which gives laymen a step-by-step method for reading improvement.

It includes the psychology of reading, phonics rules, vocabulary building techniques, comprehension guides, speed exercises, and ways to apply reading for success in study, on the job, and in social life.

Carl Bernard Smith, of Cleveland, author of "How to Read and Succeed," pretty well expresses the current national feeling about reading: "There is no better time for a change. If you are interested in improving, do something about it. Those who read—succeed."

Six Million Persons Can Water Ski in U.S.

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

The American Water Ski Association estimates that about 8 million persons now participate in the sport, but ski manufacturer Adolph Kiefer thinks that figure is too conservative.

What's more, Kiefer predicts that by 1970 more than 18 million Americans will be water skiing.

Kiefer, a former Olympic ski champion, figures it this way:

"Although the beauty of water skiing lies in its attraction to people of all ages, it's major participants are between 12 and 22. And according to projections by the federal government, by 1970 more than half of the population will be under 21."

Kiefer also says that right now the boating industry, is riding a new wave of prosperity largely because of skiing and other allied water sports it helped create.

"Up until a few years ago most families bought boats and motors 'to go boating,' or perhaps fishing," he said. "They took up water skiing after searching for new ways to have fun afloat.

"Now it's extremely common for a family—usually the youngsters—to learn to water ski, while vacationing, or behind a friend's outboard rig, and then buy a boat so the family can ski more often."

Kiefer says surveys conducted by a research organization during the major boat shows indicated water skiing was the No. 1 reason for the purchase of more than 50 per cent of outboard rigs with more than 18 horsepower in 1964.

If Kiefer's prediction of 18 million skiers by 1970 comes true, one of the biggest problems probably will be to find a place for them to ski. At least that's the situation that confronted many areas in the Eos this last summer.

A built-in boat trailer operated hydraulically with battery current and adaptable to all types of pleasure craft is now being produced in a new plant in Tallahassee, Fla.

The new unit raises and lowers a pair of pneumatic-tired wheels attached to the outside of a boat hull. It was designed to simplify boat cartage and handling, to eliminate the need for trailer parking space, to prevent possible deep wading, and to permit launchings without established ramps.

Present units are designed for 12- to 18-foot boats but, according to the manufacturer, can be made for any size pleasure craft of any weight.

The units are made by Hydro-Phibian, Inc.

W. E. Childers, president of the manufacturing company, offers this description of the unit:

"The hydraulic mechanism is mounted atop suspension springs on the boot floor near the stern. Torsion bars, which act as shock absorbers when the boat is trailed on the highways, extend outward and through both sides of the hull, and are connected by extension arms to the hubs of heavy-duty rubber-tired wheels.

"When the wheels are lowered by push button on the boat dash they form the trailer, and when lifted they rest permanently alongside the outside rails completely out of water. The hydraulic unit is powered by a regular boat battery, and in case of battery failure the unit is operated manually.

"The upright tires act as pumpers when docking, and offer buoyancy in case a boat capsizes. Safety locks hold each of the torsion axles into positive position while trailing or cruising."

Childers said the trailer unit had been fully tested on the road and in the water and could be operated easily by a single person backing the boat to the water's edge.

Masqueraders Are Awarded Military Medals

SAIGON (UPI) — A U. S. Army captain and a sergeant who masqueraded as Communist Viet Cong guerrillas during a foray in Communist-controlled territory have been awarded South Viet Nam's cross of gallantry, it was reported Wednesday.

A U.S. military spokesman said Capt. Robert D. Manhan, 32, of North Hollywood, Calif., and Sgt. 1.C. Norman C. Smith, of Trenton, N.J. were decorated in a ceremony in Binh Dinh Province 300 miles north of here earlier this month.

The two Americans received the country's third highest military award for their role in an unusual operation in which they and an entire company of government troops donned conical hats and black peasant garb for the raid.

The raids resulted in the deaths of 48 Communist guerrillas and the capture of 22. Government losses were announced as six killed and one wounded.

The seaport city of Oulu in northwest Finland was nearly destroyed by a fire in 1822 and almost wiped out again during the Crimean War.

NEW YORK (AP)—Following is a complete list of stock and bond transactions today on the New York Stock Exchange with 3:00 p.m. prices.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Chrysler reacted sharply to lower quarterly earnings and the stock market declined irregularly early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Chrysler broke 2⅛ to 59 following news that third-quarter earnings were down from a year ago but the stock halved its loss as Wall Street took in news of a 4 per cent stock dividend and record sales and earnings for nine months.

Other Big Three motors also declined. Steels were narrowly mixed.

Tobaccos were another weak spot as cigarette manufacturers declined sympathetically with Reynolds Tobacco on news of its drop in profits.

Losses of about a point in some blue chips in other groups contributed to a moderate decline in the popular averages.

Gains by selected issues helped cushion the decline.

Coppers, strong recently also were among the losers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 331.1 with industrials off 1.1, rails off .1 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.78 at 877.94.

Prices were generally higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds moved mostly higher.

Viet Military Rulers Resign Top Posts

SAIGON (UPI) — Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh and his entire government have resigned to prepare the way for civilian rule, a government spokesman said Wednesday night.

The spokesman said the 17-member high national council accepted the resignations and probably would announce them officially Friday when it names a new chief of state.

Maj. Gen. Duong Van Big Minh, a member of the previous ruling military triumvirate, was a leading contender for the post although some council members were reluctant to name a military figure to such high office.

The new chief of state will appoint a premier who actually will have the greatest power. Khanh has hinted he would resign his army rank to seek the premiership again.

Khanh, under Buddhist and student pressure, pledged to restore civilian rule in South Viet Nam by Oct. 27. Whether he would be acceptable to the Buddhists and other groups as a civilian remained to be seen.

Miami Pilot Lands In Cuba by Accident

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Marshall Zeeman, a Miami pilot who landed in Cuba by accident after a bout with bad weather reports that he is under house arrest.

"About six men are guarding the house, but everything's fine," Zeeman, 20, told his brother by telephone from Santiago, Cuba, Wednesday night.

"He says he's a little sick, but it may be the food," said the brother, Richard Zeeman, 21.

The State Department made contact with the Swiss Embassy in Cuba to seek Zeeman's release.

The Coast Guard started a search for Zeeman and his single-engine crop duster after it failed to land in Bogota, Colombia, Sunday afternoon on a flight from Kingston, Jamaica.

Some sand dunes in the southern deserts of Saudi Arabia rise 700 feet. Much of the area, called "The Empty Quarter" by the Arabs, is impassable.

Car Stripped of Hubcaps, Other Items

A car belonging to Clinton E. Byrd, 1019 W. Costilla St., was stripped of a number of items, including four chrome spinner hubcaps valued at $80, according to the Sheriff's Office.

Byrd's mother, Mrs. Eleen Byrd, 633 S. 7th St., reported the incident to the Sheriff's Office, and said she believed the stripping took place sometime after 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Missing are the outside rear view mirrors, tachometer, gear shift knob, radio control knobs, and an unknown quantity of sockets, wrenches and other tools Byrd said were worth approximately $100.

LAND PURCHASE CLOSED—Contracts were signed Wednesday in the office of Bernard Trott transferring ownership of the 258-acre Pikes Peak Vista sub-division to the American Builders Inc. Housman who is a land developer in Texas.

American Builders Inc. Buy $2.8 Million Sub-Division

Robert L. Gould and Robert K. Willis, president and vice president of American Builders Inc., announced Wednesday the purchase of 934 residential lots in Pikes Peak Vista sub-division.

The area is located east of the intersection of Academy Boulevard and East Pikes Peak Avenue in the eastern part of Colorado Springs. Purchase price of the land was named at $2,802,000 with the First National Bank of Colorado Springs as financier.

Houses to be built on the 70 by 110-foot lots will range in price from $14,000 to $20,000 and it is anticipated by American Builders that single family residences will be built here exceeding $14 million in total cost. Construction will start in the spring of 1965.

The purchased land is located in a choice section of the city and affords an excellent view of the front range of the Rockies. It is within 10 minutes driving time to the Center of Colorado Springs and is also located close to the airport and a number of new businesses.

Adjacent to the site is an area set aside for the development of commercial and condominium construction and a park site.

Within the housing area are church sites and sections to accommodate a District 11 grade and junior high school.

The Pikes Peak Vista land, all developed lots, was purchased by Willis and Gould from Arthur J. Housman, president of the Art Construction Company. Housman, whose home is in Mc Allen, Tex., is well known thoughout the Southwest as a land developer.

Housman initially bought the land from the Pikes Peak Vista Company, a partnership whose principals are Bernard L. Trott, attorney, Dr. John Karabin, and Willam Wiley, local real estate man. These men, all of Colorado Springs, are not land developers.

American Builders, Inc. are at the present time building single family residences in Pikes Peak Park and Stratmoor Valley Sub-Division and anticipate starting construction in this new area in the early spring. It is planned by American Builders, Inc. to build in Pikes Peak Vista in addition to the present operation being conducted by the builder.

American Builders, Inc. formed in the early spring of 1964, has built or at present has under construction a total of 125 homes since April of this year. It is the feeling of the officers of this company that this new sub-division in east Colorado Springs will fill the housing need in the middle price range due to the growth of our city to the east.

Handling the sales of the single family residences to be built in the area will be exclusively by the Willis Agency, Inc., 722 South Tejon St.

Underwriters Approve New Licensing Rules

At a recent meeting of the Board of the Colorado Association of Life Underwriters, unanimous approval was given to Insurance Commissioner J. R. Barnes' tightening of the regulations referring to agents licensing by reducing the validity of a temporary license granted without examination from six months down to 90 days, along with the Commissioner's proposed revision and stiffening of the examination required for a license to sell insurance within the State of Colorado.

At this first meeting of the new year of the governing board of the Colorado Association, plans were discussed for the review and subsequent action on pending Colorado legislation affecting the life insurance business. Plans were also discussed for the annual Sales Congress to be held at the Denver Hilton April 29-30, 1965.

Fred E. Provenzano, Kansas City Life Insurance Company, Colorado Springs, as president presided over the meeting. The Colorado Association of Life Underwriters represents 1,100 people in the life insurance field in the State of Colorado.

Others attending the meeting from Colorado Springs were Howard C. Shaw Jr., Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company and John L. Wiman, CLU, Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company. They serve as President and National Committeeman, respectively, of the Colorado Springs Association of Life Underwriters.

TREMORS REPORTED

GOLDEN (UPI)—Frank Hadsell, assistant professor of geophysics at the Colorado School of Mines, said nine small earth tremors were recorded on seismographic equipment at the school Saturday morning. Hadsell said the quakes apparently were in the Derby, Colo., area. He said they were so small, residents probably did not notice.

THE BROWNS HAVE IT

LIBERTY, Missouri (AP — When Mrs. Chester Tucker was enrolling students at William Jewell College, a lad - named Richard Brown enrolled. Shortly thereafter, another boy stepped up and gave the name of Richard Brown. When, a few minutes later, a third youngster enrolled under the name of Richard Brown, Mrs. Tucker thought she was the victim of a joke. Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Take Your Choice, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: Is there a state near Iowa where a couple can go to be married in a hurry without blood tests, waiting and all that rigmarole? I am 69 and he is 74 and we have no need for all that stuff. We would like to get married as soon as possible as his children want to put him in a rest home. I thank you. —SARAH IN MASON CITY, IA.

DEAR SARAH: Illinois, Nebraska, Missouri and Wisconsin all require blood tests. To the north of you, however, is Minnesota, where no blood test is required—but there is a five-day waiting period. To the west of you is South Dakota, where a blood test IS required, but there is no waiting. So if you can spare the blood but not the time, go to South Dakota. But if you have more time than blood to spare, Minnesota is your state.

DEAR ABBY: I have just bid goodbye to our last summer guest and I am ready for a sanitarium. I have cooked and cooked, and my bills are so high I wonder if I'll ever get them paid. I've run my appliances all day and have worn myself out cleaning and serving meals at all hours. This summer has been the worst! We've had one batch of uninvited guests after another. They could have afforded to stay at a motel, but they prefer our brand of hospitality. I have had it. It's too bad people like this have to spoil it for the few who are considerate guests and would be welcome. Sign me "Nothing," as the name I would like to call myself right now would not look good in the newspaper. — NOTHING

DEAR NOTHING: My guess is that you have, in one way or another, invited more guests than you intended to—or realized. Button your lip this winter and watch things improve next summer.

DEAR ABBY: My son is a good boy, but sometimes he picked the wrong friends. Here is what happened: A girl he knew from school was baby-sitting for a lady in a high-toned neighborhood, so my son and a few of his friends decided to drop by and just say "hi." When this girl saw them through the window she motioned for them to go away. The boys went around to the back door and she still refused to let them in. They were only teasing her a little, and then they tried a few windows. She locked all the windows and CALLED THE POLICE! Abby, it wasn't like she didn't know those boys. They were kids from school, not tramps or hoodlums. The police came right over and took all the boys down town and booked them. This has caused us plenty of trouble. Don't you think that girl was carrying things too far? Now our son has a black mark against his record that he will never be able to erase. — HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think the girl used good judgment. If those boys were not "hoodlums," they were certainly acting like hoodlums. Perhaps you are lucky your son learned this lesson with only one black mark against his record. I hope he remembers it.

Toss-Away Dishes Grow in Popularity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Paper dishes not long ago didn't get to first base with the etiquette experts.

Now, paper's proper, having made it all the way to home plate, cup, saucer and what not as a substitute for everyday and company dishes.

But some women, a little confused by the wide range of styles, still can trip themselves by selecting the wrong cup or plate to meet a specific serving need.

For best results, it is important to know the difference between, say a plastic-coated hot drink cup and a wax - coated cold drink cup.

Although you can serve cold carbonated beverages in a hot drink cup, there's really no need to go to the extra expense. Besides, a wax-coated cup helps to preserve the beverage's carbonation.

On the other hand, hot drinks must always be served in a cup designated for the purpose. As anyone who has tried it knows, the stiffness of a cold drink cup is largely provided by the wax and a hot beverage quickly reduces the cup to a limp vessel.

Here's a simple glossary of terms from the Paper Cup and Container Institute to keep in mind when shopping for paper tableware.

— Plastic - coated. A plastic coating sprayed or bonded onto paper cups, plates, bowls, dessert dishes and platters, prevents hot foods, gravies, sauces and beverages from being absorbed. Slightly more expensive than uncoated paperware, plastic-coated paper service is essential for properly serving hot foods and drinks.

—Uncoated. A specially-treated but uncoated paper used for certain types of plates and cups. They are less expensive than the plastic-coated ones. They are suitable for cold, dry foods such as sandwiches, cookies, cakes, cold cuts, fruits or cheeses. Uncoated cups are somewhat less expensive than plastic - coated ones.

— Wax-coated. The wax finish found on cups and dishes is suitable for cold food and drink only: soda, iced drinks, water and other beverages.

— Paper bowls. Plastic coated, these can be used for either hot soups or hot or cold cereals. Salads and desserts also can be served in these.

Sister Abigail's Nice Cake Rules

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Sister Abigail Crossman was a member of the Shaker sect which came to this country in the middle of the 18th Century. They had rigid rules for every phase of their celibate communal living. Among the rules were those "for making nice cakes."

Following Sister Abigail's rules, and thoroughly tested in the brick ovens at the Hancock Shaker Village in Massachus this modern Paisley Cake would have pleased the Kitchen Sisters of the Shaker community.

1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, unbeaten

HINTS FROM Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Just HOW can I unmold a gelatin salad? Mine tears and looks as if it were never in a mold. —Bride

Hon, try greasing your mold with mayonnaise! And never immediately pour your hot gelatin into the mold. Let it cool a bit first. Then the heat won't melt the mayonnaise.

After it has congealed, turn the container over and run some hot tap water over the back of the mold. It will loosen beautifully. Sometimes, if you have greased it enough, a small T.P. on the pan shakes it loose.

If your salad is large . . . try setting it in a pan of hot water until it loosens. Then dry the bottom of the pan and turn it over on a plate. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I hang colored clothes outside to dry and have no shade to hang them in, I simply turn them wrongside out to keep them from fading. —Donna

Dear Heloise:

You know how easily hardwood floors are marred. . .

I have a tank-type sweeper, so I tied an old undershirt over the metal slides (that scraped the floor as I dragged the sweeper along) and now I can pull it anywhere without scratching my pretty, shiny floors. In fact, the undershirt helps to polish them. . . —Nellie Gallo

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I have found that having a pencil available at all times is a great timesaver.

The way in which I have accomplished this is to buy two or three dozen at a time, sharpen them all, and put them in a container by the telephone.

The house is soon so saturated with pencils that it is always possible to find one! —Katherine J. Moutoux

Dear Heloise:

Please tell your readers who are on a budget not to throw away the outside leaves of a head of cabbage.

These leaves are wonderful to use when making a meat loaf. Use the usual meat loaf recipe that your family loves, and roll it into egg-size balls. Then wrap each ball in a cabbage leaf, stat with a toothpick, put in a foil-lined baking pan, place in your oven, and cook as you would ordinarily cook a meat loaf.

The cabbage will give the meat an entirely new flavor. Your family will love it because it's different and not the ordinary meat loaf. —Jeanne Holt

Dear Folks:

I just tried this.

Surely changes the ordinary hamburger into something new.

I cooked my cabbage-wrapped meat balls in a covered casserole and they were delish.

Also found out when making a BIG meat loaf that you could lay cabbage leaves over the top while cooking and remove them about 15 minutes before done to allow for browning. Great! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

With four little ones in snowsuit jackets with drawstrings that were forever untied, I found it more convenient to remove the string in the hood and replace it with a piece of elastic, just long enough to fit the hood snugly around the child's face.

I then sewed the ends of the elastic securely at each opening (sometimes it is necessary to sew a spot at the center of the top), and now, no more dangling strings, but a neat and snug-fitting hood. —Mrs. Shirley Breen

South felt that he was merely the victim of an unfortunate guess when his four spade contract went on the rocks. As a matter of fact, the defeat may be more properly attributed to his failure to anticipate the consequences of an adverse ruff.

Over North's rebid of one notrump South was in position to give a direct raise; however, he felt that a suit contract might be safer if North had a mild fit for spades. His jump to three clubs was absoultely forcing and, when North showed a spade preference, South carried on to four spades.

Inasmuch as both opponents had bid clubs, West decided that his partner must be short in that suit. With the trumps firmly under his control, there appeared to be an excellent chance to give East a club ruff. West, therefore, opened the jack of clubs.

Declarer won the trick with the king and led a small spade. West was in and continued with the ten of clubs. South played the queen from his hand and returned another trump. West won with the ace of spades and led the five of clubs.

South chose to play the ace from dummy and East ruffed. There was no way to avoid losing a diamond trick, and the contract went down to defeat.

Had declarer covered the five of clubs with North's eight, he would have been able eventually to discard both of his small diamonds — one on the third heart and the other on the ace of clubs.

indicated play, for it assured the success of South's contract even if it lost. Even if East wins a trick with the nine of clubs, the defense is restricted to two spade tricks and one in clubs for, after the last trump is drawn, South has the necessary discards in hearts and club for his losing diamonds. By playing the eight of clubs, declarer is merely taking out insurance to protect the ace from an adverse ruff.

Cook's Tour

Cooks Tour Jeanne Lesem

NEW YORK UPI)—Satellite schools save money and labor in the national school lunch program, says Jeanette Hampton, a home economist.

Miss Hampton explained that satellite schools are those serving lunches that were prepared in central kitchens at other schools in the same district.

"The system came about gradually as districts expanded," she said in an interview. "With enrollments bigger than ever before, some districts must struggle to meet costs. Some convert presently operating kitchens to prepare food for several schools; other districts no longer build kitchens in new elementary schools."

For instance, pupils at 17 schools in Livonia district near Detroit eat lunches prepared at four junior high schools. The ready-to-eat means are delivered to outlying schools in portable food service equipment. One elementary school, which has no dining room, serves 145 pupils in the gymnasium on tables and benches that fold into the walls between meals.

Dishwashing is minimal, since many schools now use disposable paper products for serving; in many cases, they're pre portioned at the kitchen. Plastic-coated paper ware even is used for cooking some foods, such as custards, which can be baked at temperatures of 350 degrees or less, with the containers in a pan of hot water.

Miss Hampton represents both the Paper Cup and Container Institute, Inc., and the Peanut Growers of Alabama and Georgia. She attends 25 to 35 meetings a year, by invitation only, to demonstrate new recipes and new paper service products, and exchange serving and nutrition ideas with school food service personnel. The Dallas-born home economist formerly was on the national school lunch program staff of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

She said that the satellite system works best when the meals are prepared at junior and senior high schools, since on-premise kitchens can offer a few extra selections to their pupils, and older ones are harder to please.

"Food service supervisors say younger children have fewer food prejudices and are more willing to accept new things," said Miss Hampton. She added that geographical preferences also influence menu planning and recalled that a few Latin-American foods such as tortillas and enchilades had to be introduced in southern Texas schools along with North American foods to make the latter more acceptable.

Children's reactions to new foods are unpredictable, she said. She mentioned a California boy who once rejected black figs with the statement: "I don't want ol' burned prunes." Another boy who grudgingly tried a spoonful of a new food he'd previously refused came back for seconds, with the comment: "I didn't know anything I didn't like for so long could be so good."

Peanut Butter Sauce

Peanut butter barbecue sauce makes a rich, high-protein baste for beef, pork, turkey or chicken. Pre-cook 3 to 4 pounds beef cubes 20 to 30 minutes in ¼ cup of water and salt and pepper to taste, in covered electric frypan heated to 250 degrees or preheated 325-degree oven. While meat cooks, place following in saucepan and heat slowly, stirring often: ¼ cup each of chopped onion, peanut butter and lemon juice; 1 teaspoon of butter, ½ teaspoon of salt, 2 tablespoons each of brown sugar and vinegar; ½ cup each of water and chopped celery, 3 tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce, and 1½ teaspoons of prepared mustard. Pour hot sauce over meat reduce temerature to 225 degrees, cover and cook 2-2½ hours more or until meat is tender. If pork spareribs are used, precook covered, without water, for 30 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven; 30 minutes more, uncovered, and with ½ the sauce, at 350 degrees; with remaining sauce. Makes six servings.

Jane Morgan Sings for Sales Outlets

By PATRICK CONWAY
United Press International

ATLANTA (UPI) — Singer Jane Morgan plans to extend her commercial ventures.

First, she said, she wants to open an exclusive New York fashion house, and then try her hand at the antique business in the summer tourist section of Maine where she now sells blueberries.

Miss Morgan's fashion enterprise will be in partnership with Maj Hagman, wife of actor Larry Hagman and daughter-in-law of Mary Martin.

A London designer before her marriage, Mrs. Hagman currently advises on fashion only for Miss Morgan and Miss Martin.

In Atlanta to play Mother Rose in a summer theater production of "Gypsy," the husky-voiced singer said her own wardrobe numbers 200 gowns and more than 500 hats.

But to her disappointment, she wears mostly dowdy clothes as Mother Rose.

Miss Morgan said she has three homes brimming with antiquity.

Her farmhouse at Kennebunkport, Me., is her show place for colonial antiques. Her New York apartment is French and English and her 21-room old style Southern mansion in New Bern, N.C., is Empire and Directoire.

Miss Morgan estimated her collection of antiques was worth $50,000.

A native of Boston, Miss Morgan wasn't really "discovered" as a singer until impresario Bernard Hilda put her into one of Paris' top clubs.

That started a five-year stint in Europe, where she is still a popular cafe entertainer and television personality.

It was while she was in Europe that she began to plan her two new ventures.

"Living in France you learn to love two things—fashion and antiques," she said.

Doctor Borrows Drill, Chisel For Operation

SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI)—The surgeon aboard a British liner performed a delicate brain operation with a drill borrowed from the electrician's depatment and a chisel loaned by the engine room staff during a voyage from New Zealand.

The story was told when the 24,733-ton liner Northern Star docked at Southampton Wednesday.

The ship's surgeon, Daniel Morgan, performed the operation on an assistant steward, John Bridgman, 22, who was hurt when the ship anchored off Tahiti.

Bridgman had accepted a challenge from some passengers to dive into the liner's swimming pool from a high balcony. He struck his head on the bottom. He went to his cabin to rest and the next day was found unconscious.

Morgan decided he was suffering from severe brain concussion and needed an operation. It took five and a half hours. It involved drilling Bridgman's skull and removing a large clot of blood.

Bridgman regained consciousness 36 hours later and made a rapid recovery, but it probably will be some time before he will be fit enough to return to sea.

Boyle Tells All About Secrets of Doubletalk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — What is your double-talk rating?

If you go through life saying exactly what you mean, you aren't going to get anywhere. To be a standout in society you have to be able to think one way, and speak another. That's double-talk.

Here are a few examples of double-talk — with their literal translations.

"You certainly richly deserve the success you have won, sir." Some people have all the luck.

"Your sermon was inspiring, reverend — yes, positively inspiring." How can a guy make even sin sound so dull?

"Well, don't worry about it. Everybody makes a mistake now and then." But you make one every time you take a breath.

"It's simply been ages and ages since we met." And if I have my way, it'll be eons and eons before we meet again.

"I just dropped in, boss, to thank you personally for that swell bonus." At least it'll pay for the stamps on my Christmas cards.

"And now, major, perhaps you will be kind enough to recount to our guests some of your more thrilling battle experiences." If this joker ever got out of his swivel chair during a war, I'll eat his medals.

"I wish the other teachers were as enlightening as you professor." Then I could sleep through all my classes.

"You mean you painted this lovely picture all by yourself?" It looks like you must have had the help of at least a couple of baby chimpanzees.

"Somehow I don't feel particularly hungry tonight." But I'm going to order a steak anyway, chump.

"It would be helpful if my opponent would stick to the issues." I don't know what they are either.

"If you don't mind a suggestion, sir, I can recommend our roast beef hash highly." The chef says if we don't get rid of it today, we'll have to eat it ourselves. He's tired of having it around.

"I don't want you to think I'm a poor loser." I just can't stand not to win over a nitwit like you.

"Um-m-m-m. Wherever did you learn to make a martini that tastes like that?" Probably in a high school chemistry laboratory.

"What a cunning new outfit, Grace." But don't you think you should have saved it for Halloween?

"Let's drop the whole matter. I believe in letting bygones be bygones." But don't ever turn your back on me, old buddy.

More Spending Seen in Higher U.S. Education

By JESSE BOGUE

NEW YORK (UPI)—While most businessmen watch the extent of capital spending in the heavy industry field, some in the building and equipment fields have been profiting by their attention to the money spent in another field—higher education.

Financial sources here, basing their estimates on federal government figures, believe that in the 1963-64 college year, $9.6 billion was spent on higher education; only 10 years ago, it was $3.4 billion, and during the same period, student enrollment rose 80 per cent to 4.5 million from 2.5 million.

To meet the bulge in student populations, colleges have been spending heavily not only for housing of their young charges, but for classrooms, labortories, libraries. The outlay for new buildings in the area of higher education was estimated last year at $1.8 billion.

Robert J. Keir, president of C.I.T. Educational Buildings, Inc., and of Tuition Plan, Inn., both subsidiaries of C.I.T. Financial Crop., said that higher education now is one of the most important customers of American business.

The first of the two offers colleges and universities a pay-as-you-go lease plan for establishing dormitories; the second provides parents an installment payment plan for education of their children.

Growth into college age of the post-war baby crop has brought on the demand for new buildings; it probably will continue to increase for at least the next four years. The student body is expected to rise by about 27 per cent through the 1967-68 school year, and outlays for building are expected to go up by about that amount.

Not all of the expenditures are purely in the housing field. The classroom and library category has risen also.

Other producers have found the educational institutions an attractive market.

Food, clothing and books in quantity; electrical appliances, cleaning services, sports goods, all have found new market outlets in the college world.

Spy Planes Used by U.S. Over China

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States learned in advance about Communist China's nuclear explosion through such spy devices as U2s flown by Nationalist Chinese, satellites and plain cloak-and-dagger methods.

A key role in gathering proof that the Chinese Reds were on the verge of setting off a nuclear device was played by American - trained Nationalist Chinese pilots flying the high-altitude U2s.

They were aided by photo-reconnaissance satellites in polar orbits, electronic listening devices, and classic spy methods.

The atomic blast came at 3 a.m. EDT on Oct. 16 Just 17 days previously Secretary of State Dean Rusk issued a public announcement saying it was imminent. When Rusk did so, Washington thought the explosion might come on Oct. 1 to celebrate the Chinese Communist regime's 15th anniversary.

Sources said Wednesday that U2 planes flown by Formosa-based Chinese pilots had kept the China mainland under surveillance for more than two years. It now has become clear that a main aim of these flights, in planes said to have been sold to Chiang Kai-shek's goverment, was to keep watch on the preparation of nuclear test facilities in Sinkiang Province.

Adding further evidence were reconnaissance satellites, launched into polar orbit from California and covering the globe. These satellites have been providing intelligence, by means of ever-improving pictures, for several years.

Besides aerial observations, America had the benefit of incredibly well developed and refined electronic eavesdropping systems. Mounted on land, in aircraft and aboard ships, these acutely sensitive devices doubtless were keyed to the inevitably heavy communications which would precede a nuclear test.

LeFevre Will Conduct Textile Firm Seminar

Robert LeFevre, founder and director of the Freedom School, will conduct a 6-day seminar for a class of executive trainees for the textile firm of Deering - Millikin, Inc. in Spartansburg, S. C., from Oct. 26 through Oct. 31.

LeFevre describes the seminar as "a program of intensive instruction consisting of eight to ten hours of classroom work daily" and, he says, is comparable in content to the course given at the Freedom School.

This is the seventh such presentation made by LeFevre for Deering - Millikin in the past three years and an estimated 200 executive trainees have participated in it.

LeFevre says that the course provides the executives with a workable economic philosophy which assists them in making basic managerial decisions.

Basso Singer 'Remarkable' at Springs Opera

By JOHN FETLER
Arts Critic

The local opera group is lucky with its production of Faust, to be staged Friday and Saturday nights at Wasson High auditorium. It has acquired one of the best voices in the history of its work in Colorado Springs, and within our memory probably the best basso voice ever to be featured in a Colorado Springs production.

The voice belongs to Naymond Thomas, who is singing the role of Mephistopheles, one of the challenging roles in operatic repetoire. Judging from a rehearsal we listened into, one could hardly be amiss in saying that Thomas really "makes the show" as far as the vocal roles are concerned; even in rehearsal, it is his appearance which excites the greatest interest, providing the high points of vocal projection, resonance and dramatic power.

The vocal resources of Thomas are such that the deep, rich, voice may well develop further into the field of the basso profundo, one of the rare and highly prized vocal timbres in operatic work.

Thomas is a vocal teacher in Pueblo, and by thus drawing on some of the musical sources of the nearby city, the Colorado Springs Opera Assn., is enriching its own resources, for the development of opera in Colorado Springs.

It also brings some of the experience of Thomas, who teaches classes in opera workshop at Southern Colorado State College, in addition to his other teaching duties. Thomas studied music at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, and also attended the University of Louisville and the University of Colorado. But he brings more than that to his contribution on the Colorado Springs scene, for he has already performed with the Kentucky Opera Association, the Stephen Foster Drama Association, the Denver Businessmen's Symphony and the Boulder Philharmonic Society.

The production of "Faust" is a big undertaking for the Colorado Springs Opera Co., perhaps one of the biggest ever planned, and the response of the audience to the first production of the local operatic season has been overwhelming.

With the appearance of Thomas in the role of Mephistopheles, the opera is certain to make a profound impression on the opera-going public in Colorado Springs.

Assessors Will Attend School

Some 200 county tax assessors and their deputies from throughout Colorado are expected to attend courses at the University of Colorado designed to bring about just and uniform assessed valuations in the state.

The program, "Annual School for Tax Assessors," will be held at the Memorial Center, Oct. 26 to 31, sponsored by the Bureau of Governmental Research and Service and the Bureau of Continuation Education, in cooperation with the Colorado Tax Commission. The overall course was set up to include first, second and third year classes. This year, however, the first year will not be taught. First year courses were offered last year and will be on the schedule again this next year. Second and third year courses this year will deal with real and personal property and tax administration.

Attending the school from El Paso County will be W. Field Phelps, assessor; Charles Irwin, personal property appraiser and Harry E. Franson, supervisor of appraisals.

Festival of Faith Sunday To Mark the Reformation

Nearly 450 years ago in a sleepy little Saxon village called Wittenberg, a thirty-four year old monk took a leisurely stroll down to the Castle Church, tacked some papers on the Church door, and thereby began a movement that has become one of the great issues before the Christian community.

The movement which began on Oct. 31, was the Reformation and the monk who took that quiet stroll was Martin Luther. Luther's original intention was apparently to foster discussion on a list of issues in order to "bring about a proper understanding of the sacrament of pennance."

Soon Luther, who was a professor of biblical theology at the University of Wittenberg, found himself the head of a widespread movement. Those who were protesting against the church's abuse of power and privilege joined in the movewhich has been called "the thunderclap which, more than any other, shaped the modern world." The document he tacked to the north door of Castle Church, which served as a bulletin board, became known as the "95 Theses."

Sunday the churches of the Pikes Peak region will celebrate the Reformation, and it will take place in the midst of a greatly changed climate of ecumenical dialog. The Vatican II Council has prepared the way for new openness on the part of Roman Catholics toward Protestant and Orthodox churches. There is a new willingness to confess that the church is under compulsion to reform again and again.

Diversity and divisions grew out of the original reformation, and the call of the Reformation now underway is united in the church.

At the Festival of Faith, sponsored by the Pikes Peak Council of Churches, Chaplain Robert P. Taylor will be the principal speaker. Chaplain Taylor is the Chief - of - Chaplains for the United States Air Force.

He has a B. A. degree from Baylor University; a Master of Theology from Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas; a Doctor of Theology degree from Atlanta Law School Ga.; and honorary Doctor of Divinity degrees from Tarkio College, in Tarkio, Mo., and Baylor University.

He entered the military service in Sept., 1940, and his first military assignment was as Post Chaplain at Barksdale Field, La. Chaplain Taylor went from there to Manila, in the Philippines, and with the declaration of war was transferred to the front lines on the Peninsula of Bataan. He was cited for bravery and awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action for his services in the Battle of Bataan.

At the surrender of the American forces on Bataan, he became a member of the infamous "Death March", which led from the Bataan peninsula through the streets of Manila and on to the prison camp at Cabanatuan. He served as chaplain in the prison camp hospital where he ministered to more than 10,000 patients, and he spent 14 week in solitary confinement for smuggling food and medicine to the men in his care. Chaplain Taylor is the only chaplain still in military service who survived the horrors of 42 months of Japanese prison camps.

He was nominated as Chief of Chaplains, U. S. Air Force, on Aug. 16, 1962 and was promoted to the grade of major general on Oct. 1, 1962.

Chaplain Taylor will speak at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church on Sunday.

Youth Attempts Woman Molest

A youth whose age was estimated at 14 attempted to assault a woman Wednesday, police reported.

The woman, who works in a clothing store, told police she was alone in the store at 12:20 p.m. Wednesday, when a youth came in and tried to get her to go into the back room of the store with him. When she refused to go, the youth drew a pocket knife and threatened her with it. The woman then picked up a hammer laying on the counter and replied that she would use it if the youth used the knife, police said.

After she talked to him for a few minutes, the woman said the youth put the knife away and left soon after, running from the store.

Judge Dismisses Damage Suit

In a directed verdict Wednesday, District Judge William Calvert ruled against Esther M. Farabee in her charge of negligence against Joe Blank and Howard F. Swann. She had asked $4,867.88 damages.

Mrs. Frabee, who operates a dress shop on the ground floor in a building at 311 N. Tejon St., alleged that Blank operated the Elwood Hotel on the upper floors and the building was owned by Swann.

The complaint stated that on July 17, 1960, the dress shop was flooded due to a leak in a water pipe in the hotel and that the damage was caused by negligence on the part of one or both defendants.

Judge Calvert said he saw n negligence on the part of either, and dismissed the case.

Rep. Chenoweth Fined for Traffic Violation

Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, 67, Trinidad, was fined in Municipal Court Wednesday for disobeying a traffic signal. He had pleaded guilty. When he failed to respond to a red light, his car was involved in an accident.

Chenoweth said that it was the first time in 42 years that he had been involved in an automobile accident.

Judge Allan Asher explained that in any case involving personal injuries, the party at fault must appear in court. The injuries, however, he said, were minor, and the driver was not hospitalized.

Chenoweth explained that he was quite fatigued, being forced to do in two weeks what he should take three months to do, since he had been detailed in the long session of Congress.

Judge Asher imposed the customary $10 fine, and Chenoweth remarked that the police officers had been very kind and courteous.

Paul Hollingworth, 21, 1023½ Alexander Hwy., was fined $10 for a muffler violation, to which he had pleaded guilty. He also pleaded guilty to a charge of jaywalking, and was fined $1 for this. He was under a total bond of $20.

Charges of careless driving against David Reese, 17, 916 N. Royer St., were dismissed.

James Bradberry, 25, Ft. Carson, was found guilty of failure to yield the right of way when making a left turn. He was fined $10. Judge Allan Asher said that Bradberry's not yielding the right of way to the vehicle entitled to it caused the accident. He said that when one is turning against opposing traffic, he has the obligation to wait until his path is absolutely clear.

James Long, 24, 1542 S. Nevada Ave., was fined $75 for reckless driving. He was reported to have been driving at 50 m.p.h. in a 35 m.p.h. zone, when he struck a center island and was involved in a one-car accident. He said that he had been drinking. $25 of his fine is to be suspended if he attends a traffic lecture Nov. 18 in the City Auditorium. Charges againt him of careless driving were dismissed.

Charges of careless driving against Charlie Garcia, 30, 2019 Armstrong St., were dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

John McDowell, Denver, was found guilty of one of the three parking violations with which he was charged, and was fined $5. It was established that he owned the vehicle at the time of ticket issuance. The two violations for which testimony was not available were dismissed.

Abe Badil, 31, Fountain, pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness, and was fined $25.

Personal Injury Suit Filed Here Wednesday

A $20,000 personal injury suit was filed in District Court Wednesday against Lora E. Carpenter, 620 N. Tejon St.

The plaintiffs, Theresa C. and Richard H. Pearson, 1619 W. Pikes Peak Ave., allege that Mrs. Pearson was severely injured Feb. 15 while a passenger in the defendant's car.

According to the information, Mrs. Carpenter, a real estate saleswoman was showing Mrs. Pearson some houses for sale. In the drive, Mrs. Carpenter entered a one-way street headed in the wrong way, and noting this, applied her brakes, causing Mrs. Pearson to be injured.

State Industrial Bankers Will Hold Seminar

The Colorado Industrial Bankers' Association will hold its second annual seminar Friday through Sunday at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Ted Jackson, senior vice president of the Colorado Industrial Bank in Denver, said representatives from almost all the state's 47 industrial banks are expected.

Highlight of the convention will be an address at noon on Saturday by Donald S. Whyte, executive vice president of the American Industrial Bankers' Assn. Whyte, from Washington, will discuss "Current Trends in National Legislation Applying to Banking."

Other speakers at the seminar will include Attorney Louis A. Hellerstein, who will address the board of directors at noon Friday on "Uniform Commercial Code" and Marvin Stone, Denver, a certified public accountant, who will discuss "New Tax Laws Applicable to Industrial Banks" at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Harry Bloom, supervising state bank commissioner for Colorado, will speak at 11:00 a.m. Saturday on "Industrial Banking, Past, Present and Future."

The seminar will conclude with a dinner dance at which Ted Neiswanger of the Longmont Industrial Bank will be master of ceremonies.

In addition to Jackson, other officers are: former State Senator Ernest Weinland, president of the Citizens' Industrial Bank, Fort Collins, vice president, and F. J. Serafina, executive vice president of the Centennial Industrial Bank, Denver, secretary-treasurer.

GIFT FOR MRS. GOLDWATER — A handmade Indian belt was presented to Mrs. Goldwater by Blue Bird, (Cecil J. Calvert) a member of the Hopi Indian tribe, who worked in the Goldwater store and museum in Phoenix for nine years. He now lives in Colorado Springs at 1204 Richard Dr. When asked of his association with Sen. Goldwater, Blue Bird said, "This man does not lie! He thinks a long time before he expresses an opinion, and when he has made up his mind, he says what he thinks is right!" (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Escapee Found Legally Sane

Larry Keith Wolfe, one of two defendants who escaped Aug. 21 from the El Paso County Court House, was found legally sane Wednesday by Dr. Paul A. Draper.

Wolfe, who is charged in District Court with larceny of a motor vehicle, had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. Dr. Draper was appointed by the court to examine him.

Wolfe, 20, Ft. Carson, is alleged to have stolen an auto from George A. Hoffman on Aug. 2. He escaped from the court house shortly after he appeared in court for his arraignment, and was apprehended three weeks later in Kansas City.

Mrs. Goldwater Speaks Briefly at Luncheon

By GLAD MORATH

Expressing pleasure on returning to Colorado Springs, "Which I love," Mrs. Barry Goldwater, wife of the Republican candidate for President, spoke briefly at a luncheon Wednesday at the Broadmoor International Center.

"I was here for two weeks several years ago when my husband was on active duty with the Air Force," she said.

Mrs. Goldwater did not make an address. She said, very simply, "I hope you will vote for Barry, my husband."

Mrs. Goldwater was becomingly dressed in a navy blue suit with a splash of jade chiffon and a double strand of pearls at the neckline. She wore a white orchid corsage, which was exchanged at the end of the meeting, for a spray-corsage of white roses presented by Nick Ramsey, from the Beta Gamma chapter of Sigma Chi at Colorado College.

In thanking Mr. Ramsey, Mrs. Goldwater said,

"I am not only the sweetheart of a Sigma Chi — I am the daughter and the sister of Sigma Chis."

Mrs. John Love, wife of Colorado's Governor, and Mrs Fletcher Swan of Denver accompanied Mrs. Goldwater and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Holt. Also in the party were Mrs. Gordon Allott, wife of Colorado's senior Senator, and Mrs. Emery Johnson, former National Committeewoman from Arizona, who accompanies Mrs. Goldwater on her campaign tours.

Mrs. Ranger Rogers, wife of the candidate for the Colorado Supreme Court, was among Denver Republicans who came down for the luncheon.

Mrs. Johnson gave the principal address. She emphasized the loss of prestige the United States has suffered in many countries, quoting from newspaper articles which told of the desecration of the American Flag on several occasions.

"The price is too high to pay for the apathy that exists everywhere," she said. "In 1960, 37,000,000 eligible voters failed to go to the polls. Nixon lost by fraud — by only 112,000 votes. votes

"We must get out at least 20,000 additional dedicated women, like the women of '76, who will work for the return of high moral conduct, law and order, and for an end to corruption in high places.

"We must pray for peace, and endorse a strong America, for weakness is the real road to war.

"There is no one in Arizona who does not know of the dedication and accomplishments of Sen. Goldwater. He has measured his vote on every issue by the standard: 'What is good for the country?'"

She gave many instances of his real reasons for not following the popular line on several bills.

"Sen. Goldwater is for Social Security. His criticism and concern are that recipients may not receive their full dollar for every dollar paid in.

"He worked for de-segregation in the schools and public buildings of Phoenix many years ago. He is a humanitarian who speaks the dialetc of many Indian tribes, and Spanish Americans, who are devoted to him.

"Do you know what LBJ stands for?" she asked. "Lyndon-Baker-Jenkins."

Paul Bradley, candidate for Regent of the University of Colorado, introduced Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, candidate for re-election to the House of Representatives, who gave a short address.

Weldon Tartar, County Chairman, introduced all of the county candidates, and Mrs. Betty Higbee, State Vice Chairman, was mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. William Aurand at the grand piano played lilting patriotic tunes and appropriate popular selections preceding luncheon.

Mrs. Goldwater and her party went on to Denver where she was the honored guest at a reception late Wednesday afternoon. A coffee was given in her honor Wednesday morning in Pueblo.

Judge Takes Suit Under Advisement

No decision was made Wednesday in District court in a damage suit brought by Riss and Co. Inc. against the Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. Instead, Judge G. Russell Miller took the matter under advisement.

The damage suit is for $11,178.67. The plaintiff alleges that the company was insured by the defendant for cargo losses and that the insurance company refused to pay a claim for damage incurred May 15, 1963, when Riss and Co. was hauling cargo as a common carrier for a third party.

Cash Box Taken From Area Service Station

Cash and checks in the amount of $242.76 were removed from a cash box sometime Tuesday night from the Standard Station, 2902 N. Nevada Ave., according to a sheriff's office report.

LaVerne Alvord, 1019 E. Columbia St., notified the sheriff's office of the break-in, accomplished by smashing a window to the station. The cash box was pried open.

Jury Decides Wednesday Man Legally Insane

A jury selected to determine the sanity of Robert A. Griffin took 45 minutes Wednesday to bring in a verdict that the man was legally insane.

District Judge Hunter Hardemann ordered Griffin committed to the State Hospital in Pueblo.

Griffin, 21, Tekaha, Neb., was charged with aggravated robbery. He was alledged to have stolen a car at gun-point July 3 from Nancy Palmer Ross, 333 Altura Way, after she had given him a lift from Columbus, Neb., to Colorado Springs.

Griffin had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. The hearing Wednesday was on the sanity issue only.

Attorney Clinton Cole, representing Griffin, recounted a history of the defendant's mental problems for the past four years, including a stay in Fitzsimons Hospital in Denver while he was in the Army.

Cole also said Griffin was a patient at a state hospital in Norfolk, Neb., and at a similar hospital in Nevada, Mo. He offered in evidence letters from hospital officials that stated Griffin was diagnosed as a "schizophrenic chronic undifferentiated type."

Dr. Paul Draper, psychiatrist appointed by the court to examine Griffin, stated that the man's memory "seems good for remote and present events" and his "intelligence is a little above average."

His conclusion after several examinations was, he said, that Griffin was "not psychotic and was legally sane" at the time he examined him.

When Richard Webster, attorney for the people, asked the psychiatrist if, in his opinion, Griffin was sane or insane on or about July 3 (the date of the alleged offense), Cole objected. Webster read the state statute regarding this, and Dr. Draper said, basing his opinion on this, that Griffin was sane.

Dr. Draper did say, however, that Griffin had suffered from "major mental readtions" during the past four years, and that if Griffin came to him as a private patient, he would recom- "major mental reactions" dur-

City Will Give Away Leaves

The city is giving away free leaves.

But they don't want any in return.

City residents who want leaves for mulching or other purposes may have bushels of them free by calling the street department and putting in a request. Otherwise the city will haul the leaves to a landfill.

If persons are trying to get rid of leaves, Street Superintendent Don Lawrie asks them not to rake them into the street. This clogs storm drains and sewers.

Unplugging storm sewers is a costly operation, Lawrie said, and creates a potential danger of flooded lawns and other property.

The city's two leaf machines were pressed into operation this week to collect the leaves still clinging on to branches. The machines will be kept in service during most of the "leaf season."

Operating leaf machines is done in addition to other duties normally carried out by the street department. Last month some of these duties included:

Street sweeping, 1,461 manhours; taking care of lanterns and barricades, 260; curb, gutter and sidewalk repairs, 279; storm drainage, 728; removing debris from streets, 44; improvement district, 448; preparing for paving, 279.

Mixed Crews Seen for Red Spaceships

MOSCOW (UPI) — The president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said Wednesday there is no doubt that Russia will orbit a space ship manned by a male and female crew.

"In fact, there was no special reasons why a woman did not take part in the latest flight," Mystislav Keldysh told a news conference at which he presented gold medals to the tree-man crew of the spaceship Sunrise.

Keldysh and the three new cosmonauts stressed that the flight of the world's first multi-manned space ship was planned for one day. There had been speculation that a longer flight had been intended but trouble developed.

Keldysh also said that the space bus pioneered cabin pressurization work, radiation shielding, two-way space radio, altitude control systems and other projects for use in later flights to the moon and planets.

"No doubt there will be a mixed-manned flight in the future," Keldysh said, glancing at the world's first spacewoman, Valentina Tereshkova, who sat with the new cosmonauts during the conference.

The three new cosmonauts, pilot Vladimir M. Komarov, scientists Konstantin P. Feoktistov and Dr. Boris B. Yegorov, told about 2,000 newsmen of their historic flight last week.

Keldysh and the spacemen disclosed:

—The Soviet cosmonauts are learning to steer by the stars for flights to the moon and planets.

—The Soviet Union is working on an ion-acceleration engine. Such an engine would be used on flights in deep space, Keldysh explained. He said it would provide the tiny forward push necessary to keep a ship moving in outer space.

—The "featherbed" landing of the Sunrise craft was like an elevator coming to a stop. "But this type of soft landing is not suitable for use on the moon," said Komarov without further explanation.

—The rocket which boosted the ship into a 16-orbit journey of the earth Oct. 12 was the world's most powerful. "I can say the booster used was more powerful than any yet used to put a pay load of instruments or cosmonauts in orbit," said Keldysh.

PLANS AUTOMATED PLANT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cities Service Co. said Wednesday its Colombian subsidiary plans to build an automated gas processing plant for the Payoa Field in the Magdalena valley of Colombia.

Initial capacity will be 40 million cubic feet of gas daily to be raised ultimately to 50 million. The plant, due to be in operation by 1965, will be virtually unattended.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: Quite frankly I am one of those who resent the word "Salvation". I always think of tent-meetings, holy rollers, and of off-beat people trying to get everyone saved. Is it wrong to feel this way? I believe in God, but I feel resentful toward some people's concept of Him. —F. T.

ANSWER: You have done what many have: developed a stereotyped concept of salvation. True, some people have used this word to represent distorted views of Christianity. They have brought discredit to it. It might be a good idea to rethink the word. The dictionary says it is: "spiritual rescue from sin and death; the saving of the soul through the atonement of Jesus; redemption."

Picture a ship disabled at sea. An able crew and vessel rush out into the storm, and at the risk of their lives, save the crew from death at sea. Now, do you resent this picture? Picture love, compassion, and nobility raised to their highest level. Picture God, concerned by the suffering, the anguish, the loneliness of man, sending His Son down into the human condition; living with them, and dying for them. Do you resent this?

If you do, your pride prevents you from owning your lostness and need of God. If you don't, then open your heart to this love. Receive Him as your Lord and Saviour. The Bible says, "He came to save his people from their sins." The plain, hard fact is: we are lost and need a Savior, and to the person who is lost, a Savior is welcome.

QUESTION: I would like to know what a born-again Christian should do if he is a member of a church in which the minister openly laughs at the Bible and denies the basic elements of the Christian Gospel. — R.M.

ANSWER: It depends on two things: first, upon just how strong a Christian you are, and second, God's direction in your decision.

Let's face it: there are ministers who have doubts about elements of the Christian faith. Personally, I don't believe that a man is equipped to help others believe when he is harassed by doubts himself.

If your faith is being weakened by the weakness of your leader, then I would recommend that you find another church. But, if you are firmly established in the faith, you might be able to help the church through this period of mishappen leadership. The Bible says, "We that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not please ourselves." Remember, God offered to spare Sodom if a few faithful were found there. If all true believers forsook a church when a bad shepherd threatened it, what hope would there be of it's future? But you must be sure to ascertain the leading of God in this decision. If He directs you to remain where you are, he will give you the grace and the wisdom to help the situation and not hurt.

GRISEOFULVIN IN PRURITIS ANI

Serendipity does it again. A Philadelphia physician prescribed griseofulvin for a woman with ringworm of the toenails and the infection claered within a few weeks. This oral antifungal tablet has been used with considerable success in many types of ringworm.

Here is where Dr. Alan Rubin made an unexpected discovery. The woman had been bothered for 12 years with severe anal itching, which disappeared promptly by the end of the second week of treatment with griseofulvin. She was seen 14 months later; her toenails were normal and she was free of anal irritation. Dr. Rubin tried the tablets on three other women and each responded in the same dramatic way.

Pruritus ani is an annoying disorder and may be severe enough to interfere with work, sleep, and play. Itching does not always imply disease, in that lack of cleanliness, especially after a movement, or excessive perspiration may play a role. When bathing, it is important to wash away the soap because it may aggravate the symptom.

Diet also must be considered in that highly seasoned food, fish, nuts, pickles, and alcoholic drinks may lead to itching due to allergy or mechanical irritation. Worry and the stress and strain of work are other factors. This may be the beginning of a vicious cycle because itching robs the victim of sleep which, in turn, enhances fatigue.

Examination is needed because a local disturbance may be responsible for pruritus. Hemorrhoids, fissures, and crypts are a common source of trouble. Inflammation may produce an infected secretion which irritates the anal surface.

The condition may develop after taking oral antibiotics. These products subdue certain micro - organisms in the intestine and allow others, including fungi and yeast, to thrive. Griseofulbin is an antibiotic and possibly it kills the intestinal fungi or yeast that causes the rectal itching.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

VEIN CLOT

Mrs. W. writes: I have milk-leg, even though I have not had a beby or an operation. I have fever, too. What could the cause be. 8

An infected clot (thrombophlebitis) has obstructed the main vein in one leg. This disorder may follow any type of surgery, injury, or remaining seated for many hours. Now and then the condition develops for no apparent reason.

Mrs. H. writes: I have a fatty tumor and my doctor says to forget it. If I don't have it removed soon, will it grow long roots that could require much cuting to get out?

No. Fatty tumors do not have long roots and the majority stop growing after reaching a certain size.

PERMANENT NUMBNESS

R. T. writes: Recently I had an operation on my face for tic douloureux. Pain was relieved and I'm able to talk well. But the right side of my face is numb. Will feeling ever return.

No, but numbness is better than the severe pain associated with facial neuralgia.

PERMANENT POCKETS

L. C. writes: Will diverticulas go away if you follow a bland diet.

No. These little pockets in the wall of the intestine are there to stay.

Red Army Emerges as Real Power in Russia

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — The Red army, once the subordinate instrument of the Communist party, has emerged as the real power in Russia.

On the 47th anniversay of the Soviet revolution, which Russians will mark Nov. 7, Lenin's dream of a universal Communist state lies in ruins. Russia, it is now clear, is heading toward a military dictatorship of the proletariat.

In the view of some specialists on communism, this is the real significance of Nikita Khrushchev's fall from power.

Leonid Brezhnev, who replace him as chairman of the Communist party, and Alexei Kosygin, the new premier, have neither the authority nor the popular backing to attain the pinnacle in the Kremlin, together or singly. They are primarily economic managers and technicians. They are not Marxist-Leninist theoreticians or skilled Red politicians.

Brezhnev and Kosygin are at best interim figureheads who will stay at the Kremlin's helm only as long as the Red army needs them.

They will, of course, continue to use the esoteric language of Marxism-Leninism which is a part of the Soviet mystique. But there is no question that within Russia and without, the job of the new men in the Kremlin, under Red army guidance, will be to pursue not communism but Russian national power and interest.

Marshal Sokologsky, the hero of Stalingrad, and other high-ranking Red officers—including Marshals Georgi Zhukov and Ivan Konev, who were disgraced and ousted by Khrushchev—are now believed to be the men who call the tune in Russia.

The elimination of Khrushchev therefore throws American and NATO policies into complete disarray.

Soviet military strategists always feared a conflict that they might have to fight on two fronts—in the West and in the Far East.

Believing that the Chinese would not have an atomic weapon in their possession for another 5 or 6 years, military leaders obviously were aware that Mao's atomic test was imminent. Indeed, it followed the ouster of Khrushchev by a mere several hours.

The Kremlin's new team is expected to reverse Khrushchev's policy and work for a reapproachment with Red China. This means greater Russian military and political backing of Mao Tse-tung's "wars of liberation," especially in Viet Nam, Laos and elsewhere in Southeast Asia.

The feud between Nikita Khrushchev and the Red army had been brewing for many months. It reached its climax and came out into the open in September when Pravda printed —after a delay of three days— Khrushchev's speech at an international youth forum in Moscow.

The speech was a direct challenge to the military, who had previously printed in the army's official newspaper a series of articles criticizing Khrushchev's pet nuclear strategy. The articles appeared under the signature of Marshal Sokolovsky.

Khrhushchev took issue with the prevailing Red army view about the importance of tanks and armored forces in modern warfare. He denied to tanks the ability to survive in a modern war and even to accomplish their combat tasks. He ridiculed conventional arms.

Khrushchev argued, in effect, that Russia was wasting great resources, especially steel, that were needed for consumer goods in order to satisfy the military. He also implied that the Red army was reaching for power through Russia's defense industry.

High - ranking officers thus feared that Khrushchev's speech heralded not only a cut in Soviet military funds but also a new purge of the army. They seem to have struck before Khrushchev had a chance to act.

However, long before his demise, Khrushchev had lost the backing of many of his political partisans in Russia in the ranks of international communism.

His internal reforms in Russia were considered too risky by dogmatic Reds. The economic results of his rule were a failure. The Russians even suffered the humiliation of buying grain from capitalist America.

In foreign policy, Khrushchev had not achieved the global deal with the United States which would have justified his anti-Chinese position or canceled his failures in Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America.

The Cuban fiasco first brought all the dissatisfactions in the Red world to the surface. In view of Red China's condemnation of Khrushchev, his departure is a victory for Red China's Mao Tse-tung. He emerges as the undisputed authority on Marxism-Leninism in the Red world.

It is also a victory for the pro-Mao "internal Chinese" in the Kremlin. These want the West — especially the United States — to be occupied with sporadic revolutions and wars of liberation, and are opposed to Khrushchev's policy of peaceful co-existence.

However, it was not his foreign policy that toppled Khrushchev. It was his desperate attempt to curb the rising power of the Red army.

Actor Ernest Borgnine Files Divorce Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Ernest Borgnine Wednesday filed suit for divorce from musical comedy star Ethel Merman, charging extreme cruelty and serious mental suffering.

Borgnine, 47, who won an "Oscar" for his performance in "Marty," and Miss Merman, 35, were wed at Borgnine's Beverly Hills home last June 27.

The divorce action filed by Borgnine's attorney, Harold A. Abeles, said the couple separated one month and 11 days later on Aug. 7.

Saskatchewan May Have to Join U.S.

MONTREAL (AP) — Premier W. Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan says his province would have to consider joining the United States if Quebec should secede from Canada.

"So long as Quebec is in Confederation, Canada is a fine economic unit," he told a news conference Tuesday.

"But if it ever left — and I hope to God it won't — we'd have to give consideration to joining the United States."

Quebec has been the scene of repeated demonstrations by a militant separatist movement which wants autonomy for the French-speaking province.

Chou's Atomic Proposal Not Popular in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai has transmitted directly to President Johnson through diplomatic channels the Red Chinese proposal for a summit conference on abolition of nuclear weapons, the State Department disclosed today.

The proposal has already been rejected by top U.S. officials in public statements — Secretary of State Dean Rusk dismissing it as a "smoke screen" to cover China's first nuclear test explosion.

What appears significant about the new disclosure is the direct transmission from the prime minister of the unrecognized Peking regime to the U.S. President of such a message.

State Department press officer Richard I. Philips was asked whether the receipt of the message here meant that there was any change in the condition of nonrecognition between the United States and Red China. He replied with an emphatic "No."

The communication came by way of the long-standing U.S.-Red Chinese ambassadorial contact in Warsaw, Poland.

Teachers Had More Things to Do, Then

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—In a list of rules posted by a New York City principal in 1872 and unearthed by a doctoral candidate at Pennsylvania State University, teachers were required to:

"Fill lamps, clean chimneys, and trim wicks; bring one bucket of water and one scuttle of coal to each day's session; spend time after school reading the Bible or other good books; lay aside a goodly sum from each pay for use during declining years, so as not to become a burden on society."

Men teachers were allowed one evening each week "for courting purposes," or two evenings a week if they went to church regularly. Women teachers who married or engaged in "unseemly conduct" were to be dismissed.

Also, the list stated: "Any teacher who smokes, uses liquor in any form, frequents pool or public halls, or gets shaved in barber shops, will give good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity, and honesty."

However, it added: "The teacher who performs his labors faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of 25 cents per week in his pay providing the Board of Education approves."

National Liberty Week Is Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., will serve as chairman of a nationwide "Liberty Week" observance, the Republican National Committee announced today.

The committee said that observances during the week of Oct. 25-31 will mark the seventy-eighth anniversary of Statue of Liberty and eighth anniversary of the Hungarian revolution.

Proclamations of Liberty Week have been issued by seven state governors, and 46 mayors in 20 states, the committee said.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Big Gamble

When a young men embarks on a career of gambling and has a fortunate run at the tables, it is next to impossible to explain to him that his efforts are nonproductive and that, in the long run, lady luck will desert him and leave him destitute. While he's raking in the chips and spending money like water, the world takes on a rosy hue.

Older and wiser heads, seeking to counsel him and moaning sadly over the avenue of action chosen, are very apt to be laughed out of court. What has the young man to fear? Why all these pale-livered admonitions? He has never had it so good. Other gamblers may have ended in skid row, but he is different. He can have his cake and eat it, too.

If this difficulty can be understood, the difficulty in explaining to three generations of young people that their government has taken a wrong turn and that disaster looms, can really be appreciated. How can you explain to young people who are having a run of good fortune via government aid, dole, assistance, and propaganda, that the chips are going to stop piling up in front of them and that they will be more fortunate in the long run if they quit listening to the siren song of government dependency and go to work?

The cassandra of today faces an up hill task. The propagandists have been busy. They point to sections of the country which were impoverished prior to the New Deal. Then they show how, through spending money like water in the name of "social justice," those impoverished areas took on a bloom and today appear to be flourishing. The syllogism is grasped by the most shallow. A. We were poor. B. Government gave us money. C. We are no longer poor.

It's all so beautifully simple. But like any kind of syllogistic reasoning, it is narrow and a little too pat. The gambler at the tables has the same kind of rational. A. He began to gamble B. He won. C. Gambling wins rewards for him without any more effort than is contained in a game of chance.

Unfortunately, those committed to actions which derive from narrow syllogisms usually are unwilling to apply logic in the opposite direction. Were they able and willing to do so, they might come up with some astonishing results.

1. Before government spending began at its present and ever-mounting crescendo, were all of the people in the nation impoverished? The answer is no.

2. Where did the government get the money to spend? The answer is, from the people of the nation who were productive and hence who were not impoverished.

3. Then what is this concept of "social justice" but a mockery; a tune played on a wheezing calliope which can only be heard while massive incursions and grand theft deprive those who earn of what they earn so that those who do not earn are rewarded. This is social justice? It is grand theft in the Robin Hood tradition.

4. But what does a thief do when one runs out of victims?

Any program of share-the-wealth is only applicable so long as there are some who have something left to steal. If poverty becomes general, on whom will the thief turn?

5. If the government has managed to eradicate poverty, root and branch, how does it happen that our government now tells us that some twenty per cent of our population is still impoverished? While the improverished of the 30's were being made recipients of the dole, fewer than twenty per cent were involved as objects of forced government welfare. Does this mean that the massive programs of grand theft, justified earlier on the grounds of poverty, have accomplished precisely nothing? Yes, that is what it means.

6. Billions have been taken from the productive of the land and further billions have been borrowed, while at the same time money has been printed, creating a false sense of prosperity, which has made the billions in circulation worth less than half of what they were in the 30's. Well, that money has been spent. Where did it go?

The single beneficiary of government largesse is government. From the days of the depression until the present time, millions of persons have been put into government and paid lavishly. The percentages of impoverished remain approximately the same, by the government's own figures.

The lad at the gambling table or the young man accepting a dole might keep this in mind. The only winner of these games of chance is the house. The system is rigged. The suckers are "taken" and the game can only continue to provide some winners when there are plenty of losers. But the amateur is always deluded by appearances of affluence. It is always difficult to reason with him.

Among U.S. Extremists: Patrick Henry

From N.Y. Sunday News

Herewith, the first in a series of Sunday News editorials on Americans who, long before Sen. Barry Goldwater said it, exemplified and justified his remark that "extremism in defense of liberty is no vice; moderation in pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Patrick Henry was one of the most vigorous, clear-visioned and courageous men in this country before, during and for years after the American Revolution.

That is saying a good deal, because this country produced large numbers of vigorous, clear-visioned and courageous men in those decades.

Henry was born at Studley, in Hanover County, Va., May 29, 1736. His father, John Henry, was a Scot of good education and excellent mind, his mother a lady with much talent for music and conversation.

As a youngster, Patrick Henry showed surprisingly little promise, considering the caliber of his parents. He did far from well at school, and afterward failed twice as a storekeeper and once at farming.

He liked to read history and law, though, and he become a lawyer in 1760, and swiftly succeeded in the legal profession.

Henry was elected to the Virginia Legislature (House of Burgesses) in 1765. In that year, he sponsored the Virginia Resolutions, which urged American colonists to resist the British Stamp Tax Act and insist on the right to levy their own taxes.

These resolutions bore fruit in the Revolutionary battle cry: "No taxation without representation." They also gave Henry occasion to make the first of his famous extremist utterances. Said he during debate on the resolutions:

"Caesar had his Brutus, Charles I his Cromwell, and George III may profit by their example! (Cries of 'Treason! Treason!' from some of the assembled legislators.) If this be treason, make the most of it."

George III, of course, was king of England at the time Henry made these remarks. Yet Henry had the courage to throw his defiance squarely into the teeth of His Britannic Majesty without ifs, ands or buts. Such extremism, no doubt, shocked Nervous Nellies among the colonists; but it did much to prepare colonial public opinion for the Revolution.

In 1774 as a delegate to the first Continental Congress in Philadelphia, Patrick Henry made an extremist remark of another kind; a remark which you might say labeled him as the first America Firster:

"The distinctions between Virgianians, Pennsylvanians, New Yorkers and New Englanders are not more. I am not a Virginian, but an American."

By that time, the American Revolution was inevitable, with colonists stocking arms and ammunition in various hideaways and British troops being readied for conflict.

On March 23, 1775, Patrick Henry made the speech for which he is best known and most revered, and will be as long as Americans respect their own history and treasure the deeds and words of their national heroes.

At a revolutionary convention in Richmond, Va., Henry offered a resolution for arming the Virginia militia for war. In the course of his speech on the document, he roared:

"Gentlemen may cry peace! peace! — but there is no peace! The war is actually begun! The next gale that sweeps from the North will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms! Our brethren are already in the field! . . . Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty, or give me death!"

No doubt the moderates (you might say the anti-Goldwaterites) of Henry's time deplored this utterance. But they are long forgotten, while Henry's fame is great and still growing.

And if the colonies had not bred such extremists as Henry, in large numbers, these United States would still be colonies of Britain.

VEZZETTI BREAD

To the Editor:

For the benefit of you who like to see behind the scenes in Colorado, here is a little info that is a little hard to get. Having read the write-up in a Denver paper about the Vezzetti Brothers down in Rockvale who have an old-fashioned stone oven where they bake "the best Italian bread in the West," and since I am fascinated by historical features, we hunted the place down this Sunday.

Rockvale does not seem to be a very well-known metropolis nowadays; it is not on the road maps, and none of the Colorado Springs papers knew right where it is — just somewhere in Fremont County, which is a little ambiguous. For those seekers of the obscure and lovers of good bread here is the path:

Just go to Florence, go west on Main Street, past the Safeway store for a few blocks, turn left (south) — I forget whether there is a sign — and Rockvale is just a couple of miles out southwest on a mostly paved road.

Its population is now just under 700, quite a comedown from years ago when it numbered over 2,000 and the coal mines were going full blast and the Santa Fe had a big yard there. Those yards are still crawling with concrete foundations, just seem to be waiting for more structures to rise on them in the fullness of the future. It is a little hamlet tucked away on the south bosom of a mighty hill; maybe it remains more peaceful than having a place on the maps.

The Vezzetti Brothers grocery store is on the south side of the road; going through the town from the east it is the first one. The bread oven is in the back of the store, built by the elder Vezzetti in 1915, and still baking 1,000 loaves of bread a week, 200 a day but never on Friday or Sunday. The fire is built up (the oven is never allowed to cool off) fired by wood; when the proper temperature is reached, the fire is scraped out and the bread put onto the hot brick floor by wooden paddles. A fairly complete account was given in the "Empire Magazine" supplement of the Denver Post some time back, but one interesting detail was omitted. There is no flue inside this oven; there is an iron screen in front of the door, which is about 18 inches high, and the smoke comes out the upper 12 inches of the door and goes out a flue directly above the oven door outside the oven, the air going in the lower six inches of the oven door. The iron screen is composed of three slabs of sheet iron, hinged to the ceiling and which lower to cover the three sides of the door, which is open when the oven is firing and closed when the bread is baked. One hundred loaves are baked at a time, the oven remaining hot enough for two batches of bread, the timing being a little different on the second baking.

We tried to buy some bread, but no soap — they are all snapped up shortly 100 per cent. You have to order this bread ahead of time and as the Vezzettis have no telephone it takes two trips to Rockvale to get the job done. So we ordered our loaves today and will get it next weekend. I hear that these people could multiply their production several times and still sell all they can bake, but they are afraid that would ruin their individual flavor.

Pardon me while I go bake a few thousand bricks and get set up. Anybody know how to bake old-world bread?

Scientific Morality

We have been passing through an era in which the scientist has been virtually canonized. Physical scientists have gained the spotlight and their status is not entirely unearned or undeserved.

Unfortunately, those scholars dealing with the social sciences have felt it necessary, apparently, to downgrade their own area of inquiry simply because it cannot be treated with the same degree of objectivity one can find in chemistry. They have thus drifted away from inquiry into morality, ethics and a study of the good and the bad. Instead, they have sought at all times to avoid any question of policy and have sought to deal rationally with process.

We are not opposed to a study of process. On the contrary, this is the core of economics, which tells us how we can get from one place to another. And we believe that a more thorough understanding of economics is of great importance.

But when we get into value preference and judgments, the social scientist seems to be almost embarrassed. He is content to amass data concerning mass behavioral patterns and to avoid the merest mention of the obvious fact that certain types of behavior are beneficial and certain types detrimental to human well being. We were more than usually impressed, therefore, when a current issue of Science Magazine (September 11, 1964) reproduced an article by Peter H. Odegard as its editorial. Mr. Odegard is worth listening to.

"A value-free science is of course absurd in any strict sense since science has its own norms, standards, or values, by which its statements are tested and-or evaluated. Nor is it enough to say that scientific values are merely methodological or procedural, concerned with means and not ends, except only as they aid in the objective pursuit of truth. For truth wears many faces, and to discover what is true or false is not unrelated to the discovery of what is good or bad. A scientific concept can be true or false in the degree to which it corresponds to the norms or standards of science itself — i.e., to meter readings — and it may be good or bad in the degree that it contributes to, or corresponds with, the basic needs and goals of human life. Unless science is merely random behavior or idle curiosity without purpose, it has a responsibility to discover and to serve these basic needs and goals."

Mr. Odegard is clearly setting the record straight in the area of ethics. It is not enough to know how to do certain things; it is important also to know whether certain things ought to be done at all, even if we know how to do them.

"This lays a special obligation on the social sciences because they are by definition concerned with man and society. So-called behavioral science, whether hard-nosed or soft-nosed, assumes that human behavior is goal-directed, and that in striving for these goals, men choose among alternative modes of conduct. It assumes also that in choosing, they are conditioned not merely by the physical world and the pressures of appetite and instinct, but by formal education in rational modes of thought and behavior. Rationally induced changes in human behavior thus become as reasonable — as scientific — as rationally induced changes in the physical environment. There is nothing unscientific in social scientists' seeking to change those conditions of character and environment that impair man's ability to make rational choices among alternative modes of behavior."

We are considerably heartened to find a leading scientific journal coming forward with this kind of editorial. What is obviously required is something in the natural of scientific morality. What is imperative is a set of rules, a code which is rational, based upon the true nature and character of man and that avoids the ancient shibboleths and superstitions of the past just as carefully as it avoids the concept that methodology is all and that morality is a myth.

Since all science is merely a study of a cause-effect relationship, moral causation is a primary tool in finding out, not HOW, but WHY men should do certain things and refrain from doing other things. This is the very reason praxeology is so important an area of inquiry today.

The physical sciences have done trojan service in their tenacity and perseverance for the past score of decades. Possibly we are now ready for the behavioral and social sciences to discard their aping of the physical scientists, to stop dealing with mass man and mass statistics, and to examine the role of the individual in a society free of political (coercive) control.

Key to Kremlin Policy

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Intelligence authorities are now convinced Nikita Khrushchev was overthrown by a three-man cabal, but only time will tell who emerges as the next Kremlin czar.

It could be one of the currently ruling triumvirate, or another of the inner Red moguls. There is no lack of ambitious aspirants.

One thing is certain: Sooner or later, the controlling reins will wind up in the hands of one individual. That's the way it has always been in Russia, under the czars as well as the Communists.

Throughout the country's long and gory history, with the exception of a few brief interludes, it has never been governed by a group or parliamentary system of any kind. In one form or another, Russia has always been ruled by some type of absolutism.

Only question in the latest upheaval is who will attain that dominance, and how.

Of the three-man cabal, deemed the most likely prospect for this role, in the opinion of intelligence experts, is the best known — Leonid Brezhnev, the 55-year-old new possessor of the all-powerful job of First Secretary of the Soviet Communist Party.

In this key role he is in a position to exercise decisive advantage in the job, and able to use its vast power in control, not a new thing in the Soviet.

Brezhnev has yet to nail down this potentially immense power. It took Stalin a number of years and ferocious purges to do so. How Brezhnev goes about it and how far he gets remains to be seen.

Brezhnev starts with one incalculable advantage. He is in the job, and able to use its vast controls for his own ends.

POSSIBLE RIVALS

Of the two other members of the cabal, one played a major role in Khrushchev's hectic and bloody rise to dominance.

Mikhail Suslov, 62, whose shadow and fateful maneuvering and conspiring dating back to the despotic Stalin era have caused him to be known as the "mystery man of the Kremlin," is rated by some intelligence authorities as probably the most potent of the triumvirate.

Suslov knows where the bodies lie, and how and when best to use that.

He did it in behalf of Khrushchev in the fierce inner battling in 1956 that enabled him to ax Malenkov and Molotov, one-time close Stalinist associates of Suslov, and he did it again as a member of the cabal that knifed Khrushchev.

In every Kremlin power struggle, tall, thin, dour, uncommunicative Suslov always emerged on the winning side — and not by luck.

Whether this highly astute and facile Red Machiavelli will now try for top control remains to be seen. Suslov has long wielded great influence in the inner Soviet hierarchy, but never evinced any desire to go beyond that.

However, so little is know personally about him that any conjectures are lively guess work. Even among knowledgeable Communists, it's not known whether Suslov is married.

Nikolai Podgorny, third member of the cabal, is another close Khrushchev henchman who helped cut his throat when it served his purpose.

The 61-year-old Ukrainian, like his fellow conspirators a member of the Presidium of the Committee, is also chairman of the committee's Internal Security Affairs Commission.

Podgorny's commission is one of three key commissions — the other two significantly headed by Brezhnev and Suslov, the Military Commission by the former, and Foreign Police Commission by the latter.

In these roles, the trio dominate the Presidium and thereby the Central Committee. That is how they were able to depose their old buddy Khrushchev.

IN THE OFFING

New Premier Alexei Kosygin, 58, is basically a party hack, and a figurehead. He was put into this job until the power struggle is settled and the new Kremlin czar takes over. Then Kosygin will scuttle quietly back to the sidelines from which he was plucked.

Fateful figures to keep an eye on are Dmitry Ustinov, a brilliant technician and administrator in charge of heavy military production, and Boris Ponomarev, head of the Foreign Communist Party Commission and close Suslov ally.

An important change in either of their roles would be viewed with utmost attention by intelligence authorities.

Should Ustinov be elevated to First Deputy Premier, that could be extremely foreboding. To Western military officials, this would be taken as an ominous portent that the new Soviet rulers are thinking in war terms regardless of their public "coexistence" professions.

Similarly, any enhancement of Ponomarev's position would be interpreted as foretelling attempts to again exert iron Kremlin rule over the increasingly dissident foreign communist parties.

Above all, most intently watched is what the triumvirate does regarding Red China.

In the final phases of Khrushchev's violent verbal altercations with Peiping, he dropped hints to Western diplomats that the Soviet would be at war with the Chinese by the end of this year.

It remains to be seen whether he was merely fulminating or if there was something to his startling intimations.

In this fateful question the following may have significant bearing:

When Brezhnev made his unpublicized trip to East Germany last week, he conferred with a Red Chinese delegation there, which subsequently accompanied him back to Moscow — a few days before Khrushchev's ouster.

Suslov early this year spent several months in Peiping endeavoring to patch up the bitter feuding, but apparently without avail. He had made previous trips to China, and is known to be on cordial terms with all top Communist rulers there.

Podgorny made a little-noticed trip to Paris last summer and talked with key De Gaulle officials about Chinese relations. De Gaulle regime has been noncommittal about these discussions.

MORE SENSATION SCANDALS

Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are planning to raise questions about a high diplomatic appointment pending before the committee for confirmation. The GOP senators have been told this career State Department official was twice turned down by the White House, after scrutiny of his security file, on appointments recommended by the department. President Johnson named him to this latest appointment at the request of the department. The Republican senators want to know why that was done, and if Johnson knew of the information in the official's security file. . . . Administration authorities have launched a detailed examination of the personal records of numerous officials to ascertain if they contain any politically explosive data. Democratic campaign leaders are making no bones they are highly fearful of another Jenkins-type scandal in the closing weeks of the campaign.

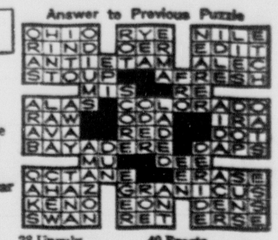
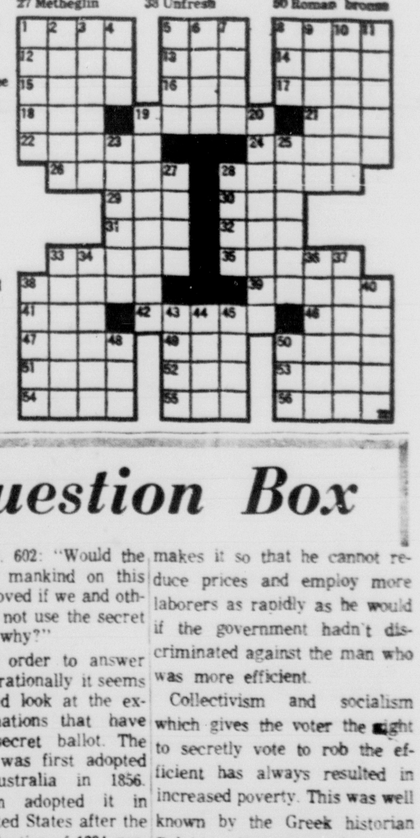
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Question Box

Question No. 602: "Would the well being of mankind on this earth be improved if we and other nations did not use the secret ballot? If so, why?"

Answer: In order to answer that question rationally it seems that we should look at the experience of nations that have adopted the secret ballot. The secret ballot was first adopted in South Australia in 1856. Great Britain adopted it in 1863. The United States after the presidential election of 1884 generally adopted the secret ballot. France adopted it in 1914.

Of course, if you believe in a planned economy by the government and that a planned economy would materially and spiritually improve the well being of mankind, then, to those who so believe, the secret ballot would be harmless.

If you believe in respecting private property, then it would seem that the secret ballot has been harmful in Australia, Great Britain, The United States and France. Since the secret ballot has been adopted, all these nations have gone toward larger and larger government and depriving the individual of his right to make decisions and plan his own property.

The United States has made the most socialistic laws after passing the secret ballot. In 1890 the Sherman Anti-Trust Law was adoped. No one knows really what this law means. It established a government of willful men rather than a government of eternal universal order.

Then in 1913 we adopted the Sixteenth Amendment which permitted the masses to vote discriminatory taxes against individuals. That violates all principles of the Declaration of Independence which gave all men equal rights to make moral effort to preserve their lives and to get more liberty and keep it.

In 1914 The Federal Reserve system went into effect, giving the government unlimited power to increase credit and rob those who had their savings in money or loans.

It is doubtful if we had not had the secret ballot whether we would ever have elected legislatures which would have passed laws which give some special privileges to vote secretly to rob their neighbors. As Emerson says, "The thief steals from himself." It hurts the working man more than the well-to-do. It simply ties the hand of the well-to-do man and makes it so that he cannot reduce prices and employ more laborers as rapidly as he would if the government hadn't discriminated against the man who was more efficient.

Collectivism and socialism which gives the voter the right to secretly vote to rob the efficient has always resulted in increased poverty. This was well known by the Greek historian Polybius. He expressed it thusly:

"So when men begin to lust for power and cannot attain it through themselves or their own good qualities, they ruin their estates, tempting and corrupting the people in every possible way. And hence when by their foolish thirst for reputation they have created among the masses an appetitie for gifts and the habit of receiving them, democracy in its turn is abolished and changes into a rule of force and violence. For the people, having grown accustomed to feed at the expense of others, and to depend for their livelihood on the property of others, as soon as they find a leader who is enterprising but is excluded from the honours of office by his penury, institute the rule of violence; and now uniting their forces massacre, banish, and plunder, until they degenerate again into perfect savages and find once more a master and monarch."

It would seem that since we adopted the secret ballot we are doing exactly that in the United States. A virtuous man has nothing to cover up. He is willing to let others know what are his convictions. But every man who is not informed believes that he can get something for nothing by the secret ballot by robbing the very persons who are reducing prices and furnishing better and better jobs.

It would seem that there is no better way to let the people do the voting than by having an open ballot where everyone knows where the other man stands. In corporations, every stockholder has the right to know how other stockholders voted.

The man whose convictions are based on a universal single standard of right has nothing to fear. He doesn't care who knows what he believes. He is willing to have any and all people challenge his convictions and his beliefs. But the man who has no convictions and thinks that the state has a right to do things that no individual has a moral right to do and who believes in a double standard of right (which in reality is no standard at all) wants things to be secret. There the provident — the man with foresight —has to select his associates without knowing whether he is friend or foe. If he votes publicly then he will know whether the man really believes in private property or not. Madison made this statement long before the secret ballot was adopted and even then he saw that a pure democracy, where the majority had a right to make the ballot secret, never lasted long. He said, "There is nothing to check the inducements to sacrifice the weaker party or an obnoxious individual. Hence it is that such democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention; have ever beenfound incompatible with personal security or the rights of property; and have in general been as short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths."

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Symphony Chief Gets to Direct Jazz Combo

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — "Where are the other 90 men?" asked famed conductor Arthur Fiedler, whose Boston Pops consist of 96 musicians.

"We'd have to throw the audience out to get them here," replied Al Hirt, the bearded jazz trumpet virtuoso who at 6-foot-3 and 281 pounds is literally the biggest man in music.

Fiedler laughed, picked up a baton and Hirt and his five-band began to play. Each of the musicians carefully watched the white-maned Fiedler as he conducted "Trumpeter's Holiday."

The 69-year-old conductor made his first night club appearance Wednesday night as he guided Hirt's sextet in the mammoth musician's Bourbon Street night club.

"I don't think I'll need this anymore," said Fiedler, breaking his baton after the first number. Then he conducted "Java" and "Sugar Lips" — two of Hirt's hottest selling songs. But the musicians didn't pay too much attention to Fiedler as he waved his arms up and down.

"Arthur," said Hirt, "I hope you aren't as nervous as I was when I appeared with you."

Hirt appeared with Fiedler's Boston Pops earlier this year and invited Fiedler "to come down to New Orleans and conduct my band."

"I never thought he'd take me up on it," said Hirt, who trained as a classical horn blower.

Afterwards, Fiedler asked a newsman: "You don't think I looked too bad up there, do you?"

Then Fiedler returned to ringside of the revolving center stage and listened to Hirt blow hot and sweet for more than an hour.

At one point, Hirt introduced his clarinetist, Peewee Spitilera, saying, "Peewee, if you play real good, maybe you can go to Boston.

"Arthur needs somebody to carry the drummer's cymbals."

Spitilera, who is leaving Hirt soon to form his own jazz group, serves as grinning foil for many of Hirt's jokes. Spitilera is as small as Hirt is large.

"Peewee is the best clarinet player in town," Hirt told Fiedler, "unless you want to go two blocks down the street to Pete Fountain's."

After it was all over, Fiedler agreed to go down Bourbon Street to Preservation Hall — where some of the ancient Negro musicians who played Dixieland music years ago perform — "for just one number."

He stayed for almost an hour, listening to Dede Pierce, a white-haired cornet player, and his piano-playing wife, Billy, who was the accompanist for Bessie Smith, the great blues singer of yesteryear.

"They're magnificent," said Fiedler.

He then took in one of Bourbon Street's strip shows, watching spectacular Linda Brigette go through her bumps and grinds.

"This New Orleans is quite a town," mused Fiedler in his precise Bostonian accent.

The maestro heads today for New York, where later in the week he'll conduct Leonard Bernstein's New York Philharmonic — considerably larger than Hirt's sextet.

Demos Display Caution Signal Over Voters

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Lyndon B. Johnson probably would bury Sen. Barry Goldwater under an electoral vote avalanche if the election were held right now.

But Democrats are displaying the caution signal. Several factors could work to draw these two presidential contenders much closer in the remaining decisive weeks of the campaign.

The unanswered question is whether that change could be big enough to overturn present indications and give Goldwater an uphill victory. Most polltakers, most political experts and most bettors suggest today, in a broad consensus, that the answer likely is no.

NEA's latest findings in the field, cross - checked against many other soundings, indicate that as of now the President might win 32 states with a total of 354 electoral votes (270 are required for election.) There are 23 pretty clearly in his column, and another 9 leaning his way.

By contrast, Goldwater at the moment can count as sure or leaning toward him just 12 states with a combined electoral vote of 96. That figures out to be 174 votes short of victory.

The newest samplings place the remaining 6 states, with 88 electoral votes, in the doubtful category. Even if all these be now assigned to Goldwater, his total climbs only to 184 electoral votes. He would still need another 86.

These are the factors which may give Goldwater vitally needed pull - up leverage in the closing campaign weeks:

1. The possibility that a strong silent vote might develop for him amid the unusual voter ferment that marks this election. Ample evidence exists that countless voters have been torn from traditional moorings. How deep this unsettlement runs is not clear.

2. A furious beating of the bushes by Goldwater's dedicated followers which might get out his firm vote almost to the last man, while complacent Democrats — perhaps overconfident of victory — fail to push Johnson's larger legions to the polls in sufficient force.

History indicates democrats invariably have a harder time getting out their vote than do Republicans. Given an ardent Goldwater backing and a Democratic support generally reported lukewarm about the President and stirred by charges against his integrity, he problem could be greatly aggravated for the Democrats in 1964.

One contrary note: In the many places across the nation where new registrations have been completed, Democrats more often than not appear to have added most to their rolls. Negro registration in the South, for example, has topped 2 million for the first time. These are considered safely in the LBJ column.

3. If polls and other indications close to voting day show Goldwater still far behind the President, the GOP nominee might suddenly find himself the beneficiary of an important "underdog" vote. There might be a tendency to "martyr" him in advance.

Many voters might then swing to him in sympathy, or vote for him because they believe he will lose anyway. Some would not want him crushed in a humiliating landslide.

4. Republican moderate and even conservative defectors from Goldwater, now measured at upwards of a quarter of the potential GOP electorate, could swing back to the senator in really significant numbers.

Goldwater and his managers believe this movement is already seriously under way. They count on the powerful pull of old partisan ties to haul millions back into the fold.

If there is a developing big silent vote for Goldwater, it has to mean that many potential voters have been lying to poll takers for weeks — since the reported undecided factor is a modest 6 per cent.

Some analysts believe that only a massive "white backlash" against Negroes could account for such a phenomenon, if it exists. Yet most recent evidence suggest the backlash has been of diminishing force in recent weeks.

The Federalist Party began to lose popularity after taking a stand opposing continuation of the War of 1812 at its Hartford Convention.

Jenkins, Family Offered Help By High Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential assistant Walter Jenkins and his family have been heartened by an outpouring of expressions of sympathy and offers of help in the days since his arrest on a morals charge.

One bouquet of flowers sent to his hospital room bore the card of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, whose organization has been called in by President Johnson to investigate the case.

One of the first public expressions of sympathy and compassion came in a statement from Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, who said her heart ached for Jenkins and his family, who were friends of the Johnsons for many years.

Since then, it was learned, Mrs. Johnson has talked several times by telephone to Mrs. Jenkins and her daughter, Luci, has talked to her close friend, Beth Jenkins, 18, by phone, too.

Mrs. Jenkins was quoted by columnist Betty Beale of the Washington Evening Star as saying of the sympathetic reaction: "We did not know how wealthy we were. It has restored my faith in human nature. It took three friends to answer the telephones the first day."

Mrs. Jenkins also said she had received job offers "from all over," according to Miss Beale.

She said Mrs. Jenkins reported her husband had suffered a complete physical breakdown when the news broke in Washington last week.

"I thought it was going to kill him," Mrs. Jenkins was quoted, "but I think now he is going to come through it. But he is very weak still." The story credited the expressions of sympathy with heartening Jenkins.

When he was hospitalized last Friday, Jenkins' doctor said he was suffering from "extreme fatigue."

Mrs. Jenkins has spent hours daily in her husband's room at George Washington University Hospital and she was there today, too.

Close friends continued to take turns staying at the Jenkins house to aid the family in any way they could.

Vatican Council To Deal With Modern Life

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council's schema on the Roman Catholic Church in the modern world apparently will be extensively rewritten after debate.

The 28-page draft, put before the council on Tuesday, seeks to work out guidelines for the Church in dealing with such problems as birth control, social and economic justice and nuclear war.

In the debate so far, nearly every council member who has spoken has criticized the draft. Generally they have argued that it is not specific enough or that it does not deal strongly enough with the issues it discusses.

The prelates and assisting specialists who wrote the document say it makes no attempt to answer all the questions troubling the world. They say it is written in general terms and avoids detailed and specific solutions because changing conditions might outdate them.

For a change, conservatives and progressives have found themselves on the same side in criticizing the schema.

Irish Archbishop William Conway, for example, is widely considered a conservative, but he termed the schema "excessively timid."

Archbishop Casimiro Morcillo of Madrid was another critic. The Spanish bishops are generally considered among the most conservative in the Church, but Archbishop Morcillo told the council the present version is unacceptable because of its omissions. He said that "no effective dialogue with the present generation can be launched unless we face up squarely" to problems like human dignity, poverty and hunger.

CONTRAST RENEWED

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Stock exchange will continue to handle the bookkeeping of over-the-counter stock transactions through an arrangement with the National OTC Clearing Corp., it was announced Wednesday.

The AMEX said it had renewed its contract with National OTC Clearing Corp. The joint arrangement started in August, 1963.

West Germany Won't Bow to French Threat

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany showed no sign today of bowing to France's threat to quit the European Common Market unless the six nations agree on a common agricultural program.

President Charles de Gaulle's warning drew sharp criticism from representatives of other member nations who condemned it as a poor tactic. The French threat was directed mainly at West Germany, which refuses to lower its government-supported wheat prices to the figure proposed for the Common Market.

West Germany maintains the highest grain prices in the economic community as a subsidy to its farmers. Before lowering its prices to meet French demands, the government wants assurance its farmers will be compensated.

The West German government also wants a guarantee against inflation in the other countries which would modify the purchasing power between the strong West German mark and the currencies of the other members.

A French government spokesman announced the possibility of France's withdrawal Wednesday after a Cabinet meeting in Paris.

The spokesman said that a joint farm policy is necessary before the Common Market can negotiate tariff reductions with the United States in the "Kennedy round" talks.

The six nations agreed to set a common wheat price by last April 15, but this deadline been postponed twice at West Germany's request. The present target date is Dec. 15.

The French action was prompted by an inconclusive meeting of Common Market ministers in Brussels on Tuesday.

French Agriculture Minister Edgar Pisani told the French Cabinet he had encountered opposition from certain other partners who were seeking to protect their own national interests. Besides West Germany, the other market nations are Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

France's withdrawal from the Common Market would be a serious setback to efforts to unify Western Europe. It also would be a grave blow to the industries that have benefited from the gradual abolition of trade barriers between the six nations.

Firehouse Becomes Unusual New Home

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Businessman Craig Hunt and his wife have purchased an old firehouse. A third floor calisthenics area has been converted into their six-room apartment; Hunt uses the second floor to show caskets as a manufacturer's representative, and he has a rug business on the first floor.

"Sure, it's unusual," Hunt says. "But our children are grown, my wife and I are alone, and we love it."

Sammy Told He May Get Into Difficulties

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Four times married, Roggee Goodfellow Sammy-Joe is studying law. Meanwhile, he's trying to figure out whether he's married to Victoria, Felicia, Catherine or Frances.

Justice Sir Stanley Rees of th Divorce Court told the 34-year-old Nigerian Wednesday:

"I think it would be highly desirable if you found out whose husband you are."

"Quite right, my lord," said Sammy-Joe.

"You can't blame the British courts," the judge added. "They're doing their best."

"Quite right, my lord."

Sammy-Joe told the judge he married two women by Nigerian custom and two more under British law.

He said that his first wife, Victoria, did not sign her Nigerian divorce decree until after he'd wed Felicia.

Sammy-Joe said Victoria's failure to sign the divorce decree made marriage No. 2 to Felicia null and void, and inasmuch as Victoria finally did sign it, he could not be married to her either.

He said he then felt free to marry Catherine, who was in Nigeria while he was living in England.

"All I ever saw of her was a photograph," said Sammy-Joe. "We married by proxy under British law."

"Good gracious me!" gasped the judge.

He said marriage No. 3 ended in divorce and in 1962 he wed Frances.

Catherine received a maintenance order against him. Then his fourth wife also obtained a maintenance order.

The judge postponed a decision on who is the legal wife and who should be receiving maintenance but told Sammy-Joe:

"If you carry on with these marriages and divorces, you'll get into difficulties."

Teacher Kills Wife, Himself In Louisiana

DENHAM SPRINGS, La. (AP) — A college teacher killed his wife, shot and clubbed his four children and then committed suicide late Wednesday night, police reported.

Officers, arriving soon afterward, rushed the children to a hospital in Baton Rouge. An 8-year-old boy died en route. The others were in critical condition.

The dead: Harvey Smith, 36, a faculty member at Southeastern Louisiana College in Hammond and a former minister; his wife, Sarah, 30; and their son Kenneth.

In critical condition were Kathy, 12, Janice, 10, and Glenn, 6. Physicians said the two girls were shot in the head with a .22 caliber pistol, then slugged with a hammer. Glenn was beaten with the hammer.

Odom Graves, chief deputy, said no one had any idea what triggered Smith's bloody urge to wipe out the family.

"When we went in the oldest girl was conscious," he said, "but all she could say was, 'Daddy did it.'"

Graves said officers were dispatched to the home after Smith's brother-in-law telephoned from Shreveport, La., to report that Smith had just called him to say he had killed his wife and children and was about to kill himself.

Smith was a former pastor of the Hargis Baptist Church of Denham Springs. His wife was employed by the weekly Denham Springs News.

Hapless Hunter Has Trouble in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — William McReynolds, 27, of Hopkinsville, Ky., asked, "What's going on?" and two St. Louis policemen immediately took him in custody.

President Lyndon Johnson was in St. Louis Wednesday at the time and McReynolds happened to be carrying a gun case.

McReynolds had been visiting an uncle in Ottawa, Ill., where he had gone fishing and target shooting. He arrived in St. Louis by bus and was waiting for another bus back to Kentucky.

He was taking a short walk near the bus depot when the President's motorcade passed by.

Police questioned him for more than an hour before rushing him back to the depot just in time to catch his bus.

Almost All House Seats To Be Filled

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although all 435 seats in the House to Representatives will be filled in the Nov. 3 election, political pros of both major parties look for close contests in less than one-fifth of the districts.

In those districts, scattered across the country, the voters may decide whether Democrats will retain control of the House and whether their now-hefty margin will be whittled by Republicans.

Most of the districts in which the political experts are doing the hardest work to keep the seats they now have and to pick up others are so-called marginal areas with a history of giving the winners very slim victories.

Oddly enough, the men in charge of over-all direction of the rival congressional campaigns are well in agreement on where the going will be the toughest.

But in their private conversations they are in sharp disagreement on the results.

"We should come out with net gain of at least 10 seats," said a spokesman for the Democrats. "We will lose some but we will win more than we will lose. If there is a Johnson landslide, our gains will be much bigger."

"I don't see how we can fail to pick up a minimum of 10 seats, and perhaps 15," said his Republican counterpart. "This is based on the assumption that even if Goldwater loses, he will run a respectable race. If there's a landslide, all bets are off."

A net pick-up of even 15 seats or the Republicans would not give them numerical control of the House, for which 218 votes are needed. Republicans now have 173 seats, including two vacancies. For control, they would have to chalk up a net gain of 40 seats.

Democrats, on the other hand, could lose 39 of their present 257 seats and still keep nominal control.

Republicans look to the south and the border states for their heaviest inroads into the Democratic ranks. To them, their chances look good for three gains in Alabama, one in Florida, as many as five in Georgia, two in Kentucky, two in Maryland, four in Missouri, two in North Carolina, one in South Carolina, two in Tennessee, three in Texas and three in Virginia.

The Republicans also believe they may pick up seven seats in California now held by Democrats, five in Illinois, three in Indiana, three in New York, three in Pennsylvania, and two each in Connecticut, Michigan, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Oregon and Wisconsin. They are hopeful of single gains in Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio and West Virginia.

Democrats concede that there is some basis for the Republican hopes in many of the contested districts but in others they say the GOP is guility of wishful thinking.

Democrats say the signs point to these possible gains for them:

Four in California, four each in New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, three in Indiana, three in Iowa, three in Kansas, three in Michigan, two each in Nebraska, New Jersey, Tennessee Tekas, Washington and Wisconsin, and one each in Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Utah, Virginia and Wyoming.

The Democrats believe their major trouble spots are in Alabama, California, Illinois, Indiana, New York, North Carolina, Texas, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Republicans scent difficulty for some of their incumbencies in California, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvaia and Texas.

English Bike Is Not Toy, Inventor Says

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) — Cabinet ministers ride them to work. Fashion models adore them. In fact, everyone seems to love Britain's new baby-buggy bicycles except the U.S. Bureau of Customs.

The Moulton bicycles (named after their inventor Alex Moulton) are not even bikes at all. With their ridiculously small wheels, they are toys, and as such are subject to a 22.5 per cent import duty.

Its makers indignantly deny that the new-style bike is a toy. It was designed by Alex Moulton, the engineer who is responsible for the advanced suspension system used on the MG sports sedan. The Moulton bike embodies such revolutionary principles as rubber suspension and a center-of-gravity frame. It is claimed to be the biggest advance in bicycle design made this century—as well as being the answer to traffic jams and parking problems.

But the U.S. Bureau of Customs remains unmoved by these arguments. The Moulton bicycle's wheels are only 16 inches in diameter. It says in the U.S. Customs manual that all imported bicycles must have larger wheels. Otherwise, they are classified as toys at twice the duty of 11 per cent.

This is laid down by law, and to change it would require an Act of Congress, the U.S. Customs men maintain.

The American customs bureau is entitled to its own opinion about the baby-buggy bike, but the tariff on toys is double that charged on ordinary British bicycles shipped to the United States. This explains why Moulton Bicycles Ltd., of Bradford-on-Avon, is screaming its head off with rage.

The Moulton bike may be regarded as kid stuff in America, but it is rapidly becoming big business here. In the last few months it has doubled its sales to over 1,000 a week, and the Bradford-on-Avon factory is exporting more than 300 a week on the world market.

Its makers claim that the rubber springs—front and rear—make the Moulton more comfortable and provide better steering and road holding.

They also point out that the Moulton's engineering which just won a top design award here, allows for more luggage space. Because it has no crossbar, the Moulton can be ridden by a woman wearing a skirt. "There is no loss of dignity in mounting or dismounting," a company brochure claims. This could be an important consideration with men like Quintin Hogg, the British minister of science, who rides a Moulton.

The Moulton is available in five models, including a stowaway model which can be easily dismounted for storage in the luggage compartment of a car.

Latest report is that the Moulton concern has made a licensing arrangement with a Dayton, Ohio, company to manufacture the bicycle in the United States. Production will begin early in 1965.

The moral, perhaps, is that one man's toy may be another man's means of locomotion.

WATCH OUT BELOW—Cheered by a line of costumed folk dancers, Yuri Shumilin leaps high over the girls' heads. The performance is part of an act by the Soviet Union's acclaimed Moiseyev Dance Company. The dancers were rehearsing at London's Albert Hall.

Future Airliner May Carry 500 Persons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has asked three airplane manufacturers to study the possible development of a double-decker airliner that could carry 500 passengers.

Such a plane would be a commercial version of Defense Department designs that the three companies already are working on, for military transports capable of carrying 600 to 700 troops.

The three aircraft manufacturers — Boeing, Douglas and Lockheed — completed study contracts of $400,000 each Sept. 15. Two engine manufacturers, General Eelectric and Pratt & Whitney, completed study contracts of $250,000 each and have since received additional funds.

The plane would have four, six or eight engines, a speed of more than 500 m.p.h. and a range of 3,000 miles or more.

Passengers would be seated on the upper deck, and cargo carried in the lower deck.

Topless Bathing Suit Scene Cut From GOP Film

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — A girl in a topless bathing suit and other footage have been cut from a film a Goldwater campaign group hopes to flash across American television screens Thursday to hammer home its claim that the country is beset by "moral decay."

Russell Walton, public relations director for the Citizens for Goldwater-Miller, acknowledged the changes Tuesday night and said that NBC officials, in turn, had agreed to use the film as scheduled at 2 p.m. EDT

In New York, network officials said a final decision will not be reached until today.

The object of the film, said Walton, is "to depict the moral decay which has occurred in this country." He placed its cost at $100 000 — $65,000 to produce and $35 000 for television time.

Before the changes became known, Chairman John M. Bailey of the Democratic National Committee described it as "the sickest political program to be conceived since television became a factor in American politics."

He said the film "appeals to the prurient and the prejudiced in a fashion which makes a mockery of its pretention to speaking out for moral conduct" and that he had urged the Fair Campaign Practices Committee in New York to appraise it.

Walton, at a story conference with the film makers in Beverly Hills, Calif., Sept. 22 said "the purpose of the film then is to portray and remind the people of something they already know exists. We want to just make them mad, make their stomachs turn."

Tuesday, he described the film as "shocking — because we believe what is happening today in America is shocking."

The film, he said, "makes it matter, that President Kennedy tried to do something about the moral climate of the country." But, he said, the film also tries to make the point that American voters will decide on Election Day "whether they want to continue under a situation where morality is at best lacking or come up with strong leadership and support for our courts and police to stop riots and civil disorders, narcotics and pornography."

Several times in the film a black limousine roars along a road. Walton said the purpose is to remind viewers that President Johnson drove his car at high speeds near his Texas ranch.

"Our point is, why shouldn't kids do these things when they get this example at the top?" Walton said.

In addition to the topless bathing suit scene, Walton said he agreed to delete a provocative book cover titled "Jazz Me Baby" and photographs of a man in a fig leaf.

Walton said that aside from the limousine scene all of the film already has appeared on various television programs. Narration is by John Wayne and Raymond Massey.

Education Pay Hiked For U.S. Servicemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department — trying to spur servicemen to broaden their education while off duty — has boosted payments toward their tuition in civilian colleges and other institutions.

In a memorandum which became available today, the move was billed as following up President Johnson's indicated interest in "strengthening the opportunities now offered to continue civilian education while still in service."

The Pentagon's manpower chief, Assistant Secretary of Defense Norman S. Paul, told the Army, Navy and Air Force:

"It is my desire that added encouragement be provided all active duty military personnel to assist them to develop educationally to their maximum potential."

Noting that the average cost of tuition in civilian institutions has continued to rise, he ordered the services to increase the tuition aid immediately from $13.50 to $14.25 a semester hour.

Paul noted that educational opportunities already available to all men on active duty include service extension courses and the U.S. Armed Forces Institute, "both of which are available at little or no cost to military personnel."

Episcopalians To Fight Over Civil Rights

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — An influential wing of the Episcopal Church today accused its general convention of undermining the "hundreds of courageous priests" who have fought for equal Negro rights.

The sharp reaction was voiced by the American Church News, following rejection by the church's governing body of a proposed move to condone nonviolent civil disobedience "for reasons of conscience."

Lay church representatives beat down the measure Tuesday, overriding the clergy.

Terming the result an "outrageous usurpation by the laity of the teaching function of the church," the American Church News declared:

"By this action the church seems further to repudiate the hundreds of courageous priests of her own ranks who have joined in the most significant social revolution of our time."

The publication, organ of the denomination's high church or Anglo- Catholic wing, the American Church Union, was circulated today among the church representatives here from across the country.

The proposed resolution sanctioning civil disobedience, in special extraordinary cases, said that when customs or laws violate human dignity, Christians should "obey God rather than men."

It would have recognized "the rights of any person for reasons of conscience," to disobey such laws, if they acted with severe restraint, non-violently, in deep conviction, and in willingness to pay the penalty.

Clergy members of the House of Deputies overwhelmigly supported the statement, but laymen rejected it. Both groups had to approve for passage.

On most matters, both groups are counted jointly, but the lay deputation from Souh Carolina secured a "vote by orders," in which clergy and lay votes were counted separately.

The result seemed to run counter to an appeal last spring by the 3½-million-member church's presiding bishop, Arthur Lichtenberger, who said: "It is a mark of the inversion of values in our society that those who today struggle to make the American experiment a reality through their protest are accused of disurbing the peace."

The House of Deputies approved a new triennial budget totalling $40,079,053, an increase of nearly $6 million over that for the past triennium.

The convention paused in its work for special prayer on the death of former President Herbert Hoover.

Later, the House of Deputies concurred with a statement by the House of Bishops declaring that Jews bear no special blame for Christ's crucifixion.

Deaths

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Sir Adolph Basser, 78, Sydney millionaire businessman and philanthropist, died Tuesday. Basser, who gave away more than $1,350,000, was knighted in 1962 in recognition of his many gifts to education, medical and charitable causes. He was born of Jewish parents in Poland.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidney A. Eisenberg, 54, of Cleveland, Ohio, a lawyer, magazine writer and newspaper columnist, died Tuesday of a heart attack. Eisenberg, who collaborated with Dr. Benjamin Fine on a weekly newspaper column distributed by the Bell Syndicate, was author of many radio and television shows.

MIAMI BEACH Fla. (AP) — Leonard A. Young Sr., 87, founder and owner of the L.A. Young Spring and Wire Corp. of Detroit and a pioneer in the automotive industry, died Tuesday after a long illness. He was considered the developer of the automobile coil spring.

Democrat Tested For Statesmanship

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Mayor Tom Currigan, a staunch Democrat, feels he has withstood a test of political statesmanship.

When a group of Cub Scouts visited the mayor's office Tuesday a 9-year-old asked:

"Is it true that if Sen. Gold water is elected, we'll have t get up at 6 in the morning to g to school, and have to go t school on Saturdays?"

Currigan paused a minute. Then he said no.

TRIBUTE TO LANGNER

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — A repertory of three plays by Bernard Shaw is to launch a five-year development program at the Westport Country Playhouse next summer.

The theater is operated by Armina Marshall, widow of Theater Guild founder, Lawrence Langner, and their son, Philip Langner. The Shaw season is planned as a memorial to Langner, who was instrumental in introducing many of Irish playwright's works to American audiences.

Railways of Italy Are Closed by Strike

ROME (AP) — Italy's railways bogged down again today, on the second day of a week-long strike, but Rome's traffic eased back from chaos to normal confusion.

Most of the capital's 1,380 traffic police, called out Tuesday on a 48-hour strike of municipal workers, went back to duty this morning.

Other municipal workers stayed out, striking for higher wages and fringe benefits.

World's Fair Settles for Winter Nap

By JOAN CROSBY

WORLD'S FAIR, N.Y. (NEA) —If the 32 million people who each spent an average of five hours standing in line at the New York World's Fair had done something active with those 160 million man-hours, they could have constructed 23 Empire State buildings.

But those visitors weren't totally passive, as they waited and waited to see the most populor exhibits. They managed to consume over 12 million hot dogs, enough to reach roughly from New York to Cincinnati and back again. They ate 10 million hamburgers. They parked nearly 3 million cars and nearly 100,000 buses. They lost 6,000 children, one of whom was left over as the fair drew to a close. And they gave a tremendous boost to the corn plaster business.

The fair, even though it fell short of its estimated 40 million first-year attendance, must be called a success. When it opens for its sophomore year next April, it will be better able to receive the public. If the weather is more co-operative than it was last spring, the World's Fair, a billion-dollar enterprise, has a good chance of hitting the estimated 70-million total for two years.

Totally unconfirmed, but from a reliable source, comes word that the fair may be extended for a third year with the Soviet Union joining the list of exhibitors. Soviet sources in this country deny the rumors, although a representative of Tass, the Russian news agency, says "I know some officials of the government visited the fair about a month ago."

The World's Fair has now buckled down to the task of winterizing. This consists of details like providing new clothes for the animated dolls in the Pepsi-Cola Pavilion (with particular attention paid to the can-can dancers whose bloomers kept wearing out from the constant kicking), taking down 12,000 feets of plastic sun shade which protected those waiting in line to see the GM exhibit (the fair's most popular with an attendance of over 15 million), sending all the cars on the Ford Motor Company ride back to Detroit where they will be refurbished and then sold as used cars.

The most elaborate security precautions have been taken at the Vatican Pavilion, where Michelangelo's priceless Pieta will stay all winter. The masterpiece has been hermetically sealed behind plexiglass all season. Now it is covered by two protective cloths, over which a cage has been lowered and locked into place. Four separate alarm systems guard the marble sculpture (one to warn if the temperature goes below 50 degrees) along with a 24-hour security guard.

Each pavilion is in charge of its own security. The Fair Corporation has about 700 employes working full time, draining, painting and repairing, and asphalt paths where visitors h erecting fences around grass to protect it from visitors next season.

Most of the outdoor work has already begun, with additional touch-ups coming before the fair's second opening next April. "We can't take a chance on inclement weather slowing us down next spring," a fair spokesman said. Except for a few open gates for employes who will remain throughout the winter, barricades have been erected to discourage browsing by curiosity seekers.

A certain amount of vandalism is expected, so each exhibitor has been told to either lock or board up his pavilion, or else to have around-the-clock security guards.

Several exhibits, notably the Belgian Village, still not complete, would have been happy remaining open throughout the winter. The only thing that will remain open is the Top of the Fair restaurant. There is direct access to this eatery without entering the fair grounds. This does not hold true for other exhibits.

The World's Fair got off to a ba dstart. Rainy spring weather, the fact that the fair was not ready when it opened, failures in the entertainment area and summer racial troubles in New York combined to discourage visitors.

No major structual changes are anticipated next season. No major exhibitors are pulling out. The fair — even the beleagured Belgian Village—will be ready to open on April 21, 1965, after a full season's dress rehearsal.

Mississippi Demo Boosts Goldwater

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Democratic Rep. John Bell Williams is the first Mississippi congressman to take an open stand for Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

He said Tuesday night he had been threatened with loss of patronage if he backed Goldwater and might lose membership on congressional committees.

Williams introduced Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., at a "countdown for victory" Goldwater dinner at the coliseum.

Thurmond — who recently turned Republican — said the only way to "quit appeasing the Communists and make America strong" is to back Goldwater and assure his election on Nov. 3.

The former Democratic senator said the Democratic administration planned to disarm this country and turn it over to the United Nations.

Soviets Foment Rebellion in China Areas

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA)—Russian agents are reported to be fomenting revolutionary uprisings among China's national minorities as a major stroke in Premier Khrushchev's dispute with Mao Tse-tung.

According to Asian diplomats, Moscow's efforts to encourage anti-Chinese nationalistic sentiments have been stepped up in recent months, especially among China's 30 million Moslems.

They also confirm reports that a largescale Moslem uprising, sparked by Moscow, took place in China's Sinkiang province at the end of 1963 and was ruthlessly put down by Mao's armed forces. Several thousand Moslem rebels are said to have been masacred.

Ironically, the Soviet rulers themselves are currently carrying on a fierce assault on "nationalistic and religious elements" among Russia's 25 million Moslems who inhabit the Soviet Central Asian republics. But they preach nationalism and religious freedom to China's Moslems.

And oddly, Russia and Red China now complete for the allegiance of Egypt's President Nasser and other leaders of Islam.

Premier Khrushchev is aware, of course, that the importance of the Chinese Moslems exceeds their numbers. Their bulk is strategically located in critical areas along China's 4,000-mile frontier with Russia and Mongolia. The "Moslem belt" includes, besides Sinkiang, mineral-rich Manchuria which is probably the most important region of Chinese industrial development.

Another large concentration of Moslems is in the southwestern corner of China right next to Viet Nam and Burma.

In a country whose first president, Sun Yat - Sen, once described as "sheaf of loose sand," the Moslem minority is a tight, cohesive and militant group. It thus represents a perpetual source of trouble for Peking's Communist regime.

The story of Islam in China is as old as Islam itself. Arabs are known to have carried on a brisk trade with China as early as the year 200. Their ships and caravans are supposed to have brought Mohammed's teachings with them as soon as they were revealed in Arabia in the 7th Century.

According to legend, it was Mohammed's uncle himself who was entrusted by the prophet to spread his faith in China.

In the early 8th Century, a Moslem army conquered much of Central Asia and came near to dominating China. Later in the same century a mixed Arab-Turkish army was dispatched from Baghdad to help the Chinese emperor against a rebellion. The soldiers remained in China, took Chinese wives and settled down.

However, their descendents never merged with the Chinese.

In the last 300 years, Moslem rebellions became increasingly frequent in China. They even succeeded for brief periods in gaining independence for predominantly Moslem regions like Sinkiang. They also helped the Russian Czars in the 19th Century to wrench from China what is today Soviet Central Asia.

News of Moslem unrest in the countries behind the iron and bamboo curtains does not reach the West frequently. It is sometimes reported in official Communist publications. More often the free world learns of Moslem revolts from casual eyewitness accounts. Since there are no press representatives in any of the Russian or Chinese provinces where Moslems are concentrated, diplomats and traders supply most of the information.

According to the Asian diplomats, some 35 million Moslems in China and Russia, living in complete isolation from the rest of the Arab world, are facing genocide.

Strong Military Voice Seen in Viet Nam Rule

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Reaction from rival power groups to South Viet Nam's new provisional constitution continues a powerful military voice in the top echelons of government.

Some diplomats described the constitution as better than expected in view of weeks of political infighting that accompanied its drafting, but still short of what was hoped for.

The constitutions drafted by the 17-man High National Council and released Tuesday sets up a four-man security council of whom at least two will be military men.

The council is given broad authority to handle the military affairs of this U.S.-backed nation beset by war with the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

The council's authority includes the power to establish martial law and "to proclaim cease-fires or negotiate in the war situation."

The council structure is a compromise between pressure, primarily from the Buddhists and students groups for a strictly civilian regime and demands by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the caretaker premier, for an independent military establishment.

The council chairman will be the chief of state. The premier will be deputy chairman, and the other two members will be the armed forces minister and the chief of staff. Three military men could be among the four council members if the present chief of state, Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, is reappointed.

Informed sources said Khanh, who apparently will step down as premier before his Oct. 27 deadline, is expected to be named armed forces minister.

The major question is the reaction of the Buddhists, the militant student groups, the minority Catholics, the armed forces and other groups.

In a previous constitution Khanh gave himself dictatorial powers and gave every top government post to a military man. Violent student protests and widespread Buddhist-Catholic rioting forced him to back off. The Catholics favor a strong military role in the government because of their fear of the Buddhist majority.

The constitution is provisional until a permanent constitution is drawn up next year by a national assembly that is still to be created. Until the assembly is set up, the High National Council will act as the legislative arm of the government.

GELBER GETS NEW SPONSOR

NEW YORK (AP) — Playwright Jack Gelber has found a new off-Broadway sponsor in the Establishment Theater Company, an Anglo-American group.

Gelber's first two dramas, "The Connection" and "The Apple," were produced by the Living Theater, an avant-group which expired during difficulties with the Internal Revenue Service and other creditors.

"Let's Face It" is the name of the latest Gelber work, which is slated for midwinter presentation.

Sleeper-Sofas Emerge From Backward Age

By MARGERY McELHENY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sleep sofas have come out of their awkward stage and into a design category that makes it hard to distinguish them from standard sofas.

The old - fashioned sleep sofas had badly-concealed contraptions to unfold the bed. But the new units are well - engineered and come in all the handsome styles of regular sofas, slim or ample in proportions.

You sit comfortably in a unit that harmonizes with decor, whether it is in the French, Italian, Spanish, Early American, or contemporary - modern style. The fabric selection also is equally as good as for regular sofas.

The National Association of Furniture Manufacturers says consumers can look for the following types of sleep sofas:

The day bed — This sofa has no mechanical action or moving parts. Ordinarily, it has no back, but its arm ends are usually fairly high and act as "head and foot" when the unit is used for sleeping. Day beds are practical for efficiency apartments or dens.

The sofa bed's mechanism permits the back to drop down level with the seat. This forms a double bed and there are no cushions to remove.

Sofa sleepers unfold, after the seat cushions are removed, to provide complete beds with springs and a mattress.

If you are shopping for either a sofa bed or a sofa sleeper, you may want to check the units or these qualities:

Good seating is important. Check the unit for resilience and support.

Cushioning should be even and firm across the seat, and not slack or soften up toward the arms.

The springs should be properly attached to the frame, not loose or so delicate that they would fall off with ordinary use.

The supports should be adequate to hold the weight of occupants. The mattress should be retained all around to stay in one position.

Check the mechanical devices for ease of opening and closing the bed. The bed should lock into position when folded out and be restored without difficulty.

Extensive Lines

Many manufacturers of regular furniture now produce extensive lines of sleep sofas. Most firms have one or more units to match their other living room furniture.

Kroehler Mfg. Co. has sleep-or-lounge sofas in sizes for rooms of any dimension. Handsomely styled in clean contemporary, transitional, French or Italian provincial, or Early American, they give no clue to their sleep - comfort qualities. The firm provides "extras" such as self-covered seat decks and arm caps of the same material and gives a wide choice of textures in fabrics and colors in plastics.

Karpen Furniture has the new dimension "Konvertables" in multiple bed - size choice—standard, king, or extra long—in Italian or French provincial, traditional, modern, contemporary - traditional or Early American. The firm also offers cushions option; poly - foam, dacron - foam, or foam rubber.

Selig Mfg. Co. makes sofa beds to harmonize with the firm's contemporary - modern living room groups. A cantilevered style is available with cane panels or upholstered arms. The seat pulls forward on a track while cushions flip to the inside for a sleep surface. Zippered back pillows conceal bed pillows during the day.

Jewels Must Be Returned to King

CUNEO, Italy (AP) — An Italian court ruled Tuesday that the jewels King Saud lost in the Alpine crash of his private plane must be returned to him even though three Italian youths recovered them from the mountainside.

King Saud's jet plane crashed southwest of Cuneo on March 30, 1963, killing the 18 members of his retinue and aircraft crewmen who were aboard.

Three Italians were arrested in Turin early this month with part of the jewels. They told police they found the gems while climbing last summer.

They were set free after they told authorities they realized the jewels were from the plane wreck but thought Saud had lost ownership of them.

Hoover Lived Awhile At Indian Agency

PAWHUSKA, Okla. (AP) — Back in 1882, a young boy lived for a time with an uncle at the Osage Indian agency here after his parents died.

His name was Herbert Clark Hoover, who wrote later after he had gone on to become president, that his first long buggy ride was from Arkansas City, Kan., to the Indian agency.

His memory of the year he spent here with his uncle, Maj. Laban Miles, remained vivid. In fact, he wrote, "I believe I could still hew a bow out of Osage orange wood."

Hoover forgot the names of most of the Osage and Kaw Indians he met while living with his uncle, who supervised both tribes. But one re-entered Hoover's life.

He was Charles Curtis, a mixed-blood Kaw under Miles' supervision as a child, who became Hoover's vice president.

Holes in Berlin Wall Not Tolerable

BERLIN (AP) — A West Berlin judge said five men and a woman who blasted two holes in the Berlin wall may have had good intentions "but their behavior is not legally tolerable."

Judge Willi Seidel gave the six suspended sentences ranging from five to nine months at the conclusion of their trial Tuesday.

The six said they wanted to breach the wall so East Germans could come to the West. East Germans plugged the holes immediately and nobody got through.

'Young' Style Comes to U.S. From Paris

NEW YORK (AP) — YeYe, the French version of youth's rebellion against the stodginess of old folks over 25, is now going strong in the U.S.A.

Born in Paris as a hip response to songs with a beat, YeYe came to be a term for audacious styles worn by young misses, then grew in meaning to encompass the current mood of youth itself — lively and uninhibited.

Ask a New York deb what is YeYe in town, for instance, and she undoubtedly will describe a popular hamburger joint with juke box movies; or a discotheque jockey at one of the fancier hotels who keeps crowds gyrating frantically by blasting not one but three jump and-wiggle records at once; or a well-known night spot in the heart of Greenwich Village.

Although YeYe pertains to both place and person, it most often describes controversial young styles now shaping up in the garment district.

Andrew Arkin, a ready-to-wear manufacturer, defines YeYe fashion as sexy, bias-cut costumes with bosoms emphasized, and skirts full of movement, often trimmed with ruffles or fluttering with bits of shaggy fur.

"Some of it looks like old-fashioned, flea market stuff, maybe like grandma's old bedspread," says Arkin. "Just about anything goes that does not go in clothes for the elegant, older market as long as it's fun."

YeYe is related to yeah, yeah, yeah, the best known lyrics of the Beatles.

The French couturiers, feeling the whole world had begun to think young, have borrowed lavishly from the designs of the YeYe set.

With that stamp of status, American manufacturers could hardly wait to get home to their production rooms with their own YeYe.

Whether the kookie kick a la YeYe from Paris can last is debated hotly in the New York garment district. The biggest argument in its favor is that young females are rapidly multiplying. More than 18 per cent of all women in the country are teen-agers, and nearly half of our entire population is under 25.

On Monday, Oct. 12, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Million and Dwight drove to Howard, Colo., where they visited the Forrest DeGroots, parents of Mrs. Dave Million.

Our congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Harper Baker, of Falcon, on the birth of a boy Wednesday, Oct. 14; also to Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hammer on a baby girl, born Thursday, Oct. 15. So the Baker family is still growing.

A group of relatives and friends drove down to the Mays ranch where the newlyweds are living, and charvaried Mr. and and Mrs. Curtis Ball Thursday, Oct. 15. Sort of put me in mind 33 years ago. These ranches are now a part of the Lawrence Stiegal ranches.

Mrs. Clara Hartley also went by plane with Mrs. Grace Finch to the Dan Brandner funeral in Wichita recently.

See where Ann Heid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heid, of Penrose, was crowned queen. Lawrence was born and reared at Hanover. Mrs. Sadie Heid, grandmother, still lives in Colorado Springs.

Someone should get some cheap beef the way prices on cattle have dropped. But seems you can't see it much in the markets.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Glanesin and family of Colorado Springs attended services at Hanover Church Sunday morning and evening Mr. Glanesin gave the morning and evening message, while John Trusdle was on the Western Slope in the game hunt. Rev. Karl Kerlin, Mr. Everhart were also on the hunt with John.

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — Special to the Gazette Telegraph — The Bureau of the Budget and the Civil Service Commission are projecting a proposal to have an advisory committee make a study of the costs and benefits of all of the Federal Government retirement systems. This would include the military retirement system.

From the study it is anticipated that Congress could come up with fixed increases for both civilian and military retirees. The study, if and when it gets off of the ground, will give specific attention to the 20-year military retirement policy, and the non-contributory system of military retirement.

In all Congressional hearings representatives of Federal employes have made a major issue of the alleged fact that military retirement is without cost to the individual. This is an oversimplification of the system. True, military people do not make a monthly contribution into the fund, but there is no retirement, other than for disability, prior to the completion of a minimum of 20 years.

What is not mentioned, and few members of Congress keep this in mind, Federal employes can (1) withdraw their contributions if they leave prior to retirement, and, (2) after retirement the money they paid into their retirement fund can be withheld from their Federal income tax. So, in a way, Civil Service Retirement is also a gratuity the same as military retirement.

The question of security investigation of Walter Jenkins, lately of President Johnson's staff, is to reach into the Pentagon and Gen. Barry Goldwater, USAF Reserve and candidate for President. No explanation has been forthcoming from the Pentagon as to how Col. Jenkins, USAF Reserve, had clearance for high level briefings given to the Reserve officers that made up the Air Force Reserve group, commanded by General Goldwater.

When this unit was set up by the Air Force for members of the Congress holding Reserve commissions, the point was made that the members received more information in the lectures than many other members of Congress did, with respect to National Defense.

Normally Reserve officers not on active duty do not need top level security clearances, but in view of the admitted nature of the lectures delivered to the Congressional group, top level Pentagon officials are expected to order such clearance in the future. In view of the police charges against Col. Jenkins it is expected that the Air Force will be compelled to order his discharge from the Reserve.

National Republican headquarters endorses the restoration of recomputation of retired pay for the military and a new law that would give all survivors of career officers and men survivors benefits if the deceased is subsequent to retirement.

With the removal of the Reserve Components Personnel Directorate from the Pentagon to Fort Benjamin Harrison and its transfer from the Chief of Army Reserve to the Office of Personnel Operations of the Army, the name of the activity has been changed to that of Reserve Components Personnel Center of the Army.

The Air Force now has its newest all-jet cargo aircraft, the C-141, and will place it at Tinker AFB for training of MATS aircrews and instructors.

Army will raise minimum standards for BOQ to match those of the current minimum standards for new construction. This will be a tremendous step forward in the program to improve BOQ quarters.

The Pentagon is expected to send an Army PIO to Vietnam to replace the present Air Force PIO there.

Unless the Department of Defense steps in to block the proposal, the forthcoming November convention of the Association of the U. S. Army will see the SPRINT and the TOW missiles on public display for the first time.

Combat Support of the Army, known as COSTAR, has been approved by the Secretary of the Army. This reorganization of the logistical support elements of field armies will get under way early in 1965.

The Officer Personnel Directorate of the Army has moved from the Pentagon to Tempo Building A, next to Fort McNair here in Washington.

RADIO AIDS RESCUE

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—The chances of a quick rescue for downed airmen, even if they are injured or unconscious, is increased considerably by a new vest pocket, two-way radio, according to Sylvania Electric Products Inc.

The company is delivering the new radio to the U.S. Navy.

The unit provides two-way communication between downed airmen and searching ships or aircraft and it automatically emits a signal on a distress frequency as soon as a flier's parachute opens. The set's battery furnishes enough power to operate the signal 24 hours.

It is said to be the first operational ultra high-frequency radio built using thin film circuit wafers.

'Poor Old Lady' Rips Swastika From Picket

By DAVE SMITH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "What are you doing in that crazy rig?" snapped Sadie Weiss O'Sullivan, aged 70. With that she snatched the swastika band off the man's arm and flung it in his face.

A policeman, stationed nearby as the khaki-uniformed man picketed a Democratic party dinner Tuesday night, radioed for reinforcements as a precautionary measure.

In a twinkling, 10 helmeted policemen surrounded the white-haired, tiny Mrs. O'Sullivan, a widow.

"Ten policemen? for a little old lady?" she queried.

"Well, we never know what might happen," officers explained.

Off went Mrs. O'Sullivan, the picket and the policemen to the station to tell their stories.

Police said the man identified himself as Robert Martell, 43, and gave as his address a post office box in nearby Glendale which is a mailing address for the American Nazi party.

Martell, police said, was picketing a dinner in suburban Studio City for Democratic Congressman James C. Corman, at which acting U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicolas Katzenbach was the featured speaker.

Martell carried a sign which read: "Katzenbach, hatchet man for race-mixers" and "Americans, support your local police."

"I was just walking by to go to the market to get my dinner when I saw this crowd," Mrs. O'Sullivan said. "And I said to myself, 'What's this?'

"Me, I'm a New Yorker. You know, sort of rosey, like a woman. So I walked over.

"When I saw this guy in that uniform with that swastika, my blood just boiled. I saw red.

"Everybody else was just standing there watching him, so I walked up and said, 'What are you doing in that crazy rig?' He just mumbled something, so I grabbed that red and black armband and ripped it off and threw it right in his face."

Police Sgt. Robert Weeks said Martell first attempted to make a citizen's arrest, then asked Weeks to arrest Mrs. O'Sullivan for assault and battery.

"I was so embarrassed," said Mrs. O'Sullivan. "I have a son and three grandchildren, and I thought, 'My son will have a fit.'

"And then I heard someone say, 'Oh, the poor old lady,' and that really hurt. I may be 70 years old, but I've got guts! And you know, the police were very nice."

Police wrote a report which was to be given to the city attorney. Then Mrs. O'Sullivan, formerly of and Miami, Fla., was escorted back to the market — to get her dinner.

AGNA — Reports persist on Guam that Japanese soldiers are still hiding here.

Home Owners Are Urged to Prevent Blight

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI)—The private homeowner, landlord and renter alike have a responsibility in keeping America blight-free.

Property values can depreciate, good neighbors move to be replaced by others less interested in maintaining their homes, and a mass deterioration of neighborhood and community take place if blight is allowed to get a foothold.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB), in a campaign to combat blight being conducted by its Build America Better Committee, urges each property owner to make his home "the best on the block." This, it says, "will encourage your neighbors to do the same and discourage blight."

In a folder entitled "Don't Live with Mr. Blight," NAREB offers the following checklist of items to watch and correct if necessary:

—Deteriorated or inadequate foundations.

—Fireplaces and chimneys which list, bulge, or settle due to defective material or deterioration.

—Lack of proper drainage of all portions of a property, including yards, vent shafts, courts and passageways.

—Broken, rotted, split or buckled exterior walls or roof coverings.

—Walls not properly fire protected according to code.

—Overloading or lack of electrical outlets.

—Improper operation of ventilating equipment, heating, plumbing.

—Lack of proper garbage disposal.

—Broken windows, railings, steps, light fixtures.

—Chipped or dirty paint.

—Unkempt lawns, shrubs or trees.

—Waste, litter and debris not properly disposed of.

—Over - occupancy — the doubling up of families in a home or apartment.

Owners and tenants alike have obligations in keeping a residence livable. The owner, NAREB says, must:

—Keep dwelling in good repair.

—Provide adequate heating, plumbing, lighting and ventilating facilities.

—Provide adequate outlets and fixtures.

—Provide sufficient rubblish and garbage facilities.

—Exterminate rodents and insects.

—Maintain building exteriors, outbuildings, fences.

—Control the occupancy of each dwelling.

Tenants, in turn, are obliged to:

—Keep the dwelling clean and sanitary.

—Keep plumbing fixtures free from obstruction.

—Dispose of garbage and rubbish properly.

—Use heating facilities properly.

—Eliminate rodents or insects in individual dwelling units.

—Exercise care in using facilities provided by the owner.

—Avoid overcrowding.

A section in the booklet gives advice to homeowners on financing home improvements.

Liquor Was Sold To Non-Member

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Howard Babcock walked up to the bar at the Four Hills Country Club in Albuquerque and purchased three liquor drinks, he said.

This, he alleged, occurred Sept. 22.

Babcock signed an administrative complaint Tuesday against the country club, charging it with selling liquor to a non-member, which is forbidden by state law.

Babcock is state liquor director.

Gang of Cigarette Smugglers Caught

BRISIMPIANO, Switzerland (AP) — A gang of frogmen believed to have smuggled millions of cigarettes from Switzerland to Italy under the waters of Lake Luano has been discovered by customs officials.

One of the team was picked up by a customs launch when he surfaced with a load of contraband cigarettes.

Fallout From China Tests Not Significant

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — No significant fallout was deposited on the United States as most of the radioactive cloud from Red China's nuclear test floated across the American mainland and out to sea, the Weather Bureau reports.

It said Tuesday night that a lack of rainfall was helpful. Rain in the path of the cloud might have brought some of the radioactivity to earth.

Even if predicted rain had not held off, except in northern New England, Atomic Energy Commission scientists said fallout from last Friday's "low yield" test had not been expected to cause any undue health hazard in the United States.

Dr. Lester Machta, chief fallout specialist for the Weather Bureau, said some fallout debris from the Chinese test would continue to move across the United States for about another week at levels lower than the 30,000 feet at which the major portion of the cloud traveled.

Dr. Machta indicated the radioactivity at these lower levels is usually much less than at the high levels. He said that although some of it may be detected by ground stations, the amounts of fallout would be less than they would have been had the "hotter" cloud been washed down by rain.

Years Made Hoover Popular Elder Statesman

NEW YORK (AP) — Somehow it was hard to realize that the old gentleman with the hearing aid, the black briar pipe and the warm, gentle smile was the man many held responsible for the "Great Depression."

But that was Herbert Clark Hoover, the 31st President of the United States, as the public knew him in his later years.

During the bitter depression, with the economy faltering, breadlines and unemployed selling apples on street corners, millions thought the unsmiling president old and unfeeling.

Privately, however, his close associates are quick to say, he was warm and humorous and had deep humanitarian instincts. These attributes came to be known publicly in later years.

His gentleness, devotion to country and unswerving espousal of "American individualism" made him a respected elder statesman in the public mind.

He was called to Washington repeatedly by both Democratic and Republican administrations to undertake the enormous task of reorganizing the executive branch of the government via the much-publicized Hoover commissions.

When Hoover become president at 54, he already had a career seldom gained by most men.

He had worked in 40 nations as a mining engineer. He had made a fortune by the time he was 28. He had directed the evacuation of thousands of Americans from Europe at the outbreak of World War I, freely lending his own money. He helped starving Belgians and French and at the war's end came to the aid of the whole battered continent of Europe.

In his day Hoover had grubbed in a mine for $2 a day, explored the interior of China, directed gold mining operations in Australia and discovered an ancient mine in Egypt.

As secretary of commerce under Presidents Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge, he brought industrial standardization to the United States and established the forerunner of the Federal Communications Commission.

Hoover, born Aug. 10, 1874, in a tiny, still-standing white cottage at West Branch, Iowa, probably was the 20th century's greatest exponent of what he called "American individualism."

To Hoover "American individualism" was a politicol philosophy. It apparently was fashioned from the fact that he was an orphan at 8, was reared in the Quaker religion with its emphasis of helf-help and community responsibility and that he was self-made man. His experiences abroad led to a strong distrust of Europe's politics and politicians.

In his travels Hoover saw the stratification of societies and concluded that the basic difference between America and other nations was that this country had "equality of opportunity."

Upon graduation from Stanford University in 1895, Hoover went to Nevada where he got a job as a miner at $2 a day. Later he returned to California and met a mining engineer, Louis Janin, who gave him a job first as a typist and then as an engineer.

Through Janin and though only 23, Hoover got a job in 1897 with the British firm of Bewick, Moreing and co. He was sent to supervise gold mines in Australia and his salary rose from $200 a month to $600.

While in Australia his firm contracted with the Chinese government to handle mineral exploration and assigned Hoover the job. His salary jumped to $20,000 a year.

En route to China he traveled via London and the United States where he married Lou Henry, a whimsical, blue-eyed girl who had been a geology student at Stanford.

In time he became a full partner in Bewick, Moreing and laid the foundation of his personal fortune although it was almost wiped out by the speculations of a firm member. Hoover subscribed all his personal assets to pay off the creditors.

Hoover remained a partner until 1908 when he resigned to become an engineering consultant. In Mandalay in 1910 he struck it rich. Overcoming almost impossible engineering difficulties, he drove the famous "Tiger Tunnel," which turned out to be the richest lead-zinc-silver deposit ever discovered. He sold his interest in the mine in 1918.

Hoover was in London at the outbreak of World War I. The American consul general called him, saying thousands of American tourists were besieging the embassy, that they were penniless because of credit stoppages caused by the war and were clamoring to get home. Could he help?

Hoover could. Though he didn't realize it then, his private career was over and his public life had begun.

Hoover drew on personal funds to lend to the tourists. He organized other engineers into a sort of relief organization. In time he and his colleagues borrowed $1,500,000 on personal notes from British banks to help American tourists. All but $300 eventually was repaid.

The Germans had overrun Belgium. On Sept. 25, 1914, a Belgian engineer arrived in London to buy food for starving Brussels. The Belgian Relief Committee was born after he saw Hoover. Hoover's work brought him into headlines.

In 1917 President Woodrow Wilson asked Hoover to return to the United States to join his war team. Hoover accepted and set up the first U.S. Food Administration, mobilizing the United States to give up food voluntarily to feed the troops and starving people overseas.

A month before the war's end, Hoover initiated a world food survey and began the task of feeding a continent. Wilson called Hoover's job second only to that of winning the war.

AFA Revamps Offense For Invasion of Boston

LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Something new is cooking in the Air Force Academy campground, and the brew has a distinct flavor of a concoction especially for Beantown. The Falcons fly east for an encounter with Boston College this Saturday with a victory needed to even the record at 3-3 for the season.

Coach Ben Martin declined to be specific about any changes being made in the Air Force offense for this week, but he did say the Falcons "had a few surprises ready."

This is actually a normal situation as the AFA annually makes a mid-season re-evaluation of both individuals and the team as a whole and player switches have become expected.

However, this fall the offense has been less productive than in seasons past and the Academy staff has been working over-time to try and increase the scoring potential. In the first five games, the Cadets have made only five touchdowns and they have lagged considerably behind the opposition in total offense while posting a 3-2 record.

The first five of the AFA's schedule have made for the roughest beginning in the history of the school, with three of those rated in the top 10 nationally at one time or another. On top of that, teams like Missouri and Colorado State University have put together their best efforts of the year against the Academy.

"Looking back on the first half of the schedule is actually no different that looking forward to it before it started," Martin told the AFA's Sports Club members on Wednesday. "It was frightening before the season and it still is.

"As a matter of fact, it looked pretty bad when the schedule was first printed three years ago. But at that time I didn't worry much because I didn't think I would still be here," he quipped.

As for the shuffling that's been going on at the AFA practice field this week, Martin would only say "we've been trying to get our quarterbacks to gain a few yards. We've put some key blockers in where we think they will do the most good."

In last week's 17-7 loss to Missouri, the Air Force fans got their first glimpse of a new quarterback when Paul Stein remained on the field as signal-caller after spending most of the early season as exclusively a defensive safetyman. A 170-pound junior from Lansing, Mich., Stein is considered a little quicker afoot than lefty Tim Murphy, although the latter remains ranked ninth nationally in forward passing.

"Murphy's still our quarterback," Martin explained. "But we'd like to have someone that will present at least a threat running when they (opponents start ganging up to protect against the pass."

There's one hitch that could delay some of the plans for new wrinkles in the AFA offense, at least this week. That's the ankle injury to halfback Jeff Jarvis, sustained in the game with Missouri.

Should Jarvis not be ready for full duty this Saturday in the defensive backfield, then Stein undoubtedly would have to fill in. Jarvis, Ken Jaggers and safety Lloyd Duncan (until hurt against Notre Dame) formed one of the best defensive backfields the AFA has had, and Stein has been the "utility-man" who could come in for any of them.

Despite the passing success of Murphy (completing over 57 per cent with 54 of 95 and 583 yards) the Air Force has been looking for better results from its rushing game. They showed well in a first period touchdown drive against Missouri, operating out of a new "I" formation, but then when the Tigers adjusted their defense in the second half they stalled out.

Boston College will present another big line with tackles at 240 and 220 pounds and guards at 215, but the AFA feels it should have the best chance of the season to establish a sound ground game. BC is expected to be at full strength for this weekend, regaining the services of ace end Jim Whalen who was a standout in the 34-7 loss to the Air Force a year ago.

Besides Whalen who missed last week's 10-0 victory by the Eagles over previously undefeated Cincinnati, also expected back after two weeks on the sidelines is tackle Jim Chevillot, bothered by a shoulder cartilage ailment.

With the Falcons on the trip to Boston will be a contingent of some 300 cadets, many from the New England area, the AFA drum and bugle corps and a witness will be Eugene Zukert, secretary of the Air Force.

Buffs' Kresnak May See Action

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado guard Tom Kresnak may see at least part-time duty in Saturday's homecoming football encounter with Nebraska, CU Coach Eddie Crowder reported today.

Crowder said Kresnak, who was sidelined Tuesday with a recurrence of as ankle injury, was back in pads but did not take part in Wednesday's practice.

The Buffs completed heavy work Wednesday, spending most of the two hours polishing the offense, which has failed to capitalize on numerous scoring opportunities in the past 2 weeks.

Randy Sims of Texas A&M kicked the longest field goal in Southwest Conference history — a 51-yarder against Texas in 1959.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

Bucks on Hot Seat

As anyone who has ever witnessed even a backyard game between tots knows, the very nature of the football's shape makes for a funny bounce. And so it is with games involving this ball—the outcome is not always the way the majority thinks it will be.

That, of course, is what makes it so fascinating to so many.

Take for instance just a few of the surprise endings of last weekend. Heading the list was Arkansas 14, Texas 13 — but there were others such as Virginia over Army, Miami of Ohio over Northwestern, Indiana over Michigan State, Baylor over Texas Tech, and Kansas over Oklahoma, just for a few.

And in the case of the Texas game, the missed pass for an attempted two - point conversion not only shot the Longhorns out of the lead for the Southwest Conference title but also the No. 1 spot in the weekly nonsense of national polls.

Without much doubt, if Texas had made good on that play and defeated the Razorbacks by even a single point they would have continued to reign as tops in the country. As was, they dropped to sixth according to both wire service polls. And it makes you wonder if one play really determines that much difference in a team's strength.

Well, the pollsters say it does. So now on the hot seat as the prime target in the land is Ohio State. A rather familiar position for Buckeyes of the past.

But with no more advance excuses than that, and with only the consolation of picking the exact score in last week's 15-14 win by Kansas over the Okies, let's take a look at this weekend' top games:

REGIONAL

BOSTON COLL. 13, AFA 7 — Air Force is hungry for another win as the second half of the season begins for the Falcons, but Boston College has been stingy with some mighty healthy opponents. It generally takes more than one touchdown to win, and the Cadets have scored more than once in only one game.

SANTA CLARA 20, CC 6 — Predicting Colorado College losses this year is about the only thing that's kept the percentage respectable.

NEBRASKA 23 CU 8 — The Buffs may make it interesting for the first half, but Colorado just doesn't have the stuff to stay with another power-laden Husker team — even at Homecoming.

ALSO: Utah State over Colorado State U., Ft. Lewis over Southern Colorado State, Adams State over Colorado State College, Western State over Mines, Wyoming over Arizona, Arizona State over Utah, and BYU over Texas Western.

EASTERN

PITT 17, NAVY 14 — Pitt's Panthers panting for a big win and this is their best chance, with the home field advantage. The Middies' Roger Staubach finding each game less jolly.

DUKE 21, ARMY 14 — The Cadets should be fightin' mad after the upset of a week ago to Virginia, but Duke is coming on fast and ready for the toughest test to date.

ALSO: Brown over Rhode Island, Columbia over Rutgers, Colgate over Kings Point, Yale over Cornell, Harvard over Dartmouth, Princeton over Penn, Boston U. over Mass, and Holy Cross over Buffalo.

MIDWEST

NOTRE DAME 26 STANFORD 10—Once these two met and the Fighting Irish mowed 'em down with the Four Horsemen. It looks like old times for Notre Dame, with the Huarte to Snow combination tough to top.

OHIO STATE 22, WISCONSIN 7 — The Badgers may have been a Big Ten darkhorse, but after this week they'll be even darker with bruises.

ILLINOIS 14, UCLA 7 — The West Coast visitors get a taste of midwest defense for a second straight week after getting clobbered by Notre Dame last Saturday.

ALSO: Tulsa over Cincinnati, Purdue over Iowa, Michigan over Minnesota, and Michigan State over Northwestern.

SOUTH

FLORIDA 14, ALABAMA 10 — Looking for an upset here with the Gators snapping at 'Bama's unbeaten record. Another vote for defense.

TEXAS 21, RICE 7 — It shouldn't happen twice in a row to the Longhorns, although they may be ripe for a good Rice team.

GEORGIA TECH 27, TULANE 13. — The Ramblin' Wrecks maybe should have stayed in the Southeast Conference to pick up a title.

ALSO: Auburn over Southern Mississippi, Kentucky over Georgia, LSU over Tennessee, Maryland over Wake Forest, Indiana over Miami, Mississippi State over Houston, North Carolina over South Carolina, Mississippi over Vanderbilt, N. C. State over Virginia, Penn State over West Virginia, Baylor over Texas A&M, Arkansas over Wichita, Clemson over TCU, and Texas Tech over SMU.

WEST

USC 20, CALIFORNIA 15 — A tough one for Southern Cal, but the schedule should begin to show on Cal's Bears. The upset could come, however, and if so Craig Morton may be the next candidate for governor.

OREGON 20, WASHINGTON 13 — The stumbling Huskies fall again to an unbeaten. Another upset possibility, though.

SYRACUSE 14, OREGON ST. 10 — They're still trying to figure out how the Big Orange got squeezed in the opener against Boston College. Floyd Little and Jim Nance a tough one-two punch.

ALSO: Washington State over Idaho, and Pacific over San Jose.

Bears Snap Losing Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Hershey Bears have their first victory of the season in the American Hockey League and all it cost was first place for the Pittsburgh Hornets.

The Bears, losers in their first four games, scored twice in the fisal period Wednesday night in Hershey to upend the Hornets 3-1. A Hornet victory would have put them one point ahead of Rochester for first place in the Western Division of the league.

Rookie defenseman Bob Woytowich broke the 1-1 tie in the first period with a 12-foot shot past goalie Hask Bessen. About six minutes later, Myron Stakiewicz drove in the insurance goal.

Hershey kept the Pittsburgh goalie busy most of the game. Bassen recorded 27 saves, his rival in the Hershey nets scored 14.

There are no league games today.

The San Francisco Giants beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 10 times in 18 National League games this season.

Russians in Good Position To Catch U. S. Medal Total

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

TOKYO (AP) — Russia's onrushing Olympic forces, buoyed by the strength of gymnasts and canoeists, added 13 medals to their collection today, pulled to within nine of the United States' leading total and appeared to be in excellent position to overhaul the Americans.

The Russian gymnasts picked up six medals today on this next to last full day of competition in the 18th modern Olympics and paddlers added four, including three gold.

That gave Russia, which has dominated the last three Games, a total of 77, including 23 gold, 21 silver and 33 bronze. The United States got only two medals — but didn't really expect either of those — today and now leads with 88 over-all, 34 gold, 26 silver and 28 bronze.

Pretty Marcia Jones, a 23-year-old Michigan State student from Oklahoma City, surprised by picking up a bronze medal in women's kayak singles and Gloria Perrier and Francine Fox of Washington, D.C., got a silver in women's kayak pairs.

That helped. But everything points to Russia overtaking the United States Friday.

For example, the Russians are assured of seven medals in the boxing finals, either silver or gold, because they have that many fighters who have made the last round. The United States has one, heavyweight Bill Frazier of Philadelphia.

The Soviets seem assured of two medals in volleyball, where both their men's and women's teams are among the leaders. The United States is out of contention.

The United States and Russia are matched in the basketball final, so each will pick up a medal there. But aside from the basketball and boxing medals, the United States doesn't have much hope.

That means, counting today's total and the medals which both countries are certain of taking Friday, the United States leads, 90-87.

But the powerful Soviet gymnastic team, which took 15 medals in 1960 and already has 12 in these Games, has 11 competitors in five final events Friday and could easily make up the difference.

The Russians also have an excellent chance for a medal in equestrian individual dressage where defending champion Sergey Filatov currently is fourth.

But the key to it all is the success or failure of the Russian gymnasts.

Although nationalism xxx 10th Although nationalism and team comparisons are discouraged by Olympic officials, the team struggle between the Americans and the Soviets has been a key factor ever since Russia began competing in the Games.

Only their first time out, at the 1952 Games in Helsinki, have the Russians lost. The United States won the medal race there 76-69, and 40-22 in gold. At Melbourne in 1956 Russia led 98-74 and 37-32 in gold. In 1960 at Rome the count was 103-71 for Russia in gold.

further discouraged today in a

Such team comparison, was terse little message that moved on the official results wire of the Olympics. The message said:

"At the request of the Tokyo Olympic Organizing Committee, acting on the instructions from Mr. Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, International Business Machines (which runs the results service) is discontinuing as of now the compilation and publication of the medals list."

The IOC always has objected to such tabulations, contending that each event in an individual competition and that nationalism should be discouraged.

The United States, which got surprising support from its shooters, also got some surprise help from its canoeists, who prevented an anticipated shutout in medals today.

Francine Fox, a 15-year-old schoolgirl, and Gloria Perrier, a 35-year-old clerk, both from Washington, D.C., were second behind Germany's winning pair in women's kayak doubles.

The Washington girls were timed in 1:59.16 for the 500 meters of the rainswept course, while the Germans won in 1:56.95.

And Miss Jones, a pretty, 23-year-old Michigan State student from Oklahoma City, was closing fast and just missed taking second in the women's kayak singles.

She was timed in 2:15.68 while Rumania's Hilde Lauer just held on for the silver medal in 2:15.35. Russia's Ludmila Khvedosiuk won in 2:12.87.

The other Russian canoeing medals were golds in men's Canadian doubles and men's kayak fours, and a bronze by Eugeny Peniaev in men's Canadian singles.

In other events, Italy's Mario Zanin won the 103½ mile cycling individual road race in 4:39:51.63, while Japan's Isao Inokuma won the heavyweight judo title before a packed house that included Emperor Hirohito.

Inokuma beat Douglas Rogers of Canada in the final match while the two Russians who lost in the semifinals, Anzor Kiknadze and Parnoaz Chikviladze, both received bronze medals.

Russia's Proposal Defeated

TOKYO (AP) — A proposal by the Soviet Union to exclude South Africa from the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF) was defeated by a vote of 145-82 Thursday.

South Africa, which did not receive a bid to compete in the Olympic Games because of its racial segregation policy, will now be able to compete in any meet under IAAF sanction.

The defect of the Russian proposal took up most of the afternoon meeting. South Africa was represented by Werner Barnard.

Barnard said the South African Amateur Athletic Union had compiled with every rule of the IAAF. He said that if South Africa had been allowed to compete in the Olympic Games there would have been two non-white athletes on the team.

Barnard also said the South African team was picked on a representative basis and there were facilities for all athletes regardless of race.

South Africa received oral support from delegations from the United States, Switzerland a proposal that when an athlete tions and East Germany supported the Russian proposal in the debate.

The federation also approved a proposal that when as athlete has become a naturalized citizen and resident for at least three years in another country, he may represent his new country in the Olympic Games.

The IAAF earlier Thursday voted to accept East Germany as a separate team. The two German teams have been combined in Olympic competition since World War II. The 129-96 vote apparently paves the way for two German teams to compete in the 1968 Games at Mexico City.

The East German team will be known as East Germany and the West German as Germany.

Two former champions, Col. William K. Lanman of Glenview Ill., and J. Wolcott Brown of Seagirt, N.J., advanced to the second round with 4 and 3 victories.

Lanman defeated F. A. Prather of Ft. Myers, Fla., and was to play Knox Young of Pittsburgh, a 1 up winner over William T. Taylor of Westmount, Que. Brown beat P. J. McDonough of Pittsburgh, and faced R. H. Guelich of Buffalo, N.Y., who defeated H. Anderson of Wilson, N.C., ½ AND ¼.

Soviet Newspaper Scolds Coaches For Not Learning Their Lesson

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, has criticized Russia's track coaches at the Tokyo Olympic because they "did not learn their lesson."

The story in Pravda was reported today by Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

At the same time, Tass quoted a story by the Soviet youth organization newspaper that directly criticized head coach Gavril Korobkov for his optimistic statements about Russia's chances before the Games opened.

Korobkov announced his intention to retire soon after the Olympics opened in Tokyo.

According to Tass, the Pravda story said:

"Before the beginning of the Games we heard a lot about 'sure' medals of our sportsmen in such events as the walking races and the javelin and broad jump for women, but our sportsmen won only three bronze medals in these events, showing by far not their best results at that.

"Naturally, it is still early to make any categorical conclusions, but one thing is clear—our coaches did not learn their lesson after the defeat in the dual match with the United States, and were unduly optimistic about the good results shown at the national championships in Kiev."

The youth organization newspaper, Komsomolskaya Pravda had this report from Tokyo:

"We have lost medals in such events as the women's javelin and broad jump, the road walk, the sprints and in the distance races . . . and yet on the eve of the Games numerous claims were made that the Olympics would go well for our track and field athletes.

"As late as in May the senior coach of the USSR track and field squad Gavril Korobkov gave assurances that in the match against the U.S. and in Tokyo the Soviet athletes would show all they had.

"Korobkov was still beating the drums after the big setback in Los Angeles. 'The Americans,' he said, 'are in such form now, in July, as the Soviet sportsmen will attain in October. Our opponents should not rejoice ahead of time. Don't count the chickens before they are hatched.'

"Finally, on the eve of the Games he said: 'Proceeding from the existing balance of forces in athletics, the rates of growth and the level of results we have a good chance of winning the team classification at the 18th Olympic Games.'"

The item from Tass then closes:

"But when it came to count the chickens the Soviet track and field team collected in Tokyo five gold, two silver and 11 bronze medals while the United States team has 14 gold, seven silver and three bronze medals."

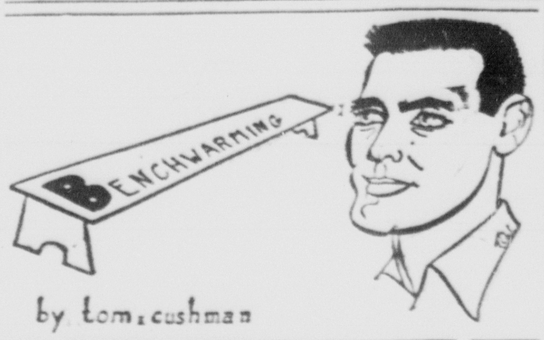
Top Skaters Are Scheduled Here Sunday

Some 150 roller skaters from Colorado and Wyoming were expected to participate in the bi-state inter-club competition this weekend at the Skateland in Colorado Springs.

The one-day competition is scheduled for Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Outstanding skaters expected to compete include past regional and national championship skaters from the local area will be Sharon Klusener, Ron and Sandy Jackson, Pete Buzzetta, Tony Gonzales, Linda Kunrod, Davis Jampole, Fred Drum, Ethel Johnson and Pat Straight who instructs skating and manages Skateland.

In proficiency tests given last Tuesday, 16-year-old Palmer High School student Rudy Valdez set the local skating circuit on its ear by passing seven tests; something never before accomplished in Colorado Springs.



Who's Next, Augie?

Baseball has consistently campaigned behind a facade of manufactured dignity but, alas Mr. Frick, that image came apart at the seams like a Mickey Mantle missile during the past several days. Even the memory of two fine pennant races and one of the more exciting Fall Classics in the past decade cannot restore sanity to a sport that has again been ravaged by suicidal tendencies.

One of the more precise wrap-ups of the World Series aftermath was offered by a friend of mine less than 24 hours after Bobby Richardson had taken the final cut at a Bob Gibson bullet. "Well," he sighed, "I can see tomorrow's headlines now. Berra, Keane, and Khrushchev All Fired the Same Day."

If you think LBJ has an attack of nerves when someone mentions the name Jenkins, consider Frick's state of mind when the poone jingles these days. Especially when his secretary says, "It's Mr. Busch on the line sir. He wants to know if it's all right if he buys CBS so he can get Johnny Keane back from the Yankees."

The state of decay in baseball's front office has been a matter of common knowledge for some time, at least among those with some insight into the game. But the ridiculous proceedings of the past week have made it evident that something must be done quickly or the sport will be beyond salvage.

Frick's primary function during the past couple of summers had been to lead a sort of personal vendetta against that Kansas City rascal, Charlie Finley. Finley, you see, does not project the proper image. I though it would be sort of appropriate if Charlie had offered to put a rocking chair on his Pennant Porch for Frick, or at least signaled a vi[illegible] by the commissioner with a couple of toots on his "homer horns".

But the baseball hierarchy has not been amused by Mr. Finley. A suggestion by Charlie is always assured of being about as popular as the Medicare Bill at a medical convention. And while Frick and the boys grope for ways to discipline Finley, the remainder of the league owners are liscensed to concentrate on other eccentricies which really harm the sport.

With the events of the past week, we don't have to turn to Charlie for laughs anymore. After all, in what other sport can you expect to see the managers of the two pennant winners fired. Then there is the very credulous suspicion that Keane guided the Cardinals in the World Series against a team he already knew he was to manage next spring.

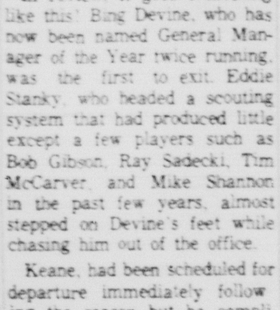
An interesting byplay was the spectacle of the CBS Yankees as a feature act on NBC. Flip the channel and I swear you could see that CBS eye wink.

While a harried press was attempting to anticipate the next move among the managerial forces, baseball's favorite nomads were busily packing their bat bags in Milwaukee. The Braves, who defected from Boston a few years back, are now en route to Atlanta where they expect to perform as diamond samaritans throughout the south. It has not been announced, however, whether or not Hank Aaron, Lee Maye and a few others of the Braves will retain Milwaukee as a legal residence — for voting purposes.

Neither has there been any clarification of just what Yogi's new duties will be since his promotion in the Yankee organization. Perhaps he will be assigned to the scouting staff; only his job will be to locate additional managerial talent just in case Keane wins the pennant again next year.

While the majority of these incidents were interesting — or embarrassing — depending on where the commissioner stands in your regard, there was nothing to equal the fun in St. Louis. After 18 years of pennant drouth it was anticipated that Cardinal fans might tax Augie's reservoir of Budweiser —but the front office celebration was somewhat unexpected.

Busch, who has been susceptible to whim ever since he swapped a few million vats of Bud for the Cardinals, has now fired nearly everyone but himself, therefore bypassing the most logical candidate.



FORD FRICK
Watching the Decay

Those who didn't actually get the axe were ducking when they handed in their resignations. To anyone unaccustomed to the goings - on in St. Louis, it might appear that Busch and those beer cans that flip their lids have something in common.

In review, it goes something like this! Bing Devine, who has now been named General Manager of the Year twice running, was the first to exit. Eddie Stanky, who headed a scouting system that had produced little except a few players such as Bob Gibson, Ray Sadecki, Tim McCarver, and Mike Shannon in the past few years, almost stepped on Devine's feet while chasing him out of the office.

Keane, had been scheduled for departure immediately following the season but he complicated matters by winning the pennant and World Series. Busch, who is well acquainted with the temperment of St. Louis fans, was prepared to wait until the first slump next spring to can his manager when Johnny rescued him by slipping his head in the Yankee noose.

The topper followed when Branch Rickey, who had schooled Busch so successfully in the art of firing valuable aides, then discovered how well the lesson had taken. Rickey was fired, presumably for firing the wrong folks.

All this leaves Stan Musial, a reknowned St. Louis restrauteur who occasionally took time out from charcoaling steaks to punish the right field wall at Busch Stadium, as the head man in the front office. He will be represented on the field by a former roommate, Red Schoendienst, who used to scoop up everything but the infield grass around second base.

These two were obviously chosen to prove to the fans that members of St. Louis' last pennant winner can still walk, although some creaking can be detected.

Bob Howsam, the man from Denver, remains as titular head of the front office but I would imagine that he's keeping in frequent communication with the nearest unemployment office.

That leaves only one thing wrong with the current picture. If Busch has any more pink slips crammed in his pockets, he'd better eat them before he starts leering at Musial and Schoendienst. Cardinal fans have weathered many storms, but their tolerance will not include the disgracing of former heroes of such stature.

Augie enjoyed his decisions in 1964, but he also placed himself at an impasse. Stan and Red may not be the logical men to guide the Cardinals — but he's stuck with them!

St. Louisians love their brew, but even a beer baron who attempts to fire a Musial or Schoendienst will find himself blasted farther out of that city than a Barney Schultz knuckleball.

Koufax, Chance Lead Voting

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles pitchers Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers and Dean Chance of the Angels polled the most votes among players named to The Associated Press' annual major league baseball All-Star team today.

Koufax collected 77 votes and Chance 71 in the balloting by 85 baseball writers. The left-handed Koufax won 19 games before he was sidelined for the year by a sore arm in mid-August. Chance, a right-hander, compiled a 20-9 record.

The Angels also placed shortstop Jim Fregosi on the 10-man team. Three members of the New York Yankees, the American League pennant winners, were chosen. They were outfielder Mickey Mantle, catcher Elston Howard and second baseman Bobby Richardson. First baseman Bill White was the only member of the champion St. Louis Cards selected.

Others named were third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore and outfielders Willie Mays of San Francisco and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh.

The voting was one-sided for each position except outfield and shortstop. Clemente, third in the balloting, had 61 votes followed among the outfielders by Mays with 54 and Mantle 51.

At shortstop, Fregosi had 35 votes and Luis Aparicio of Baltimore collected 24.

In addition to Aparicio, the second team was comprised of first baseman Orlando Cepeda and right-handed pitcher Juan Marichal of San Francisco, outfielder Hank Aaron and catcher Joe Torre of Milwaukee, second baseman Ron Hunt of the New York Mets, third baseman Ken Boyer of St. Louis, outfielders Tony Oliva of Minnesota and Johnny Callison of Philadelphia and southpaw pitcher Gary Peters, Chicago White Sox.

Coach Praises Teamwork In St Mary's Upset Win

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

"We succeeded in ending their (Regis) winning streak after seven years and our victory must be credited as an entire group effort," a jubilant Chuck Haering related during practice drills this week in regards to St. Mary's 28-7 sterling victory over Regis.

Although Haering called the Regis win a team effort, the Mary's grid boss who is in his third term had special praise for slot back Chris White and guard Dan Gleeson for their outstanding performance.

White scored two touchdowns which ignited the Pirates offense against the upstate Raiders. Fullback Sam Zavatti and guard Rich Mainrer scored the other two TDs to pull out the victory last Sunday at Wasson Stadium.

This was the first victory for St. Mary's against Regis on the gridiron, despite the fact that the Buccaneers captured the Denver Parochial League playoff ing the Raiders, Mullen and the Pirates two years ago.

That year all three teams suffered a single setback and were deadlocked in a three-way tie for the DPL. The single game playoff pitted Mullen against Regis and the Mustangs emerged the winner in the first half but succumbed to St. Mary's in the final half.

In seven years of DPL competition, the St. Mary's football editions failed to stop Regis, despite the fact that four years ago the Bucs had the Raiders by 20 points at halftime but still lost.

But the Regis jinx was broken last Sunday as the Pirates gave the nearly 2,500 Homecoming crowd something to cheer about as they waxed the Raiders.

Not only did the Bucs beat the mighty Raiders on the scoreboard, but Haering's charges took control of the game statistics compiling 188 yards rushing to their opponents' mere 65 yards rushing. The Pirates picked up 13 first down, compared to the Raiders' nine.

Individually, the Bucs' 130-pound running back Gary Dobson was tops in rushing. Dobson picked up 64 yards rushing for 11 carries with Zavatti second via 59 yards and White was next with 50 yards.

The victory maintained second place for the Pirates with Regis close behind in third place. St. Mary's has a 5-1 won-loss record in DPL while the Raiders are 4-1 in league play. Overall, the Bucs are 7-1, losing that single outing to the DPL pace setters Mullen.

After posting an impressive 12-7 victory over the 1963 State Class-AA champion Cheyenne Mountain in their campaign opener, the St. Mary's gridders posted three straight additional victories before losing to the explosive Mullen eleven.

Now the Pirates must play the waiting game to decide their further chances of getting another shot at the DPL title. The Bucs' future depends on what Mullen does in its last four games including the DPL finale against Regis, Nov. 15.

Should Mullen lose a single game and the Pirates and Raiders continue to win, the DPL would again end in deadlock between these three consistent league giants.

Lakers, Pistons Post Wins

BALTIMORE (AP) — Elgin Baylor's injured knees are giving him less trouble; Wilt Chamberlain's stomach ailment finally has been diagnosed and he is ready to leave the hospital.

Both health reports can only make the rest of the National Basketball Association clubs sick at heart.

With Chamberlain still in a Philadelphia hospital, the winless San Francisco Warriors dropped their third straight decision Wednesday night 108-104 to the Detroit Pistons.

Baylor, given about 10 minutes of rest on the bench under doctor's orders, missed 10 of his first 11 shots but still managed to score 23 points as the Los Angeles Lakers downed the Baltimore Bullets 108-105 in the only other game on Wednesday's card.

Tonight's schedule lists a doubleheader at Philadelphia, with the 76ers hosting Baltimore after the Pistons play the Boston Celtics.

Reggie Harding paced Detroit with 22 points as the Pistons won their first game of the season. His hook shot with 50 seconds left eased the pressure after the Warriors pulled to within two points of a tie.

Guy Rodgers topped San Francisco with 20 while Nate Thurmond, Chamberlain's replacement at center, scored 19.

While the Warriors were losing in Detroit, the front office announced in San Francisco that Chamberlain's mysterious ailment has been diagnosed as inflammation of the pancreas.

The condition can be controlled by medication and diet, and the 7-foot-1 scoring ace may rejoin the team at home Friday. But since he was placed on the injured reserve list, Wilt won't be eligible to play until Oct. 31.

Baylor, who still doesn't drive as of old, hit on one-handers and fadeaway hooks after recovering from his ragged start. He also led the Lakers with 18 rebounds despite the calcium deposits on the tendons above both knees.

Seven YAL Football Teams Undefeated

Seven teams still hold undefeated records in the Young America League football program. But the Lightweight Bears probably have one of the most unusual records in the league.

The Bears, contending for the American League title in the Lightweight Division, have won a game and have tied three, losing none. They are contending with two undefeated but once - tied teams, the Braves and Hawks.

Other undefeated teams are the Indians and Wolfpack (3-0) of the National League Lightweights, the middleweight Rams (6-0) and the Braves (5-0) of the heavyweights.

CARTY IS A COMER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — For Rico Carty, the .327 average he compiled in 1963 for Austin in the Texas League was no fluke.

The Puerto Rican outfielder did even better with the Milwaukee Braves this year. He batted .330, second best figure in the National League. He's only 25 and in 1962 he hit .366 for Yakima, Wash.

Czechs Are Hit by Nikita's Fall

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Czechoslovakia seems likely to feel the impact of Nikita Khrushchev's fall more than the other Communist nations of Eastern Europe.

President Antonin Novotny relied on steady support from Khrushchev through a series of troubles that might have jarred other Communist leaders off the throne.

Well-informed sources interviewed by this correspondent in the past few days have speculated on the possibility that, with Khrushchev gone, Novotny may also tumble.

Others felt he is fairly safe.

But many Communist figures doubtless look upon this week's meeting of the Czechoslovak party's Central Committee as a critical one. Although there has been no announcement of the subjct before the meeting, few seem to doubt that Khrushchev's ouster is topic No. 1.

The Soviet shakeup came just as Czechoslovakia was launching a radical new economic plan designed to pull the country out of a slide.

While most other countries, East and West, were reporting industrial progress, Czechoslovakia suffered a reverse in 1963 and fell below the previous year in general production.

Nobody here is sure just what to expect of the new Soviet setup.

Neither Leonid I. Brezhnev, the new party first secretary, nor Alexei N. Kosygin, the new premier, was ever as warm toward Novotny as Khrushchev was. A cold breath from the new government in Moscow could crack the whole party structure.

There is much privately expressed discontent with the performance of both the party and the economy. De-Stalinization has not moved as fast as in other countries.

President Novotny was in charge of the party and the government both before and after Khrushchev launched the de-Stalinization drive.

For three years or more there have been persistent forecasts by Western observers that he soon would be out of office. Instead, last year he tossed out his whole government and built it anew as if to demonstrate that he was still in the saddle.

'Duke' Goes For Fifth Racing Win

El Camino Duke, the pride of the Frank Pierce Kennels that won the 1964 RMKC $2,500 Puppy Stake Crown last week, will be hitting the Peak Course at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club tonight in the featured ninth race as he tries for his fifth straight win.

Since winning the coveted Puppy Stake honor last week, he has added another win to his lines when he finished Monday night ahead of Wayward Abe, Scrooge Mosher and Happy Hook.

Traveling in company with The Duke tonight will be, (in post position order), Honeymooner, Diamond Star, Apache Rex, T. V. Tobin, Tell You Cal, (El Camino Duke), Silk Angel and Bayou Lady.

A kennel-mate of The Duke Betty Babe, captured the Sprint Championship Title at RMKC Wednesday night as she coursed the Peak Course on 1710 feet in a recorded time of 32.65 to finish better than a length ahead the Cen-Tex Kennels. Breaking second from the six box, she maintained her position around the oval as Cecil Wilson's Tough Stock, and Rolling Julius took turns in the lead.

Paying across the board at $10.20, $5.40 and $4, it was $3.80 and $2.60 for Rolling Julius' place finish and $3.60 for Vinnie Kaup who brought in show honors. Also rans, in the order of their finish were Tough Stock, Intelligency, Mr. Cane, Dan Onery and Another Johnny, (who for the first time finished last in a race on the RMKC oval), after being crowded early.

Betty Babe's win assured her of a berth in the Derby Elimination races scheduled on Saturday. The Derby Eliminations, scheduled over the longer Springs Course of 2080 feet, will be the ninth and 11th events on the 11 race card of Saturday.

Duke and Georgia Tech began their football rivalry in 1893. Prior to their 1964 game (Oct. 31) they each won 15 times. One game was a tie.

Trojan 'Horses' Stampede Over Manitou's Mustangs in 27-6 Victory

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The visiting Fountain Trojans turned a couple of their backs into wooden horses and Manitou Springs' Mustangs let them through the gate as Fountain scored a 27-6 Pikes Peak League victory Wednesday night.

Jim Daniels, run-pass threat at halfback, did more than just threaten as he gained 39 yards on seven carries, completed a touchdown pass, ran for two other TDs and converted an extra point. Fullback Joe Martinez led the powerful Trojan ground game with 114 yards on 23 carries. Martinez scored a touchdown and ran two extra points.

The combination of those two erased any chance Manitou had of picking up its third victory of the season as the Mustangs mustered only 81 yards rushing and couldn't complete any of nine passes.

Fountain gave fair warning it meant to stay in the thick of the PPL pennant parade as the Trojans controlled the ball in the first half and refused to share the pikskin with the Mustangs. Manitou ran only five plays the first quarter and 13 the first half. Fountain ran 18 plays in the first quarter alone.

Daniels put his team on the scoreboard in the first period after two Manitou drives ended in fumbles. Steve Gerliman started on his own 22 and ran around right end to the Manitou 43. Then Daniels launched a wide-open pass to end David Ury, who went in untouched. Daniels ran for the extra point and Fountain never gave up the lead.

Manitou struck back early in the second quarter as Jim Fenton punted, only one of two punts Fountain needed. But Marv Layman grabbed the ball on his own 23 and walked the right sideline to the goal for Manitou's only score. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Fountain couldn't keep a drive going the rest of the half, but bounced back hard in the third period. Manitou fumbled the opening kickoff on its own 45 and Martinez and Dan Grigsby led a four-play drive to the six, from where Daniels plowed through. Martinez ran the first of his extra points.

The bone-grabbing cold set in on Fountain's fingers and the Trojans gave away two fumbles in the third quarter, but Manitou couldn't take advantage. In the fourth quarter John Moore lofted a high punt for only 11 yards to his own 43 and Fountain marched straight back to the five, from where Martinez skirted right end and went around and through two would-be tacklers for the score. He converted and put the game out of reach.

But Daniels wasn't through as Fountain forced Manitou to punt for the seventh time in the game and the 178-pound halfback went over from the seven. A dropkick for the extra point failed with 1:11 left and Manitou couldn't complete four straight passes in an attempt to get back on the scoreboard.

Manitou ran from scrimmage inside Fountain territory on only two occasions. Once the Mustangs got to the 25 in the first period, when they fumbled. Another time they made it to the 44 but were forced to punt.

The PPL takes a long breather until its next set of games. Fountain will host Crowley County Oct. 30. Manitou will travel to Fowler the same night.

FLAME-OUT FOR THE JET—John (the Jet) Moore, speedy Manitou halfback, was stopped by Fountain back Steve Gerliman in this first quarter action Wednesday night. End Terry Kent (84) came up to assist Gerliman. Fountain held Moore to 39 yards in picking up a 27-6 Pikes Peak League victory.

Florence Moves Two Games Closer to Title; Tops CC

Florence moved closer to the Pikes Peak League championship Wednesday with a resounding 48-13 victory over Crowley County, but still has two hangers-on just one game behind.

Fountain stayed in title contention by downing Manitou Springs, 27-6, and Salida whipped Buena Vista, 23-6, to tie Fountain's 4-1 record.

In the only other game played Wednesday, Leadville gained its first PPL win by edging Fowler, 13-7.

Florence scored 21 points in the first quatrer and added 14 in the second to put the game completely out of reach. The Chargers thus suffered their second loss and were knocked out of the league flag race.

Dick Shadwell scored three touchdowns for the Huskies and raised his league-leading total to 61 points. Dick Cristelli equalled a touchdown by kicking six extra points. Other Florence TDs were scored by Bob Trujillo, Ray Moore and Virgil Lawson and Cristelli.

Jack Hasley scored Leadville's two touchdowns, getting the first on a 19-yard sprint, then bringing the Panthers from a 7-6 deficit with less than four minutes to play on a one-yard plunge. Fowler scored in the second period as Ellis Berumma went over from the one and ran the extra point.

Quarterback Norm Williams led the Salida attack, scoring one touchdown, passing for another and gaining two extra points. Buena Vista's only score came in the first period when Mel Nachtrieb passed to John Forman.

The PPL teams rest until Oct. 30. On that date Manitou Springs is at Fowler, Fountain hosts Crowley County and Buena Vista is at Florence. Salida hosts Leadville on Saturday.

Eddie Belt Set to Start For Rams

FORT COLLINS, Colo (AP)—Colorado State University quarterback Eddie Belt—carried off the field last week is the CSU-Utah game—is expected to start Saturday against Utah State, Coach Mike Lude reported today.

Belt injured his rib cage in last week's contest—but he was back in scrimmage Wednesday. Phisicians said no bones were broken.

But Lude said another injured player—fullback Al Lear—was still on the doubtful list for this week's trip to Logan, Utah. Lear re-injured his right knee last weekend.

The Rams began tapering-off drills Wednesday, and were scheduled to continue them today. Lude said another light drill might be held Friday after the Rams arrive at Logan.

Palmer Tops Australian Tournament

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — America's Arnold Palmer took a one-shot lead today in the first round of the Wills Masters Golf Tournament at the Victoria Club.

Palmer went around the 6,755-yard course in 67, clipping six strokes from par.

South African Cobie Legrange and Australian Bruce Devlin, each at 68, and Australian Kel Nagle at 69 are Palmer's closest pursuers.

Tied at 70 are Ron Howell of Rockville, Md., asd Guy Wostenholme of England, with Bruce Crampton of Australia next at 71.

Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, mixed bad golf with some brilliant shots for a 72.

Palmer gave a great exhibition with birdies on six of the first 11 holes. He made only one real mistake in the round — at the 160-yard 14th, where he overclubbed, found a bunker and dropped a shot — but he made amends with fine birdie 4 on the 490-yard 18th.

"I am satisfied — if it is ever possible to be satisfied with a round of golf," Palmer said.

"I played well over the first nine, and although I didn't play well coming back, I had only the one bad hole and a few minor misses."

Nicklauh ruined his score with one slice which led to a triple bogey 7 on the 445-yard 12th. He hit the ball behind a tree, hit branch and dropped short. Coming out, he was short again with the next and finished by three putting.

"I only hit a few bad shots," he said, "but they cost me plenty."

THREE SETS OF BROTHERS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — When third basemen Ken Boyer of the Cardinals and Clete Boyer of the Yankees opposed each other in the World Series they made it the third brother act in the fall classic.

The last brothers to play on rival teams in a Series were outfielders Emil (Irish) Meusel of the Giants and Bob Meusel of the Yankees. They were rivals in 1921, 22, 23, 24. First brother act in a series included Jimmy and Wheeler Johnston in 1920. Jimmy played third base for the Dodgers and Wheeler held down first base for the Indians.

Since 1957 the number of golf courses in Japan has risen from 50 to 313.

Local D&B School Enters Black Forest Loop Activity

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Determined to compete on the same level as the "normal" athletes, the Colorado Deaf and Blind school football team is presently engaged in its first sanctioned league competition under the Colorado High School Activities Association.

The D&B football team was officially entered into the state association last spring and this fall the local team was made an active member of the Class-A Black Forest League, which has five public schools engaged in eight-man football. They are Palmer-Lewis high school, Monument; Simla, Kiowa, Cripple Creek and Fairplay.

In addition to competing in football in the Black Forest League, the D&B school will also compete in basketball, track and wrestling.

Under the direction of head coach Dan Lynch, the D&B grid team has compiled a 2-2 won-loss record in league competition and the Bulldogs conclude their 1964 campaign against Simla here, Oct. 30. Overall, the Bulldogs are 2-3, losing their third encounter to the Fountain Valley Boys school team.

For the past 50 years the D&B school has produced football teams but they were engaged in 11-man football play. This season was a complete transition to eight-man football but the Bulldogs, despite the fact that six of the starting eight are sophomores, have managed to field a strong running team.

Eight-man football, with the exception of playing on a smaller field (40 yards by 80 yards) and restricted to eight men on a team, uses basically the same rules as 11-man football.

But according to Ron Tuebner, D&B athletic director and assistant football coach, eight-man requires a different approach to the game and usually requires players that can run faster than their 11-man counterparts.

"Size doesn't mean as much in eight-man football. A smaller youngster with speed and aggressiveness is more effective than a big, slower player," Tuebner pointed out.

In 8-man football, there are five linemen including a center, two guards and two ends with three backs (quarterback and two halfbacks). The defense will vary but basically, they use three formations including three, four and five man lines.

Tuebner pointed out that the only disadvantage for the D&B players, because of their hearing handicap, is verbal signals on defense. This is especially true when the D&B defensive secondary is covering the opposition's passing.

Offensively, the Bulldogs manage to execute their plays with each player watching the ball and going with the snap. The center gets the signal to snap the ball on a designated tap from the quarterback.

The Bulldogs' leading ground gainer is halfback Billy Krohn, who picked up 353 net yards rushing in four games, followed by quarterback Eldon Ragland with 256 yards. Walter VonFeldt, the Bulldogs' left halfback, posted 137 net yards rushing in four games.

In the line, the D&B forward charge is anchored by the outstanding defensive play of 170-pound guard Butch Breuning who has averaged 11 tackles per game. Other leading linemen including 150-pound guard Billy Wolfinbarger with 41 tackles in four games; end Dan Lawson who leads the team in pass receiving via 151 yards; and end Steve Calderone.

Warriors Lose Again; May Get Wilt Back

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain may return to action on Oct. 31 and help pull his San Francisco Warrior basketball teammates out of their early season doldrums. He will sit on the bench Friday night.

The 7-foot-1 center's mysterious stomach trouble was diagnosed Wednesday as inflammation of the pancreas. Doctors in Philadelphia, where Chamberlain is hospitalized, said the condition may be controlled by medication and diet.

Moore Says Colts Success 'Team Effort'

BALTIMORE (AP) — It's referred to variously as a "strong bench" or "depth and team effort."

Halfback Lenny Moore sums it up for the Baltimore Colts as "40 by 40 effort."

It's his way of saying there are no deadheads on the 40-man squad.

Reminded this week of his earlier description, Moore nodded his head and said, "Yes, and it's the first time we had it."

In this care, Moore, who played on the 1958-59 National Football League champions, had in mind better fortification with substitutes.

Coach Don Shula doesn't hesitate in making substitutions at several key positions and the result has been to spur all hands.

Moore is an example himself.

At the start of the season, he was running behind Tom Matte, who had filled in while Moore was injured last season. It was the second straight season Moore had been hurt and the Colts let it be known he was trade bait. Nobody offered a satisfactory swap and Moore was kept for his eighth season.

It could be his best. He has scored 10 touchdowns in six games and close followers say his ninth against the Green Bay Packers last Sunday was the crowning achievement from the standpoint of sheer effort.

Starting from the 21, Moore burst through the right side of the Packer line and encountered head-on all NFL tackle Henry Jordan and Hank Gremminger.

He tore loose from them and cut to his left where Jesse Whittenton jumped on from behind. Moore carried Whittenton eight yards on his back before shaking him off and going in to score. Jordan had to be helped to his feet and off the field.

"He just wouldn't go down," praised Coach Shula. "Lenney's been at his best when he points were on the line."

The 21-yard run put Baltimore ahead 17-14 and he scored the 24-21 clincher on a five-yard charge. The performance won him the selection by The Associated Press as NFL back of the week.

Matte still relieves Moore in spots and has an 89-yard touchdown run to his credit.

Against the Packers, Jerry Hill was absent and Tony Lorick, a rookie, took up the slack with no noticeable difference. John Mackey, tight end, who has been hampered so far this season by a leg injury was replaced at times by Butch Wilson who caught a pass in each of three Colt scoring drives.

On defense, Guy Reese played the first half at tackle. In the second, Billy Ray Smith took his place and deflected a field goal try which was turned into the winning touchdown.

Besides kicking seven field goals, Lou Michaels has been giving Gino Marchetti a chance to catch his breath at defensive end. The Colts lost linebacker Jackie Burkett early in the season and Don Shinnick stepped in with two pass interceptions, including one that saved the first victory over the Packers Sept. 20.

Tom Gilburg's punting wasn't up to snuff last Sunday and in went Joe Don Looney, the rookie. He boomed it 47 yards.

"It's what you've got to have, men who work as hard as anyone else in the background and are ready to pull out of trouble when the call comes," says Coach Shula. "And if those boys are not ready, you're dead."

The Colts are living high on a "40 by 40 effort."

Centennial Loop Powers Post Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Aurora Central and Boulder —the two undefeated giants of Colorado triple-A football — remained tied today in the Centennial League lead. Central whipped Englewood 40 - 32 Wednesday night and Boulder tromped Littleton 26-0.

Both teams are now 5-0.

The Trojans managed to pile up a 27-12 lead by the end of three quarters. Englewood tthreatened toward the end, scoring three touchdowns in the final period.

Boulder scored in every quarter—sparked by Phil Irwin, who accousted for two TDs.

In the triple-A Northern Conference, Loveland and Poudre Valley of Fort Collins remain tied for the lead. Loveland trounced Longmont 14 - 6 Wednesday night, and Poudre drew a bye.

Loveland dominated play all the way from the first play when halfback John Ramirez grabbed the opening kickoff on the 31-yard line and ran 69 yards for the touchdown.

Loveland and Poudre are both 4-0.

Fleming and Merino are now tied for first in the lower Platte Valley Class A eight-man league. A week from now they'll play to determine which team represents the league in quarterfinals. Both are 6-1.

Fleming drubbed Crook 52-6 Wednesday night behind halfback Ray Decker, who intercepted two passes for touchdowns, and quarterback Jerry Swedlund, who ran for three TDs.

Merino downed Peetz 32-13.

Ranum continued to lead Skyline League standings, defeating Mapleton 13-7 in the final minutes Wednesday night. The Raiders scored the final touchdown with one minute 12 seconds remaining in the game, to pull out of a 6-7 deficit. It was Ranum's eighth straight victory.

National League Owners Expected To Approve Braves Franchise Shift

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — National League club owners met today to consider the transfer of the Milwaukee franchise to Atlanta for 1965 but a bare-knuckle fight between the Braves and Milwaukee officials raised speculation as to what action— if any—the owners would take.

The Braves' board of directors voted Wednesday to move the team—for the second time in 11 years—and the owners were expected to approve the shift.

But several hours after the club's decision to quit Milwaukee was announced, a temporary injunction was obtained by Milwaukee County officials restraining the Braves from moving or from seeking permission to move.

Whether the unprecedented legal maneuver would serve to block the club owners' action at today's special meeting in a mid-town hotel oculd not be determined. Legal papers apparently would have to be served here prior to the meeting.

League President Warren Giles said Wednesday night he had not been informed of the injunction and planned to go ahead with the meeting. He would seek legal counsel, he said, if it became neecssary.

Milwaukee's legal counterpunch followed a 12-6 vote by the Braves' directors, meeting in Chicago, to shift the club.

The injunction forbids the Braves from applying to either the president of the league or the owners of other clubs for sanction to move. It temporarily prohibits the Braves, who have a year remaining on their County Stadium contract, from arranging, agreeing to play or scheduling any 1965 games at any site other than Milwaukee.

Braves representatives were ordered by Circuit Judge Ronald Drechsler to appear next Tuesday to show cause why the injuntcion should not be made permanent.

Until the legal bombshell was dropped it appeared certain that the owners would approve the shift. Approval by six of the other nine clubs was needed and no serious opposition was foreseen.

Chicago Cubs owner P. K. Wrigley indicated how the vote probably would go. "I did not oppose the Braves' move from Boston to Milwaukee although it brought them into our territory," he said. "I will be consistent and not oppose their move to Atlanta."

Other officials, including George Weiss and Roy Hofheinz, presidents of the New York Mets and Houston Colts—the league's expansion clubs — indicated they would go into the meeting with open minds.

"We'll have to get both angles on the thing, Milwaukee's and Atlanta's," Weiss said.

Several owners, including those of the Pittsburgh Pirates, had said previously they would not oppose such a move.

The southern exodus of the Braves, charter members of the National League who moved from Boston to Milwaukee in 1953, was approved at a closed, two-hour conference—one day after league President Warren Giles called the New York meeting "to further discuss the situation and take action thereon."

After the directors' meeting, newsmen, including one from Atlanta, were handed a prepared statement by Braves' publicity director Ernie Johnson. The terse statement announced the decision to move the franchise but gave no reasons for the shift, explaining that Giles had asked that no information be released until after the New York session.

"Shortly thereafter," the statement read, "the Braves' management will release a detailed statement outlining all the various considerations for any action taken."

Although the Braves won't say so publicly, contributing factors to the decision included dwindling attendance and insufficient radio and television revenue.

Rumors of the move to Atlanta were circulated as early as the spring of 1963, shortly after Lou Perini sold controlling interest in the club to a syndicate of Chicago businessmen, headed by Bill Bartholomay.

Attendance had dipped from a high of 2,215,404 in 1957—when the Braves won the NL pennant and defeated the New York Yankees in the World Series—to 766,927 in 1962.

Bartholomay repeatedly denied the reports while Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. insisted that a major league club had given him a firm commitment to move to the Georgia city.

Wednesday's decision to transfer the club was opposed by six directors headed by Edmund B. Fitzgerald of Milwaukee, who said after the meeting the move would be detrimental to the Braves and to baseball in general and would "violate the public trust which has been placed in this organization."

Fitzgerald criticized Bartholomay and Braves President John McHale, both absent from the meeting, for their previous statements indicating the team would remain in Milwaukee.

Although the NL constitution requires approval by three-fourths of the 10 clubs—technically 7½ votes—for a franchise shift, the league nnterprets this to mean seven votes. The rule, drafted prior to expansion, originally called for six of eight votes.

Commissioner Ford Frick did not attend today's meeting, explaining that "it is a league matter." He said he had sent the league all the information and figures available to him.

Frick recently had asked the Braves to "give it (the transfer) a good, long look and then look again."

The Braves' decision to quit Milwaukee, coming on the heels of managerial changes by both the National and American League pennant winners, provided another bizarre element to the aftermath of the 1964 season, which ended a week ago with the St. Louis Cardinals' World Series victory over the New York Yankees.

Johnny Keane resigned as manager of the Cardinals and was hired by the Yankees, who had dismissed Yogi Berra. Red Schoendienst inherited the Cardinal job. Dick Sisler replaced the ailing Fred Hutchinson as manager of the Cincinnati Reds and Harry Walker succeeded Danny Murtaugh as pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Last week Cleveland Indians directors decided to remain in Cleveland for at least one more year, dispelling reports of an American League shift.

Maryland football coach Tom Nugent is a native of Lawrence, Mass. He was a star athete at Ithaca College.

Montreal Ties To Take Lead In NHL Race

CHICAGO (AP) — Montreal took over the National Hockey League lead with a 5-5 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday night.

The Canadiens remain unbeaten in four games with two ties to bag six points. Chicago has five points and shares second place with Toronto. However, the Maple Leafs can regain the lead with a victory at Boston tonight in the only game scheduled.

Chico Maki's goal in the third period pulled the Hawks into the stalemate at Montreal after Chicago blew an early three-goal lead. The Canadiens struck for five second-period scores with unaided goals by Jacques Laperriere and Ralph Backstrom within eight seconds, capping the rally.

In New York, a deflection by Detroit's Norm Ullman provided a third-period tally and a 1-0 victory for the Red Wings. It ended a duel of goalies between Detroit rookie Roger Crozier and the Rangers' Marcel Paille.

Paille kicked out 36 shots, but some of them were especially good.

TWINS GET A CHAMP

MINNESOTA (AP) — Pedro (Tony) Oliva, the 24-year-old Cuban outfielder who reached this country on his older brother's passport, is the first member of the Minnesota Twins to lead the American League in batting. Oliva, a rookie who hit .304 for Dallas - Fort Worth in the Pacific Coast League in 1963, batted .323.

Oliva made 217 hits, top figure in both leagues.

The former Twins were the Washington Senators and their last batting champion was first baseman Mickey Vernon who hit .337 in 1953 to lead the league for the second time.

CLEMENTE CLICKS AGAIN

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente, Puerto Rican right fielder for the Pirates, is the first Pittsburgh batter to win the hitting title in the National League a second time since the days of Paul Waner.

Paul, known as Big Poison, hit .380 in 1927, repeated in 1934 with .362 and led for a third time in 1936 with .373.

Clemente, who was drafted from the Dodgers' Montreal team in the fall of 1954, batted .351 to lead the National League in 1961 and this year he hit .339 to pace both leagues.

He suffered a 12-stitch stake cut over his right temple in the first period but made a great comeback after being treated. The cut came from teammate Arnie Brown's skates as the defenseman made a dive to clear the puck.

THINKING OF NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK (AP) — The experimental stage division at Lincoln Center is examining scripts already for the first season a year hence.

They are taking place in Beaumont Theater that is to be the permanent home of the center's repertory company.

Among plays under consideration are works by Harold Pinter, Max Frisch and Friedrich Duerrenmatt.

Nikita Was Brought Back Under Arrest

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev was brought back from vacation virtually under arrest to face the Communist party meeting that ousted him, reliable sources said today.

Five officials of the Committee of State Security—the secret police—were sent from Moscow to get Khrushchev after he argued over the telephone against attending, the sources said.

The informants gave this account:

The meeting had been carefully arranged in advance. The charges were drawn up: Bungling the Red China dispute, industrial and agricultural failures personal excesses, and creation of a personality cult.

Khruschev, who personally chose many of the members of the party's Central Committee, suddenly found himself opposed by his proteges and ousted.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, the man Khrushchev had been believed to favor as his eventual successor, became the successor as the party's first secretary with unexpected speed. Alexei N. Kosygin moved up from first deputy premier to take over Khrushchev's premiership.

Since that time, a week ago today, Khrushchev has been under restrictions on his movements. He is believed to be in the Moscow area, although there is a conflict on exactly where. One story is that he is in a four-room apartment with a view of the Kremlin.

There was no confirmation.

Khrushchev went on vacation in late September to his villa on the Black Sea at Gagra, 875 miles south of Moscow.

Litterbugs Have New Enemy - on Wings

NEW YORK (AP)—Litterbugs have a new enemy—on wings.

Two states are now using aircraft to spot dispensers of litter, reports Keep America Beautiful, the national antilitter organization.

In New Jersey helicopters patrol off-shore waters. They warn water-borne litterbugs through loudspeakers and when things get out of hand, radio patrol launches move in for arrests.

Loudspeaker - equipped airplanes, provided by the Wisconsin Conservation Department, have been used for the past three years in a concerted antilitter program along the 284-mile river reaches of the Upper Mississippi River Wildlife and Fish Refuge. The planes warn litterbugs and coordinate activities of ground and water-borne patrols.

Foundation Herds Cut on Ranches

FORT COLLINS (UPI) — Many ranches in Colorado may have to cut foundation herd numbers for winter carry-over, a Colorado State University extension farm management specialist said Tuesday.

Ken Jameson, the specialist, said a possible reason was the recent losses on feed cattle for feeders and their bankers. He said feeders were reluctant to buy replacement cattle for their feedlots because they feel feeder prices still are too high.

The agriculture specialist said the price spread between the weekly average price of slaughter steers at Chicago and feeder steers at Kansas City was the widest in several years.

REVEILLE FOR HOOVER—A lone trumpeter, Airman 3. C. Ken Mitchell of the North American Air Defense Command Band, plays Reveille as the United States and Canadian flags at Ent Air Force Base are lowered to half-mast for a 30-day mourning period for former President Herbert Hoover who died Monday in New York City. The Air Defense Command Honor Guard and members of the 4600th Air Police Squadron participated in the brief sunrise ceremony on Wednesday.

Bomb Is Delivered To Red Headquarters

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said a live bomb packaged like a book was delivered through the mail to the offices of the Communist paper, Daily Worker. It was disarmed Wendesday by a police bomb squad.

The building housing the offices of the paper was evacuated while police worked on the explosive.

Lt. Kenneth O'Neill of the police bomb squad said the package bore a label of the "Modern Book Store, 56 East Chicago Ave., Chicago, Ill."

He said the package was about 10 inches long and eight inches wide.

He said the device — a six-inch length of galvanized pipe containing the explosive material — was wrapped in a black cardboard case and covered with brown paper.

O'Neill said the pipe contained two ounces of smokeles gun powder and a quantity of metallic wool to which was attached a wire connected to three small batteries.

DON'T CALL US!

LOS TEQUES, Venezuela (UPI)—The fire department in this provincial capital has five full-time firemen and 24 volunteers, but no fire engine.

The city's principal piece of fire-fighting eequipment is the telephone on the firehouse wall. In case of a fire too big to be fought by the department's four hand extinguishers, somebody calls for a fire engine from Caracas, 15 miles away.

Five Brothers Are Given Their Sight

CALTANISSETTA, Sicily (AP) — In a darkened clinic room Tuesday with only one lamp burning, Dr. Luigi Picardo took the bandages off the eyes of five brothers blind since birth.

Calogero Rotolo, 4, the youngest, stared in amazement, then cried out "La caravata!" and reached out timidly to touch the doctor's necktie.

Giuseppe, 9, who saw his mother for the first time, sobbed only "Mamma!"

One after another Gioacchino, 11; Carmello, 13, and Paolo, 15, sat up and blinked at the light. Each one could see.

"It was an enormous relif," said the doctor who had operated to remove cataracts which had left each of the brothers blind from birth.

"I was afraid that with one or two of them the operation might be less successful. Psychologically it would have been a terrible blow to one alone to be left blind."

RAINS TRIGGER FLOOD

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) —Floods caused by the heaviest rainfall in 50 years killed at least one person and caused extensive damage in Cordoba Province this week.

Seven inches of rain fell on the province over the weekend, and the weatherman said more precipitation may be on the way.

Water was five feet deep in the streets of the village of Impira. Emergency shelter for villagers driven from their homes was provided by authorities in the nearby town of Oncativo.
